$100,000 MORE IS PLEDGED

BRITISH AID TO COX CHARGED

Congressman Britten Says $87,500 Allowance to Ambassador Went to Democratic Fund.

The total amount of money raised by the Republican National Committee since the nomination of Senator Harding is only $944,353.82, according to a statement made yesterday by Fred W. Upham, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, at Republican National Headquarters here. Mr. Upham said that this amount had been paid in actual cash, and that there were in addition about $100,000 more in pledges which had not been collected.

Mr. Upham said he could not imagine how Governor Cox obtained the impression that the Republican national organization was collecting a $15,000,000 campaign fund, as Governor Cox has charged in his speeches, and said he was very glad that the Senate Investigating Committee was taking the matter up.

"I would have very much regretted it if I had not been called by the Senate committee," Mr. Upham said when asked if he was to testify at Chicago next Monday.

"Chairman Hays's statement that our budget is only $3,000,000 is correct," said Mr. Upham. "But since Senator Harding's nomination only $944,353.82 has been collected for the national campaign, as our books will show. To the best of my knowledge, no single contribution of more than $1,000 has been received since the national convention."

Mr. Upham said he believed that Governor Cox, to reach his $15,000,000 estimate, must have taken the amount raised by the Republicans of Ohio and multiplied it by forty-eight, the total number of States.

Regarding Governor Cox's recent assertion that $700,000 was to be collected by the Republicans in "one place," presumably Chicago, Mr. Upham explained that this amount was the quota for Illinois, but that it was for national, State and county purposes combined, most of it for the last named purpose.

Both Will H. Hays, Republican National Chairman, and George White, Democratic National Chairman, received invitations from the Senate Committee yesterday to testify in Chicago next Monday, and both replied that they would be there.

"I have been talking with Wilbur W. Marsh, Treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, since I saw you yesterday," said Mr. White to a group of newspaper reporters. "I think that we will be able to furnish the Senate committee with a few leads."

SAYS DEMOCRATS GOT $87,500 FROM BRITISH

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Direct charges that the British Government has helped and would help further in financing the Democratic national campaign were made today in a statement by Congressman Fred A. Britten of the Ninth Illinois District in a statement given out at Republican national headquarters here. Congressman Britten in his statement declared that the facts concerning the alleged British contribution would be brought out in the investigation to be held by the Senate sub-committee headed by Senator Kenyon of Iowa.

"The pending investigation will show," he says in his statement, "that the British Parliament recently appropriated $87,500 in favor of the British Ambassador at Washington for 'entertainment purposes' and that this fund has already found its way to the Democratic National Committee, where it will no doubt be followed by ten times that amount should it be made evident that this new disciple of Wilson can win with money rather than on honest issues."

Congressman Britten predicted in the statement that the investigation would prove beyond a doubt that the repeated assertions of Governor Cox about a $15,000,000 Republican fund are without foundation and that the Governor is "playing peanut politics far beneath the dignity of the office to which he aspires."

Senator Kenyon, Chairman of the Senate Sub-Committee, was the only member in the city today. He visited Republican national headquarters before his departure for Iowa before the statement by Congressman Britten was issued, so that he could not comment upon it or say whether the Congressman would be called as a witness before the investigating committee.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—It developed today that the investigation begun by the Federal Grand Jury into alleged profiteering on the part of retail clothing dealers was really the beginning of a new nation-wide investigation of profiteering along all lines. In launching the investigation District Attorney Charles F. Clyne is acting on orders received from Attorney General Palmer.

Assistant Attorney General Armin W. Riley, special representative of Attorney General Palmer, who is here, will make the investigation in Chicago a part of that to be carried on in every part of the country.

Expert witnesses will be summoned to testify as to present costs and selling prices.

The inquiry, which will occupy several weeks, will investigate charges of profiteering in clothing, fuel and foodstuffs.

COX OFFERS HELP TO FUND COMMITTEE

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 24.—Governor Cox sent a telegram tonight to Senator William S. Kenyon, Chairman of the Senate sub-committee investigating campaign contributions, in which he announced that he would give to the public some of his evidence as to a $15,000,000 Republican fund in an address to be delivered in Pittsburgh on Thursday night, and that he would furnish the committee with other information which might be investigated with profit.

The Governor also replied to Senator Harding's statement that he knew nothing of such a fund. Governor Cox expressed the opinion that there were a good many things about which Senator Harding knew nothing in connection with the campaign, and that he was not surprised at the Senator's ignorance on this subject.

Stories published in some newspapers today that Governor Cox might be summoned to appear before the committee left him in a fighting mood. He refused to discuss his program in detail, or intimate what information he possessed as proof of his charges, but he made public tonight this telegram sent to Senator Kenyon at Chicago:

Hon. W. S. Kenyon, care of Senate Investigating Committee.

In addition to my statement in Pittsburgh, I will send to your committee such leads for information as I possess. It will be my purpose to assist you in every possible way.

JAMES M. COX.

Further than this Governor Cox did not care to discuss his relations with the Senate Committee. It was evident, however, that he did not enjoy the tenor of some published statements that it might be necessary to subpoena him to appear before the committee. He does not think it necessary, but is ready to go before the committee without subpoena, if required, in case the evidence which he will present in speeches and forward to the committee is not considered satisfactory.

Governor Cox's statement concerning the denial by Senator Harding was short. He said:

"Senator Harding denies my charges about the campaign fund which the Senatorial oligarchy is raising. I am prepared to believe that he knows nothing about a lot of things that are going on around him. This reveals the very dangerous symptom which I have been discussing. In my Pittsburgh speech this week I shall advise the country as to matters of which the Senator claims to be ignorant and will prove my charges."

Governor Cox left Dayton late tonight and will speak tomorrow in Princeton and Evansville, Ind. On Thursday night he will speak in Pittsburgh and on Friday at New Haven, Conn. Saturday and Sunday will be spent in New York. It is expected that he will deal at length with the question of campaign contributions in the Pittsburgh speech and those which follow.

The Governor spent the day at Trail's End attending to personal correspondence. He appeared to be in fine trim for his campaigning and said he was anxious to get out again among the people.

BARS "CANNED" SPEECHES.

Ohio Fair Manager Says Harding Must Talk in Person, if at All.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24.—"Canned" speeches of Senator Harding will not be accepted as a substitute for the physical presence of the Republican nominee at the Ohio State Fair next week. This was impressed upon the Republican managers for Ohio today as the latest development that has arisen in the incident of Senator Harding's refusal to attend the fair following the acceptance of Governor Cox and Aaron S. Watkins, Prohibition nominee, for Aug. 31.

Edward M. Fullington of the Republican State headquarters called today on Manager E. V. Walbron of the fair to engage space for a tent seating 2,000 persons, in which he wished to install a phonograph for continuous performance of records of Senator Harding's speeches. He also wished to have space for a man and a woman speaker each day.

Walbron declined, saying that Senator Harding lived within fifty miles of the fair grounds and could come in person to the fair if he wished Ohio agriculturalists to hear his message.

ROBERTS CERTIFIES TENNESSEE ACTION ON SUFFRAGE

MAY REACH COLBY TODAY

FOES TAKEN BY SURPRISE

Knew Nothing of Plans Until Announcement Was Made, and Assail Governor as High Handed.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 24.—Certification of Tennessee's ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment was en route by mail tonight to Washington. On its receipt there by Secretary of State Colby late tomorrow or Thursday suffrage advocates expect issuance of the formal proclamation making the amendment a part of the organic law of the land and placing 22,000,000 American women on an equality with men at the ballot box.

Governor Roberts placed the certification in the mail today after receiving from State Attorney General Thompson and opinion that a write of certiorari and supersedeas issued last night by Chief Justice Lansden of the Tennessee Supreme Court in effect set aside an order temporarily restraining the Governor from taking such action.

The injunction was obtained last Saturday by citizens of Nashville opposed to suffrage on the plea that action on the amendment by the present Legislature was in violation of the State Constitution and illegal in other particulars.

Issuance of the writ and the Governor's certification may transfer to Washington the battle over legality of ratification, anti-suffrage leaders declaring that the American Constitutional League was prepared to apply to the District of Columbia Supreme Court for an order restraining Secretary Colby from issuing the proclamation. So far as court action in Tennessee is concerned the only thing in prospect for the suffrage opponents is to request the Supreme Court to rescind the individual action of Justice Lansden. The court meets in Knoxville Sept. 20. Just what effect a refusal of the court to uphold Justice Lansden's course would have on the general situation no one was prepared to say.

Announcement early today that Justice Lansden had issued the writ, followed an hour later by the statement that the Governor had mailed the certification, was a bombshell in the camp of the anti-suffrage forces and an agreeable surprise to the suffragists. There had been no intimation that such a course was planned, and a small circle of the suffrage leaders had kept the secret well.

Few Knew of the Petition.

Attorney General Thompson filed the petition for the writ with Justice Lansden at his residence last night on behalf of Governor Roberts, Secretary of State Stevens and Speaker Andrew Todd and Clerk W. M. Carter of the Senate, parties to the restraining order. The names of Seth Walker, Speaker of the House and opposition leader, and John Green, Clerk of the House, also named in the injunction were not on the petition presented the Justice, and it was understood only Justice Lansden, Governor Roberts and Mr. Thompson actually knew what was contemplated.

Mr. Thompson argued the case before the Justice and the writ was granted. The petition was filed with the Clerk of the Supreme Court at 9:55 o'clock this morning, and twenty-five minutes later the certificate of ratification was in the mails on its way to Washington. The petitioners who obtained the injunction and anti-suffragists generally were amazed at the coup, and the former in a formal statement attacked what they termed the "high-handed tactics and unprecedented methods" involved in the case.

"This action was taken and the injunction in effect dissolved without any notice whatsoever to the complainants or their solicitors, all of whom live in Nashville and were easily accessible," the statement said, "although the rule of law generally and as stated by competent authority, and the rule of professional ethics and courtesy, always requires that notice be given ordering counsel of the intention to apply to an Appellate Judge for the writ of supersedeas.

"Lawyers who have been consulted stated they hardly believe that such action was taken and acted on by Governor Roberts, as it appeared to them to be at least, if not revolutionary in character, in such violation of established law and procedure as to seem almost incredible."

Suffragists Leave for Home.

Governor Roberts would make no statement, but suffrage leaders regarded the battle ended so far as the Legislature and the State are concerned, and prepared to leave for their homes.

There was no information available here tonight as to when the more than thirty House members opposing suffrage who went to Decatur, Ala., in order to break a quorum would return to Nashville.

The Davidson County Grand Jury has still under investigation charges that lobbyists were at work preceding the final votes, in an effort to improperly influence members of the Legislature

Lloyd George Won't Accord Constantine an Interview

LUCERNE, Aug. 24.—Ex-King Constantine of Greece is reported to have sought unsuccessfully for an interview with Premier Lloyd George today. In refusing, the Premier said that such a meeting would be undesirable, especially in view of the recent attempt upon the life of Premier Venizelos.

Mr. Lloyd George has at last begun his real vacation, although big bags of mail and hundreds of telegrams from all parts of the world, notably Warsaw, are keeping his secretaries working overtime.

Rain has been falling steadily since yesterday.

ECKERT NET ENFOLDS HIGH OFFICIAL'S KIN

TWO ARE HELD IN MURDER

Coincident with the holding of William Moloney, hotel proprietor at South Beach, Staten Island, and Charles Kane, chauffeur, on a charge of participating in the murder of Robert Eckert, head of a band of "bootleggers," on the Old Town Road, Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, early last Saturday, it was learned that the Federal authorities have received information involving a relative of a high county official and a police officer of Staten Island in the illicit liquor traffic.

Evidence of the activities of these two men, it was said, would be laid before Leroy W. Ross, United States Attorney for the Eastern District, in Brooklyn today. It was said this evidence consisted of statements by persons who admitted receiving contraband liquors from leaders of the Staten Island bootleggers band.

Mr. Shevlin late yesterday afternoon ordered a squad of specially picked agents to Staten Island from his Brooklyn office. It is understood that he issued specific instructions to the men regarding the alleged sale of liquors on the island and ordered special diligence in the quest for liquors alleged to be stored in large quantities in certain saloons and hotels.

Widow Accuses the Two Men.

Moloney and Kane were charged with the murder of the bootlegger by Mrs. Florence Eckert, widow of the slain man, before County Judge J. Harry Tiernan, sitting as an acting city magistrate in the Stapleton Police Court yesterday. In a deposition drawn by Joseph F. Maloy, District Attorney of Staten Island, Mrs. Eckert alleged that Moloney met her husband in front of 38 Oliver Street, this city, on the evening before the shooting and at 8:10 o'clock started in Kane's automobile, which was operated by Moloney, for Staten Island.

Mrs. Eckert further alleged that when the pair neared the Old Town Road, at Grasmere, about 3 o'clock the next morning they met Kane and two unidentified men who, in the presence of the hotel proprietor and the owner of the automobile, shot Eckert to death with a pistol as he sat beside Moloney in the front of the car.

Albert C. Fach, former District Attorney of Staten Island, and counsel for the accused men, demanded an immediate hearing on Mrs. Eckert's charges, but District Attorney Maloy said he was not prepared to proceed until he had examined certain persons believed to have detailed information concerning the murder. After considerable argument Judge Tiernan adjourned the hearing until 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning.

New Witness Is Detained.

Max Katz, 27 years old, a chauffeur, of 218 Division Avenue, Brooklyn, was locked up in the Stapleton Police Station last night as a material witness in the murder. He was arrested at his home by Detective Sergeant McKettrick of the Staten Island Detective Bureau, and taken to the office of District Attorney Maloy in the County Court House at St. George, where he was questioned for more than two hours.

McKettrick said Katz was believed to be the chauffeur of an automobile truck loaded with liquors which was held up at the Battery about ten months ago, after Eckert had obtained the liquors from the American Docks at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, on a forged permit.

The detective said a prohibition agent was believed to have aided Eckert to obtain the liquors from the warehouse. It is alleged that when the truck was about to cross on the Staten Island Ferry for the Battery the prohibition agent forced Eckert to give him $750 for permitting the removal of the liquors.

When the motor truck reached the Battery, the detective said, another prohibition enforcement agent is alleged to have intercepted it and demanded another $750. A telephone message to Staten Island was said to have brought Eckert across to the Battery, where he is alleged to have paid the second $750.

The detective said Katz admitted driving the truck that night, but denied knowing anything about the Eckert murder. District Attorney Maloy, it is understood, will question Katz again this morning.

During the murder hearing Mrs. Eckert stood within a few feet of the accused men, alternating her attention between them and the wife of the hotel proprietor, a few feet away. Mrs. Moloney had

BALFOUR SETS TIME LIMIT

RENEWS TRICKERY CHARGE

Says British Policy Toward Russia Hinges on Latter's Attitude Toward Poland.

FRENCH PRAISE COLBY NOTE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The Russian Soviet Government has until Friday night to answer certain questions which will establish its good or bad faith in regard to Poland. Upon the answer to these questions will depend the future policy of the British Government.

This quasi-ultimatum is contained in a note dispatched last night by Arthur J. Balfour, acting on behalf of Premier Lloyd George, to Leo Kameneff, head of the Russian Soviet Delegation in London, a copy of which has been addressed to the Soviet Foreign Commissary, M. Tchitcherin. The points on which the British Government requests information are whether the terms now asked of Poland include the formation of a Polish Red Guard and a form of land nationalization, and whether the Government of Soviet Russia proposes to adhere to them.

Mr. Balfour's questions reflect the supposition held in some quarters that the Soviet Government in the first instance may have included in its terms to Poland stipulations which were designed to curry favor with the proletariat elements in Poland and thereby to weaken the position of the Polish Government in the event of the continuance of the war. Also it is suggested that the change in their fortunes which has overtaken the Russian Red armies may have altered the point of view of the Soviet Government and that an opening is given to the latter to crawl out of the difficult position in which it finds itself, according to some shrewd observers here, in consequence of divided counsels among its leaders.

One feature of the situation which attracts notice is that the British Government is resorting to the methods of open diplomacy which for a long time were the monopoly of the Soviet organization and of which it is generally admitted effective use was made from the propagandist point of view.

Deny That Premier Changed Front.

The London papers this afternoon were filled with dispatches from Paris recording statements in French press that Lloyd George and Giolitti had changed their attitude toward the Bolsheviki and toward the Minsk negotiations. It is pointed out here that, on the contrary, the position taken by the British and Italian Premiers at Lucerne and outlined in the British official communiqué is the logical outcome of what Mr. Lloyd George explained his policy to be in the House of Commons.

When the British Premier forwarded the Russian terms, as received from Leo Kameneff, to Warsaw, he expressed the opinion that they were reasonable. Further conditions have been presented which Lloyd George—and in this the Italian Prime Minister is evidently in agreement with him, just as he was in agreement with him in the general trend of his policy toward Russia—does not regard as acceptable, and he said so plainly in the Lucerne communiqué.

That document makes a strong appeal for peace, and it remains for the Bolsheviki to prove beyond peradventure whether or not they want peace. If the suspicions of the Bolsheviki, which all along have been felt in Paris, and which Mr. Lloyd George himself has taken into full consideration, are justified by the acid test of the Minsk negotiations, then the whole policy of the British Government toward Soviet Russia will necessarily undergo modification.

There have been suggestions that the draft of the Russian peace terms to Poland submitted to Mr. Lloyd George did contain conditions relative to the formation of a Polish workers' militia. Tonight it is announced on official authority that the Bolshevist proposal to which the British and Italian Premiers take exception is that "there shall be organized in Poland a militia of workers, and part of the equipment and arms shall be given by the Russian and Ukrainian Governments to the militia."

This provision, it is stated, was not included in the Russian terms as originally sent to Mr. Lloyd George.

Independent investigation into the facts of the controversy appears to prove that in his earliest communications to Mr. Lloyd George M. Kameneff omitted all reference to the proposed arming of the Polish workers, which is a well recognized avenue to the forcible establishment of a Bolshevist régime.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The text of the note by Arthur J. Balfour accompanying the copy of the British and Italian Premiers' communique transmitted to the Soviet representative in London on the Polish situation reads:

Mr. Balfour desires to emphasize the point that the terms which, according to recent information, the Government of Soviet Russia desires to impose upon Poland are in fundamental contradiction to those which M. Kameneff on behalf of the Soviet Government communicated to his Majesty's Government before the prorogation of Parliament.

The very serious view which his Majesty's Government takes of these new terms is clearly explained in the Premier's communication, and Mr. Balfour feels that he can add nothing to what is there said. Acting on his behalf, Mr. Balfour desires to ask whether it is a fact that the terms now asked of Poland are of the character which the information supplied to the Governments of Italy and Great Britain leads Signor Giolitti and Mr. Lloyd George to believe, and, if so, if the Government of Soviet Russia proposes to adhere to them.

On the answer to these questions the future policy of the British Government will depend, and as the matter is evidently of urgent importance I am to request that an answer to these questions may be received by Friday evening next at the latest.

A copy of this communication has been addressed to M. Tchitcherin.

DENIES CONFLICT IN RUSSIAN POLICY

SEES NO PRINKIPO PARALLEL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Official Washington has declined to become excited over the charge attributed to Mr. Lloyd George at Lucerne that "he considered President Wilson's present policy regarding Russia as inconsistent with his declaration relating to the Prinkipo conference." No statement on the subject came from the White House or the State Department. Officials declined to comment in any formal way, and it was evident that unless President Wilson personally took cognizance of the criticism said to have been made by the British Prime Minister none of his subordinates would undertake to answer it.

One official said that, granting the authenticity of the remark attributed to Mr. Lloyd George, he would not care to comment until he had seen specifications of the charge. He would like first to know, he said, upon what ground the allegation of inconsistency was based.

In one official quarter it was pointed out that there was a distinction between the attitude of the President as set forth in the recent American note on the Polish-Russian situation and the President's agreement to the proposal to have a conference between Russian factions and representatives of the allied and associated powers at Prinkipo. The Prinkipo conference, it was asserted, was designed to bring all the Russian factions together for the purpose of attempting to establish peace within Russia, while the present American policy, of which Mr. Lloyd George is said to complain, is that it would be unwise to invite the Soviet Government at Moscow to a conference of the powers to arrange terms for establishing a general peace in Europe and Asia.

Charge of Inconsistency Denied.

There is nothing inconsistent in these two positions, according to the informal view of some officials. In the one case President Wilson was willing to join with the representatives of the other powers to bring the Russian factions together—Bolsheviki and anti-Bolsheviki—in the hope that they would be induced to settle their differences among themselves and re-establish a united Russia, which would be able to enter into relations with the rest of the world.

In the present instance, it is contended, the President has declined to enter into relations with one faction—the Bolsheviki—who seek to control Russia against the will of the vast majority of the Russian people and give them a say in a general peace settlement affecting every place where there is political turmoil. The President, as the recent note of Secretary Colby made clear, desires the attainment of Russian unity and believes that it can best be attained by letting the Russian people adjust their own affairs.

Soon after President Wilson's arrival in Europe in December, 1918, the subject of attempting to bring about peace in Russia was broached by Mr. Lloyd George. At the beginning of January, 1919, a sensation was created in European political circles by the publication of a letter from M. Pichon, the French Minister for Foreign Affairs, strongly criticising the proposal as a recognition of the Bolsheviki and declining on behalf of France to participate in it. Later, however, France modified her position and agreed to send delegates to take part in the conference with the Russian factions.

When the first formal session of the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference was held in Paris on Jan. 16, 1919,

MILLERAND ACTS TO OPEN DANZIG

TALK OF ALLIED OCCUPATION

England and France Discussing It as a Means of Giving Aid to Poland.

PARIS, Aug. 24 (Associated Press).—Premier Millerand, acting as President of the Supreme Council, has telegraphed Sir Reginald Tower, Allied High Commissioner at Danzig, inviting him to assure to Poland complete liberty in the importation of war material through Danzig, as provided for in the Treaty of Versailles.

M. Millerand has also invited Sir Reginald to use all the resources in his power to assist in the unloading of ammunition already in the harbor of Danzig and all that may reach the free city in the future.

The French Premier's instructions came shortly after Mr. Henderson, the British Chargé d'Affaires, called at the Foreign Office and informed M. Millerand that Premier Lloyd George recognized "the absolutely formal right of Poland to export and import through Danzig without restriction, as provided in Article 104 of the Versailles Treaty."

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 25.—A French cruiser arrived in Danzig Monday and began unloading munitions for Poland, but on representations from Sir Reginald Tower, the High Commissioner for the League of Nations, that he could not be responsible for the consequences the unloading was suspended pending decision by the Allies, says a dispatch to The London Times from Danzig, dated Tuesday.

One plan for the settlement of the Danzig problem under consideration today by Great Britain and France was allied occupation of the city.

It is stated here that the military authorities of both countries are agreed that it would be inadvisable to attempt to unload munitions there at the present time, notwithstanding Premier Lloyd George's statement at Lucerne that ships should not be stopped at Danzig.

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—The governing board of the Railway Workers' Union at Danzig has voted to halt all war supplies arriving at that port destined for Poland. It will permit the transit only of food and sanitary supplies.

The board has appointed local surveillance boards, which also will include the stations of Zoppot, Hohenstein and Neufahrwasser.

The steamers New Rochelle and Susquehanna, which arrived at Danzig from the United States with 1,800 and 1,600 returning Polish emigrants, respectively, will in all probability be forced to carry the Poles back to that country, according to the Danzig correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung. It is asserted that Poland has declined to permit them to enter, as the men who are eligible for military service refuse to be enlisted. The Poles are still interned at Tyroyl Camp. The two vessels, which are of American register, also carry a cargo of war supplies."

SOVIET ACTIVITY IN MEXICO.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 24.—Investigations by the Government disclose that a number of so-called Bolsheviki, headed by several American slackers, are attempting to start a military soviet.

A number of soldiers have received pamphlets describing the benefits of soviet rule, advising the soldiers to murder their officers, overthrow the Government and establish the first Soviet Government on this continent.

Several soldiers when they received the propaganda immediately reported to their officers, who in turn reported to the Minister of War.

General Calles says that quick action will be taken, and he intimated that the Bolsheviki agents would be removed to a warmer climate, where no soviet or other governments are known.

LOMZA RETAKEN BY POLES

CIVILIANS JOIN IN PURSUIT

RALLY TO ESCAPE FAILS

Big Guns Brought Up to Shell Warsaw Are Captured—Camels Also Among Booty.

WARSAW, Aug. 24 (Associated Press)—The fortress of Lomza, seventy-five miles northeast of Warsaw, and Bialystok, fifty miles east of Lomza, have been recaptured by the Polish armies, says an official communication issued by the War Office here today.

In the remaining occupied sectors in the north the Bolsheviki are crossing the Prussian frontier in great numbers. In this region the Eighteenth and Thirty-third Bolshevist Divisions have been smashed and all of the Fifty-fourth Division have been taken prisoner.

The Fifth Polish Army alone, operating on the northern front, has accounted for more than 20,000 prisoners, including the staff of the Eighteenth and the Fifty-fourth Divisions, says the communication.

The military authorities announce that the various Government districts of Poland, with the exception of Suwalki and Grodno, have been virtually cleared of the Bolsheviki, some of whom, in the panic of retreat, crossed into East Prussia, but whether they are interned is not known here.

Trapped Reds Fail to Break Through.

Red forces hemmed in between Prussia and the Vistula are trying to fight their way eastward. Reds caught on all sides by the Poles launched an attack south of Elawa, but the attack was repulsed. The Poles have taken many prisoners.

The communiqué says that the Poles taken prisoner by the Kuban Cossacks have been murdered.

"In the region of Snaidovo," continues the statement, "there was bayonet fighting. The Poles smashed the Eleventh Red division and occupied Lomza (to the north), taking several thousand prisoners and seven camels which the Reds had used for hauling supplies.

"Reds fighting at various points in Bialystok were taken prisoner and the city was occupied. Further Polish successes on the southern front are reported."

Many Red detachments have been cut off from retreat and are gradually being gathered in. Peasants, armed with hunting clubs and scythes, are assisting the Polish soldiers in the process of cleaning up.

In various parts of the country, particularly between the Vistula and Prussia, where the Bolsheviki have been cut off from their communications, there are organized hunting parties, consisting of the members of hunt clubs and others, who beat the wooded country in search of Reds the same as for deer and wild boar.

General Pilsudski has issed an appeal to the peasants to aid the army, and urges them to make prisoners in all cases and turn them over to the soldiers. The military authorities declare that since the Polish offensive began about a week ago more than 50,000 prisoners have been taken.

The capture of Przasnysz, sixty miles north of Warsaw, and Mlawa, on the Polish frontier seventy-five miles northwest of the capital, had been reported in the official statement issued last night. The bulk of the Fourth Soviet Army and the entire Third Cavalry Corps had then been surrounded by the Poles, the statement said. The communication read:

"We have taken Przasnysz and Mlawa, separating divisions of the Fifteenth Soviet Army which is covering the retreat. We have surrounded the bulk of the Fourth Army and the whole of the Third Cavalry Corps. Our booty is enormous and our prisoners very numerous.

"We have also taken Soldau, Zambrov and Mazowizseck (to the southeast of Lomza).

"We have crossed the Narew south of Bialystok, capturing 22 heavy guns intended for the bombardment of Warsaw. The demoralization rife among the Bolshevist northern troops is spreading southward. The detachments attacking Lemberg are retiring. We have reached the line of the river Bug and occupied Stryi."

Hector de Panafieu, French Minister to Poland, who left Warsaw when the capital was threatened by the Russian Soviet forces, returned to Warsaw yesterday with the Legation personnel.

French See Danger in Further Advance.

PARIS, Aug. 24 (Associated Press).—The Poles continue to exploit their victory in a most skilful manner. The Bolshevist northern army, even should it be able to cut its way eastward, will find its road barred by President Pil-

The Bolsheviki, however, according to the latest advices reaching Paris, are very active higher up the Bug, notably in the region of Wlodawa, seventy-two miles southeast of Sidelce. Pilsudski is believed undoubtedly to have left forces on the river to guard his flank and rear, but unless the Reds are altogether negligible the Polish commander cannot long ignore the potential danger.

It is expected in French military circles that he will detach part of his troops, both to ward against this danger and hasten the liberation of the whole of the territory. It is thought he will likely start a double move northward toward Grodna, so as to restore strategic liaison with the Vilna Lithuanians, and to the south or southeastward, so as to force a retreat of the Bolsheviki still in positions on the Bug River and in Galicia.

So far it has been plain sailing for the Poles, in the opinion of the military observers, but it is declared further development of the operations involves a certain danger, as the Poles will be obliged to extend their front considerably. It is pointed out that it was such an extension of front which placed them in a position of inferiority at the time of the Bolshevist offensive and if the same cause should be followed by the same effect, by an ill-considered advance now, the Poles would be liable to lose a large part of the fruits of their victory.

Twelve thousand Russian Soviet soldiers have already crossed the German frontier under pressure of the Polish pursuit, says a Berlin dispatch received here today.

Bolsheviki Executed Prisoners.

Copyright, 1920, by the Chicago Tribune Co.

WARSAW, Aug. 24.—I just have returned from Mlawa and the surrounding country, where yesterday General Sikorski's Polish troops finished their northerly advance from Novogeorgievsk, establishing connections with the Posnanian troops advancing from Thorn via Lautenburg and Soldau, who met General Sikorski north of Mlawa. Thus they cut the line of retreat of the greater part of the Bolshevist Fourth Army recently operating in the Danzig corridor and south to the Vistula.

According to wounded Polish witnesses, after disarming the prisoners the Bolsheviki executed them. Personally I saw the bodies of eight officers and of a considerable number of men. One officer's throat was cut from ear to ear and he had been stabbed in the eye with a bayonet.

The scene at present is similar to that seen in the last day's successful advance north from the Narew. The main roads are occupied by infantry, with machine guns and automatics, all ready, while observers unlimber their field batteries and watch the countryside for Bolshevist groups, and cavalry are clearing up the woods.

Large groups of prisoners are to be seen everywhere. At Mlawa I saw the bodies of one woman and twenty men civilians who had been shot. Prior to leaving the Bolsheviki requisitioned thousands of cattle and horses, a great part of which have been recaptured. The roads are covered with fugitives returning home, and large groups of prisoners going south, with occasional groups of Poles captured during the retreat, now released through the victorious advance of their own army in the last few days.

General Sikorski is taking full advantage of the opportunity offered to continue the victory begun on the right of the Polish north front. Eastward of Warsaw his troops have entirely captured or destroyed the Fourth, Thirty-third and Fifty-fourth Red Infantry, and now have a greater part of the Third Cavalry Corps shut up in a constantly diminishing rectangle formed by lines drawn between Rypin, Mlawa, Raciaz and Sierpie without the slightest chance of escaping.

In other words the Fourth Bolshevist Army, like the Sixteenth and Mozyr groups, is out of existence. This leaves only the Third and Fifteenth Bolshevist Armies of the troops designated to take Warsaw and to cut the corridor. Both of these armies have suffered heavy losses in killed, wounded and prisoners and are in rapid retreat eastward. Each day confirms the decisiveness of the Polish victory.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Russian Bolshevist forces in the regions of Lomza, about 75 miles northeast of Warsaw, and Bialystok, about 65 miles northwest of Brest-Litovsk, are engaged in heavy fighting against advancing Polish legions, according to an official statement issued yesterday in Moscow and received here today.

In the Brest-Litovsk region there is no change in the situation, the statement says, while further south, in the neighborhood of Vladimir-Volhynsk and near Lemberg, the battle continues.

Berlin Hears of New Red Offensive.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 25.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Berlin says the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung publishes a report that the Russian Northern Army has commenced a counter-offensive, which appears to have already succeeded. The dispatch adds that the Poles have been forced back in the "corridor" between Mlawa and Chozek, while in the neighborhood of Neidenburg a decisive battle is in progress.

The German border troops are calling for reinforcements, as they are unable to control the increasing tide of Russian Soviet soldiers who are crossing the frontier and expressing the desire to be interned, according to a dispatch from Allenstein, East Prussia.

Among the troops escaping into Germany are many Chinese and Circassians, the dispatch says. The commander of the 54th Russian Brigade, accompanied by the Chief of Staff and the staff members, crossed the German fronter at Kamenau, where troops of the Russian 18th Division also are arriving. The Russian officers took the train to Neidenburg, twenty-four miles south of Koenigsberg, where they were taken in charge by Reichswehr troops.

DISPIRITED AND IN RAGS.

Dutch Correspondent Tells of Plight of Red Cavalry.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 24.—The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant's correspondent, telegraphing from Neidenburg, on the Prussian frontier, says the impression there was that the Fourth Russian Army had completely collapsed. Six thousand men had crossed the German frontier with a quantity of war material and the Poles had taken as many prisoners.

The correspondent says that at the Polish village of Janovo he came in contact with the Russian army, which was a picture of a miserable beaten force. Cavalry passed day and night, but no infantry or artillery was seen. The troops included small groups of many nationalities of the old Russian empire and the correspondent was surrounded by Chinese, Caucasians, brown Mohammedans, Jews, Germans and Austrians whose clothes were mostly rags. Many had no shoes and some only one shoe.

A young Russian staff officer admitted that the Russian army was badly defeated. The horsemen had been ordered so far from their base and the infantry that defeat was inevitable. Many officers supported this statement, saying that the People's Commissaries were their masters and always commanding "Forward!"

The correspondent speaks of a so-called hospital train as the most primitive he had ever seen. It was made up of cattle wagons with straw. It contained a little cotton, a few bandages, many dirty, barefooted girls who knew nothing of nursing, a few dirty attendants, a good but ironical doctor and one patient.

GRUDGE VICTORY OF POLES

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—The German reactionaries' hearts are torn by contradictory feelings caused by the sudden change of fortune on the Polish battlefields and such papers as the Deutsche Tages-Zeitung, Lokal Anzeiger and Kreuz-Zeitung cannot suppress their dissatisfaction with the Russian military leaders, while at the same time they breathe easier seeing the Bolshevist danger is retreating.

All realize now that the numerous recent risings in Silesia, the Ruhr district and many other places are symptomatic of the attitude of the German masses toward Bolshevism. With the Polish advance these uprisings were easily suppressed, but would certainly have assumed a much more dangerous aspect had the Russians continued victorious.

Even yet the railwaymen insist on deciding what shall be regarded as contraband, and will permit the Berlin Government to be only a consulting voice. The Federal Council of Railway Employes formulated a demand for control of all railway traffic, but the Federal Cabinet which met today with Chancellor Fehrenbach presiding, will probably refuse to countenance this move by the men behind the engine.

Gibson in Paris on Way to Poland.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Hugh Gibson, United States Minister to Poland, arrived here last night from the United States. Mr. Gibson will remain in Paris a day or two and then proceed to Warsaw.

MAP SHOWING LIBERATED POLAND.

The broken black line traversing the map from north to south indicates the eastern boundary of Poland as fixed by the Treaty of Versailles. The solid black areas in the northeast and southeast corners represent the only sections of Poland still occupied militarily by the Boshevist invaders at last advices. The Red forces, whose retreat was cut off along the northern border are being rounded up by the Poles or are crossing where possible into East Prussia to be interned.

WRANGEL ARMY ADVANCING

French Officer Back from Crimea Sees in the New Leader Moscow's Direst Peril.

SEBASTOPOL, Aug. 24.—An official communication issued by General Wrangel, commander of the anti-Bolshevist forces in the south, says:

"Along the shores of the Sea of Azoy our troops are advancing into the interior of Kuban. In the region of Vonovkha the enemy launched an offensive against Waldgeim, but was repulsed. Near Tchernigovka we captured an entire regiment.

"In the region of Ekaterinoslav and Novo-Moskovsk, and also northwest of Alexandrovsk, great uprisings against the Bolsheviki have occurred."

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The London Times Warsaw correspondent says anti-Bolshevist movements are breaking out in many parts of Russia, according to statements by Bolshevist prisoners.

Whole South for Wrangel.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—"General Wrangel is the most serious danger that has threatened the Soviet régime," said a French officer today who has just returned to Paris from Sebastopol.

"You have only to read the latest resolution about him of the Soviet committee presided over by Bukharin," he continued, "to see how deeply the Bolsheviki are alarmed by his continued progress. The resolution appeals for a 'volunteer force' against Wrangel, which would seem to prove that the forces of the Red Army can no longer be maintained by the methods the Bolsheviki have employed hitherto.

"Unlike Denikin and Kolchak, General Wrangel is not trying to set the clock back. He realizes that many points of the Czarist régime cannot be restored and that liberalism is the best road to success. He is meeting and beating the Bolsheviki on their own ground. They have preached freedom and given tyranny; he is preaching liberalism and giving freedom."

Just how General Wrangel is winning the sympathy of even the most independent elements of the Russian people is seen by the following terms of the agreement he has recently concluded with the Cossacks of Don, Kuban, Terek and Astrakhan. It was the revolt of the Cossacks against Denikin, owing to his refusal to accord them the very internal autonomy granted in the first clause of Wrangel's agreement, which brought about that officer's downfall. Under the rule of the Bolsheviki they found they had exchanged Denikin's whips for Red scorpions, and now after the successful landing of a force of Wrangel's troops at the mouth of the Don River they are reported to be flocking in thousands to the anti-Bolshevist standard.

1. Complete autonomy of the Cossack territories of Don, Kuban, Terek and Astrakhan as regards their interior organization and administration.

2. Wrangel, as Commander-in-Chief of the troops of South Russia, has supreme power over all the troops of the Cossack territories of Don, Kuban, Terek and Astrakhan for all military operations as well as for organization of the army.

3. All resources of food and other supplies of the territories of Don, Kuban, Terek and Astrakhan necessary for the troops fighting against the Bolsheviki are put to the disposal of the Commander in Chief.

4. Railroad and telegraphic administration is intrusted to the authorities under control of the Commander in Chief.

5. Agreements with foreign powers, both purely political and economic, are negotiated and concluded by the Commander in Chief.

6. All tariff barriers in the territories included in the agreement are suppressed. The same indirect taxes are applied throughout these territories.

7. Same monetary system is established throughout these territories. The right to issue currency is vested in the Commander in Chief.

8. The present agreement becomes operative from the date of its signature subject to approbation by the Parliaments of the respective Cossack territories after their liberation.

9. The present agreement will have executive force throughout and until complete cessation of civil war.

PEACE PARLEY HANGS FIRE.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—There is not the smallest prospect of the Minsk negotiations resulting in a swift conclusion of peace, says The London Times's Warsaw correspondent in a dispatch dated Monday. The Polish Government does not know for certain, the dispatch adds, that its delegates at Minsk are aware of the altered military position due to the Polish victories, not yet having had time to hear the full results.

The first dispatch from the Polish delegates has just been received. The Poles say, contrary to statements of M. Tchitcherin, the Bolshevist Foreign Minister, that their wireless is working faultlessly, but that the only satisfactory way of communicating with Minsk would be by courier. A Polish courier dispatched by the Foreign Office two days ago was not allowed to cross the frontier by the Bolsheviki.

PANKEN BERATES WILSON

Resolutions protesting against the alleged waging of war by the United States against the Soviet Government of Russia, either directly or indirectly by a blockade, and demanding that the Washington Government cease its alleged assistance to Poland were adopted last night at a mass meeting of Socialists in the Central Opera House, East Sixty-seventh Street and Third Avenue, which opened the campaign for the Socialist national ticket here.

The resolutions declared that it was an "open secret" that Poland would not have attempted the invasion of Russian territory but for the assistance of the French Government, connived at by the Governments of Great Britain and the United States, and continued:

"We protest against any effort of the Government of the United States to rehabilitate the Polish imperialists and put them in a position to renew their attacks upon Soviet Russia. We especially condemn the continued shipment of munitions from American ports, whether such shipments be made on the account of American capitalists or paid for by the British and French Governments."

Stedman Sends Protest.

A change in the date of the meeting, originally set for Monday evening, made it impossible for Seymour Stedman, Socialist nominee for Vice President, to be present as expected. Stedman, who had to go back to Chicago by developments in the case against Victor Berger, under indictment for violation of the Espionage act, sent a message to the meeting, which was, in part, as follows:

"We meet to protest and to praise—to protest against open war against Russia or indirect warfare through a blockade or the furnishing of munitions to another country that is carrying on war against Russia, and to praise the fifty-five Italian sailors of the steamship Calabria who refused to be a party to the carrying of ammunition and soldiers against their Russian comrades, and to pay our tribute to the Seamen's Union of Italy whose co-operatively owned boat with the red pennant at its masthead took those sailors back to their native country.

"It is glorious, too, to record that the workingmen of England, France and Germany, with the Chicago Federation of Labor and the Central Labor Body of the State of Washington, are not only protesting but are advocating and threatening a strike against war, a strike for peace.

"Mass action of many nationalities, of peoples of different tongues of the workers of the world will strike the world's imperialists a staggering blow. For ages men have used physical force to destroy each other. They now propose to use their economic power to preserve each other."

Doubts Russian Reverses.

Algernon Lee, who presided, said that he did not believe in the reports of the recent Russian reverses and declared that the news reports of the campaign between Russia and Poland probably had been colored. Even if the reports were true, he said, the Russian reverses would be merely a temporary check.

Joseph D. Cannon, nominee for Governor, attacked the present Administration at Washington as a "one man" Government. He admitted that President Wilson had a task of great difficulty during the war. "He was beset," he said, "by a troublesome upper and lower house and a Colonel House."

"We don't ask the United States Government to do anything for Soviet Russia," Cannon continued. "All we ask is that it let Soviet Russia alone."

Municipal Court Justice Jacob Panken made a bitter attack upon President Wilson and quoted a recent statement of Secretary of State Colby to a group of Poles resident in the United States to the effect that the Administration would like to help Poland but could not do so because of the constitutional provision that it is the function of Congress to declare war. Justice Panken said it was just as unconstitutional a year ago when the United States still had soldiers in Russia.

"I charge President Wilson with betraying the Constitution," said Panken.

About 3,500 men and women, all who could get into the hall, attended the meeting.

SAYS ITALY ENTERED THE WAR TOO SOON

Giolitti Thinks America, Whose Aid He Praises, Timed Her Action Better.

LUCERNE, Aug. 24 (Associated Press).—Premier Giolitti, before departing today for Rome after his conference here with Premier Lloyd George, told the correspondent that he was "still convinced that Italy entered the war too soon and should have entered at the same time as America."

Referring further to the late World War, the Italian Premier said:

"I agreed with Kitchener that the war would be long and terrible; but—think of it!—our General Staff insisted that the war would be ended within a few months with Italian aid."

With reference to accusations charging him with having had German sympathies, Premier Giolitti declared that he had never been pro-German. He paid tribute to America, saying that American economic and military assistance had shortened the war greatly.

Premier Giolitti said he hoped to have a law passed soon by the Italian Parliament which would provide that no treaty would be valid unless discussed and approved by the Parliament, by which means, he asserted, all secret diplomacy would be killed. He also expressed a desire to have a drastic measure passed demanding that those who profited by the war should return every cent of their profits to the State Treasury.

Relative to the conference which he had just had with Premier Lloyd George, Signor Giolitti said that the official communiqué issued yesterday entirely expressed his opinion, which, he said, was in perfect accord with that of Premier Lloyd George regarding European problems.

"We both ardently want peace," Premier Giolitti said, "and hope that the Russian-Polish and also the Adriatic questions will shortly be satisfactorily settled, but Fiume must either remain Italian or be internationalized. We cannot cede an Italian port to the Slavs."

When the correspondent asked about Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio, the Premier replied: "Oh, don't ask me about a madman."

Premier Giolitti said he came to Lucerne with no specially settled program," but was leaving "content and happy" as a result of his meeting with the British Premier.

"I shall meet Premier Millerand at Aix-les-Bains in the same spirit the first week in September," he continued, "and sincerely hope our conversations will aid to further the world's peace."

INSISTS TROTZKY VISITED EAST PRUSSIA

Bought Ammunition, It Is Said—Germany Roused Over Upper Silesia.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Germany has shipped supplies and ammunition to Soviet Russia, according to a correspondent of The London Times, who insists that Leon Trotzky, Russian Bolshevist Minister of War and Marine, visited East Prussia, in spite of official denials of reports to that effect from Moscow.

"The retreat of the Bolshevist armies from the gates of Warsaw," declares the correspondent, "may be explained by the fact that they lacked ammunition. Trotzky foresaw the need of the armies during the frantic effort made to capture the Polish capital, and made plans accordingly, but was too late. He crossed into Germany and reached an agreement with representatives of the German Government by which it would supply ammunition to the Bolsheviki.

"The ammunition has been paid for, in part, out of the Soviet 'jewel fund,' which includes the crown jewels."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Advices received today by the Polish Legation from Warsaw said President Sieher of German East Prussia had issued a proclamation calling upon the German population to take up arms against Poland.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The situation in Upper Silesia is reported well in hand by advices from Kattowitz. No clashes have occurred between the Poles and the allied troops who are policing the district. In view of the attitude of the German population, however, anxiety is felt over the number of Poles under arms.

A dispatch from German sources asserts that the Interallied Commission has proclaimed a state of siege in Rhinik, where groups of armed Poles are reported to have attacked the population.

KING GEORGE V. SUES HERE.

Seeks Accounting of Alleged Overcharges for Munitions.

King George V. of England began an equity suit in the Federal Court yesterday to compel Manning, Maxwell & Moore, dealers in tools and machinery, to render an account of the overcharges, if any, made against the Remington Arms Company. When the latter company was dissolved in July, 1918, the trustees made over to the plaintiff their interests in any money taken from the Remington concern by way of excessive charges.

The British King's interest in the matter began in 1916 when he made a contract with the Remington concern for 2,000,000 Enfield rifles with accountrements. There were complications, including a new agreement. In the course of the proceedings the defendants were employed by the Remington concern to purchase for it some necessary supplies on a 5 per cent. commission basis. It is charged that the defendants were overpaid. King George is represented by White & Case.

Reserves Decision on Martens Bond.

Supreme Court Justice McCook reserved decision yesterday on the application of Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, unrecognized representative of the Russian Soviet Government in this country, for the return of his $1,000 Liberty bail bond. Deputy Attorney General Berger opposed the application on the ground that when Martens gave the bond he agreed to appear before the Lusk Committee when he was wanted, but instead of doing so he went to Washington, where the committee could not reach him.

IRISH MODERATES OPEN CONFERENCE

RIOTS SPREAD TO BELFAST

Shooting and Stone Throwing in Streets — Seventy Houses Wrecked in Lisburn.

DUBLIN, Aug. 24.—A conference of Irish Moderates, called to enable every shade of home rule sentiment to unite in a statement to Premier Lloyd George relative to the future government of the island, opened here at noon today.

Those in attendance included many old men and a number of women, with a scattering of Catholic priests, who were not taking part in the proceeding, but were interested listeners.

The conference is being held in a moving-picture theatre, the location of which is well known as the home of ancient concert rooms.

A resolution was put forward declaring it to be the conviction of the conference that it is "possible for the British Government to secure peace for Ireland by an immediate and a binding offer of full national self-government, to be accepted or rejected by specially elected representatives of the people of Ireland, upon whom should be laid the task of adopting new constitutions suitable to the special requirements of Ireland or of any part thereof requiring special treatment."

Among the leading speakers in support of the resolution were Lord MacDonnell and Sir Stanley Harrington. One interrupter repeatedly called: "Ireland is not a colony; it is a nation."

Two policemen stood at the door directing ticket holders. The hall itself was carefully guarded by "Republican Volunteers."

Every speaker declared that Ireland wanted peace.

BELFAST, Aug. 24.—Rioting was renewed here last night, the most menacing disorder being a collision between the Unionists and Sinn Feiners in Ballymacarrett, on the east side of the River Lagan.

Shortly after 8 o'clock the opposing crowds met in Bryson Street and Kilmoren Street, where shooting and stone-throwing occurred. The police eventually succeeded in dispersing the rioters by a baton charge.

Police forces, who were later reinforced by soldiers, also dispersed crowds which attacked two shops in Montrose Street.

LISBURN, Aug. 24.—Last night's burnings and lootings of Nationalist property by Loyalists in reprisal for the murder of Police Inspector Swanzy on Sunday were the worst Lisburn has experienced. The fire brigade was unable to cope with the outbreaks.

Some seventy premises were in ruins today and the damage was estimated at £500,000. Appeals have been issued to the people to remain off the streets at night.

Last night every house still occupied, with the exception of the one in which lay the body of Inspector Swanzy, flew the Union Jack, word having gone forth that failure to exhibit the flag would be taken as evidence of disloyalty.

The fires continued to rage throughout the night. Chapel Hill, in the Nationalist area, on which are situated the Catholic Church and St. Joseph's Hall, was a regular inferno. No attempt was made to set fire to the church, although the Union Jack was hoisted to the railings amid cheers.

The boot factory of the Messrs. Donaghty, one of the most extensive in Ulster, was a smouldering ruin this morning. Amid the debris a charred body was found.

The funeral of Police Inspector Swanzy occured this morning. It was strictly private in view of the fierce passions which have been aroused by his murder last Sunday, when he was returning from church.

MOBS NOW SURROUND LORD MAYOR'S PRISON

Many Injured and Several Arrested When Shouting for MacSweneys Release.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—There were disorderly scenes tonight near the Brixton Prison, where Lord Mayor MacSweney of Cork is confined, incident to the assembly of several thousand persons who waved flags, booed the Government and cried, "Up Sinn Fein! Up rebels!"

The crowd rushed the police guarding the avenue leading to the prison. Several persons were injured and a number were arrested.

Redmond Howard, a nephew of the late John Redmond, has telegraphed to King George urging clemency for the Irish hunger strikers.

MacSweney, who has refused food since he was arrested in Cork on a charge of sedition, thirteen days ago, was reported in an extremely critical state this morning, although conscious.

MacSweney's condition is said to be such that he could not be removed even if the authorities authorized his immediate release, but he stated that if a written order of release were given he would take food in prison until he was able to be removed.

At the Home Office this morning it was said the decision of the Government had not been altered and MacSweney would not be released.

The Lord Mayor was to receive extreme unction from his Chaplain, Father Dominic, this afternoon.

Mrs. MacSweeney visited her husband again this morning and found him bordering on unconsciousness. Their daughter, Miss Mary MacSweeney, telegraphed Premier Lloyd George saying that if the Mayor died "his relatives and the people of Ireland will hold your Government responsible for murder."

IRISH PICKETS PERSIST.

There was no letup yesterday in the parade of pickets at the British Consulate, 44 Whitehall Street, and there was no effort by the police to halt the procession. The group of Irish women sympathizers with the Sinn Fein marching to protest against the jailing of Terence MacSweney, Lord Mayor of Cork, convicted of sedition, was augmented by the arrival of the Misses Sullivan, Cavanaugh and O'Hneman.

"We have loads of additional banners," said the leader, Miss Cavanaugh, "and we are going to stay at our task until something is done. I see the recruiting posters along the Battery Park walks say, 'Join the Navy and See the World,' and in Ireland the posters would say, 'Join the Irish Constabulary and See the Next World.'"

VISITS EX-KING OF GREECE.

Rumanian Queen's Action Renews Rumors of Daughter's Betrothal.

LUCERNE, Aug. 24.—The Queen of Rumania yesterday visited ex-King Constantine of Greece, who is living here. Afterward she proceeded to Zürich, where her daughter, Princess Elizabeth, is staying.

Constantine today told The Associated Press that there was nothing official to say concerning the reported engagement of Princess Elizabeth to the Duke of Sparta, his eldest son and brother of King Alexander of Greece. He added, however, that "events may happen."

Princess Elizabeth of Rumania in the last few years has been reported betrothed to a number of European princes. Of the rumors the one that she was to marry Prince George of Greece, Duke of Sparta, has been the most persistent.

DENY CONFLICT IN RUSSIAN POLICY

Mr. Lloyd George brought forward his proposal for a conference between the allied and associated powers and the various Governments in Russia. He said that France had a misconception as to the character of the proposal and maintained that the British Government did not contemplate in any way that the Bolshevist Government should be recognized or that its delegates should be invited to attend the Peace Conference.

Feared a Bolshevist England.

The British Prime Minister suggested various ways in which the Russian problem might be handled by the powers, among them military intervention, which he dismissed as impracticable, and the establishment of a cordon around Bolshevist Russia, which would be inhumane and could not be considered. The alternative was the British proposal to summon the leaders of the Russian factions to give an accounting. In the course of his remarks he said that if the powers began a military enterprise against the Bolsheviki it would make England Bolshevist, and a Soviet would be established in London. He was not afraid of Bolshevism if the facts were known in England, the United States and Germany, as an educated democracy could be depended upon to reject Bolshevism.

President Wilson replied at some length to the remarks of Mr. Lloyd George. He did not see, he said, how it was possible to controvert the British Prime Minister's statement. In the course of his discussion he said that he would not be surprised to find that the British and American troops would be unwilling to fight the Bolsheviki on Russian soil, because they would not be sure that the suppression of Bolshevism would not mean the re-establishment of the old autocratic order. In this connection he recalled that when he told a well-dressed audience in New York that the United States would do its utmost to help the oppressed people of Russia, the audience became enthusiastic. This, he thought, was an index of the sympathies of America for Russia. In concluding the President expressed the opinion that the British proposal was the only one that would lead anywhere. He admitted that it might lead nowhere, but thought it well to give it a trial.

Premier Clemenceau did not like the British proposal and said so bluntly. He was particularly opposed to Mr. Lloyd George's suggestion that the Russian delegates be summoned to Paris. In this President Wilson agreed with M. Clemenceau and said he thought that the objection might be overcome by inviting them to some other place. The President suggested Saloniki. He referred to the natural repulsion against the acts of the Bolsheviki, but contended that if they were opposed by force of allied arms they could tell their followers that imperialistic and capitalistic Governments sought to destroy Russia. If, however, the Allies could show that this was not so, the moral influence of the Bolsheviki would break down, as they would have no case.

These words of the President, uttered at one of the sessions of the Supreme Council in January, 1919, are held to be especially significant at this time as being in entire accord with the policy outlined in the recent note of Secretary Colby on the Russian situation. They are regarded as furnishing evidence that the President has not been inconsistent in that aspect, at least, of his Russian policy.

How the Prinkipo Plan Failed.

In the end Clemenceau and Pichon gave way, and it was arranged that the representatives of the Russian factions should be invited to meet representatives of the allied and associated powers on the island of Prinkipo. President Wilson selected as the American delegates William Allen White, George D. Herron and Lincoln Steffens. The invitation was sent out broadcast to the Russian factions. Some of them accepted. The Soviet Government, while at first indicating that it looked with favor on the proposal, finally declined to attend the conference, and the project fell through. It was pointedly brought out to the attention of the Supreme Council that it would be useless to try to send allied troops to Russia, even if that course were looked upon as the only feasible means of establishing peace in that country. Mr. Lloyd George put the question to President Wilson and Secretary Lansing and the representatives of the British dominions present, and all acknowledged that no military help could be expected from them.

Colby's Desire for a United Russia.

In Secretary Colby's note of Aug. 10 it was reiterated that the United States believed in a United Russia. Opposition was expressed to the recent Lloyd George proposal for a general European conference to which the Soviet Government would be invited and "which would in all probability involve two results, from both of which this country strongly recoils, viz., the recognition of the Bolshevist régime and a settlement of Russian problems almost inevitably upon the basis of a dismemberment of Russia."

Sympathy for the Russian people was expressed, and in this connection it was pointed out that the United States was the first Government acknowledge the validity of the revolution and to give recognition to the Kerensky Provisional Government. In setting forth the confidence of this Government in the ability of the Russian people to overcome the existing anarchy, suffering and destitution, Secretary Colby again declared this Government's belief that a united Russia would take a leading place in the world. It was recalled that the United States had declined to recognize the separate Governments set up out of parts of the old Russian Empire in pursuance of a policy of keeping Russia territorially intact, so that a united nation might emerge from the present chaos.

The points in Mr. Colby's note that apply particularly to the charge of inconsistency with President Wilson's part attributed to Lloyd George have to do with the consistent refusal of the United States to recognize the Bolshevist régime. It is plain that, if any official notice should be taken of the statement said to have been made by the British Prime Minister, this Government would show that there was a wide divergence between the President's willingness to have representatives of the Bolsheviki and all other Russian factions confer with representatives of the powers with the object of bringing peace within Russia and a recognition of the Bolshevist régime at Moscow as the sole Russian power capable of treating with the great nations in an attempt to bring about a general European peace.

incompatible with Poland's independence and right to settle her own government, but its inclusion in the terms of peace, besides representing a plan for the Bolshevizing of Poland, fixes in that sense the meaning of several other proposed peace conditions, which in the bare summary submitted to Mr. Lloyd George seemed capable of a less sinister interpretation.

It is pointed out that this omission from Kameneff's summary rendered it entirely misleading, and that it is possible to argue that the omission was not deliberate on Kameneff's part only on the supposition that he was being purposely tricked by the chiefs in Moscow.

LONDON, Aug. 24 (Associated Press).—Arthur J. Balfour, Lord President of the Council, on behalf of Premier Lloyd George last night sent to Leo Kameneff, Russian Soviet representative here, a copy of the commiqué issued in Lucerne as a result of the conference of the British and Italian Premiers.

Mr. Balfour pointed out that, according to the latest information, the Bolshevist terms to Poland fundamentally contradicted those which Kameneff communicated to Great Britain recently. Mr. Balfour asked if this information was correct, and, if so, whether the Bolsheviki intended to adhere to the new terms.

An answer by Friday evening at the latest was asked for by Mr. Balfour, who cited the urgency of the matter and said that on the answer to these questions depended the future policy of Great Britain.

M. Kameneff is preparing to leave England, according to The Daily Herald. This action is attributed to the Lucerne decision of the British and Italian Premiers and Balfour's letter to M. Kameneff.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—The French are frankly delighted by the results of the Lucerne conference, which beforehand had given them considerable anxiety. Not only are the official communiqué and the statements of the British and Italian Premiers to newspaper correspondents calculated to give them satisfaction, but even more so the determined refusal of Lloyd George and Giolitti to have any dealings, open or covert, with the German Ministers who are reported to be "on vacation" in the neighborhood.

Needless to say, the French press does not fail to point out that it is the Polish victory which is chiefly responsible for the sudden modification of Anglo-Italian policy, for the French have maintained from the outset that the Red peace terms were considerably less magnanimous than those announced by Kameneff, and they decline to believe that Lloyd George swallowed Kameneff's version without question.

Generally speaking, it is probably true that the defeat of the Red army has influenced British policy toward Russia, which is realist, economic and practical. Neither Lloyd George nor the British Liberals, nor even the Labor Party, really like the Soviet régime, which they regard as a tyranny no less despotic than that of the Czar.

It must be remembered that the British Labor Party in a vote at home declined to join the Third or Communist Internationale, and that more recently the Labor Congress at Geneva maintained its allegiance to the Second International, which Lenin has often declared to be worse than even the Bolsheviki than the capitalists themselves. But the British public has gradually formed the conviction that the Soviet Government is, for practical purposes, Russia, and wants peace with Russia, and therefore it wants to make peace with the Soviets. The question is, Is it right in that conviction? The French think not, as apparently does America. The defeat of the Red army makes the matter doubtful. Can the Soviet Government maintain its hold despite disaster?

So Mr. Lloyd George, who knows better than any one else just what England wants, backwater by announcing that, after all, the Bolsheviki are not quite such nice, honorable people as they had Soshet him to suppose! If the effects of the defeat have a marked internal effect in Russia, Mr. Lloyd George will probably swing over some more, for he is at heart no more anxious to recognize the Reds than Millerand is. If the Soviet Government retains control, Mr. Lloyd George is likely to swing back again, for what he wants is what England wants, and that is peace with Russia, no matter whether Russia's Government is Red or White, a tyranny or a democracy.

A Caustic French Cartoon.

The French still fail to realize this and suspect him of playing mysterious politics for unstated ends. In a popular French weekly there is a picture of a Punch and Judy show in which Judy asks: "For whom are the English working—for the Russians or the Poles?" And Punch replies: "For neither, my dear, but for the English." That is the truth, which at the present stage of the world's history one would imagine to be self-evident, should need to be impressed upon French minds shows the measure of difference between a frankly realist policy and one that is obscured by sentimental considerations. The French have repeated so often that they are supporting Poland for sheer love of liberty that they are likely to forget their real motive, which is to erect an Eastern bulwark against their hereditary enemy, Germany. HUGHES DECLARES HARDING BEST MAN

Tells Theatrical Visitors to Marion Nominee Has Courage and Common Sense.

HARDING FOR ALL-STAR CAST

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 24.—In his first public indorsement of the Republican national ticket Charles Evans Hughes, Republican Presidential candidate in 1916, today declared Senator Harding a man who could assume the obligations of the country without endangering national security.

Speaking to 3,000 or 4,000 Marion people who had gathered around the front porch this morning to see Al Jolson and a delegation from the Harding and Coolidge Theatrical League, Mr. Hughes said:

"We do not want a trickster. We do not want a shrewd politician. We do not one who is isolated, one who is removed, but we do want a man of courage, possessed of sound common sense, who has an appreciation of American institutions and who knows how to conduct great affairs in accord with the spirit of our institutions. We want one who will give us a high standard of administration. We want some one who will, taking account of the great obligations of the most resourceful people of the world, enter upon the performance of these obligations and carry them successfully in a manner consonant with the maintenance of our national security. Such a man is Senator Harding.

"There is no hope for the world unless America can protect her own institutions and maintain her own institutions. The world cannot survive unless America survives."

Big Day for Marion.

It was a big day for Marion, for not since the homecoming exercises the first of last month, when Senator and Mrs. Harding returned from Washington, has such a crowd assembled around the front porch as today, when Al Jolson, President of the Harding and Coolidge Theatrical League, and his associates, organized a "jazz" front porch compaign.

Mr. Hughes arrived on the same train from New York with about forty actor folk, but he did not know it until this morning, when a hundred-piece band from Chicago and several hundred Marionites were at the station. He slipped away unnoticed while Jolson and his Harding theatrical boosters and the rest of Marion followed the band.

"Harding Is a Man Like Teddy," one of the banners read. "Harding and Coolidge Theatrical League, 40,000 Strong," another was inscribed.

Another echo of Roosevelt was in the campaign song Jolson composed and sang on the front porch. "We think the country is ready for another man like Teddy," it began, while another phrase was "We need another Lincoln to do the nation's thinkin'."

Mr. Hughes, in the background on the Harding porch, apparently was having the time of his life. He joined in the chorus of "Mr. Harding, You're the Man for Us," and with the rest of the crowd helped Blanche Ring in the singing of "Rings on My Fingers."

Harding Talks to Actors.

As one theatrical "stunt" followed another, Senator Harding gradually was edged over to the corner of the steps to his porch. When the actors had finished, Jolson turned to the Senator and said:

"Now, Mr. Harding, our President to be, what have you to say for yourself?"

Senator Harding, reading from a written speech, condemned differing standards of censorship of motion pictures, saying:

"We must ever be on guard against debasement for monetary gain, on the one hand, and against narrow exaction, which destroys the artistic merit of a production and the real lesson intended, on the other. However, there is nothing so essential to the highest art that it need become offensive to the public morals.

"There are many plays especially written for notable stars, and they have become largely vehicles for one genius in the cast. There is, of course, a fascination in the one-lead drama, but it makes the spectator very much dependent upon one individuality, and if the star should be incapacitated for any reason there is inevitable disappointment.

"I think it is a very practical thing to suggest that our American popular Government ought not to be a one-lead or a one-star drama of modern civilization. I want to commend the policy of each and every one having his part to play, and we all must play with enthusiasm in order to perfect the whole production.

Calls for All-Star Cast.

"We have been drifting lately under one-lead activities, and I am sure the American people are going to welcome a change of the bill. For the supreme offering we need the all-star cast presenting America to all the world."

Two plays had made a lasting impression on him, the Senator said. One was Forbes Robertson in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," in which reality and understanding were uncovered and pretense was put aside.

"The other play," he said, "was one of Mansfield's superb productions, 'Charles V.,' if my memory is correct. I particularly recall a camp scene on the night before a crucial battle and, as I recall it now, the King put aside his regal garb and, clad as a simple soldier, went among his armed forces to learn their feelings, their confidence, their fears, and ascertained on terms of equality and intimacy what a monarch might never have learned in any other way. He found that the heart of his army was right. He asked concerning the morrow, and he found confidence of the rank and file to be the assurance of a King, and together they fought in triumph the next day.

"There is no kingship in this republic, but thoughtful Americans are wondering about tomorrow. Is our civilization secure? It is well to know what is in the hearts of men and women who are gathered before the campfires of human progress. There is the memory of yesterday, the horizon of today, and the new hope of tomorrow. Every normal human being wishes for a better morrow than today. Every parent in America wishes for his son or daughter all that he inherited and more. That is why humanity is ever an advancing procession.

Prefers Experience to Experiment.

"But no sane man ever puts aside an assurance of experience for the promise of mere experiment. The world cannot be stabilized on dreams, but can be steadied by evident truths. It is a perfectly normal humanity which delights in a new sensation. One can only pity a people which becomes blasé. It is better to be simple than surfeited. The new thrill is sought on the stage and is sought everywhere in human life.

"Some of our people lately have been wishing to become 'citizens of the world.' Not so long since I met a fine elderly daughter of Virginia who would have been justified in boasting her origin in the Old Dominion and uttering her American pride, but I was shocked to hear her say: 'I am no longer an American. I am a citizen of the world.'

"Frankly, I am not so universal. I rejoice to be an American and love the name, the land, the people and the flag."

Senator and Mrs. Harding and Mr. Hughes, with the actors and correspondents, were guests at luncheon of Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Sawyer at White Oaks Farm, a private sanitarium just outside Marion. The actors returned to New York tonight.

Among those who made the trip to Marion were Al Jolson, Blanche Ring, Leo Carillo, Texas Guinan, Lew Cody, Roby De Remer, Ethel Cunningham, Wanda Lyon, Zena Keefe, Eugene O'Brien, C. C. Pettijohn and Henry E. Dixey.

Tells Delaware Republicans Differences Must Be Forgotten.

DOVER, Del., Aug. 24.—A message from Senator Harding urging party harmony was read today at the Republican State Convention, which assembled to nominate candidates for Governor, Representatives and four State offices.

Senator Harding's message read:

"Entering as we are upon the serious phase of this important campaign, it behooves us to do everything as honorably as possible to achieve victory.

"Forgetting minor differences, let us all join in one united and harmonious effort that the nation may no longer be menaced by the surrender of its nationality; that speedy formal peace be achieved and the useless waste of wartime machine policies be stopped; that the phase of peace may lead us to a condition where we can tranquilly readjust our domestic affairs to a safe and stable basis.

"A great opportunity beckons to America, but we shall be unable to avail ourselves of it if we continue to mark time as we have done for nearly two years past. This country needs the stimulus of virile Republicanism. This nation has the essentials of world leadership, but it must not be longer restrained by hampering domestic and foreign policies."

'REGULARS' WILL HEAD REPUBLICAN BALLOT

One Organization Candidate Loses at Official Place Draw—Lunn Beats Walker.

With a single exception, the organization Republican candidates for nomination on the State ticket won first place on the official ballot at the drawings in the Secretary of State's office at Albany yesterday. The exception was in the case of Theodore B. Baylor of New York, an independent, who drew first place, with N. Monroe Marshall of Franklin County, the organization choice, second. First position is considered to carry a decided advantage.

In the only Statewide Democratic contest, that for the nomination for United States Senator, Mayor George R. Lunn of Schenectady, the independent candidate, won first place over Lieutenant Governor Harry C. Walker, the organization candidate.

The Republican drawings will result in the candidates' names appearing on the ballot in the following order:

There were no other contests on either Republican or Democratic ticket.

In the local drawings at the office of the New York City Board of Elections, independent candidates for nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court in the First District were fortunate. Ralph V. Wechsler, Morris S. Schector and Joseph R. Clevenger, candidates running without organization support, won second, third and fourth places out of the twelve candidates for the nine nominations in the Republican primaries. Isadore M. Levy, an independent, won first place in the Democratic drawing, with Mr. Wechsler and Mr. Clevenger, who also are candidates for the Democratic nomination, eleventh and twelfth.

Few of the other drawings were believed to have resulted so as to endanger the chances of the organization candidates, for Congress, the State Senate and the Assembly. Congressman Isaac Siegel, upon whom both Democrats and Republicans have agreed to fuse in the Twentieth District, drew second place to Louis N. Adler in the Democratic drawing.

In the Twenty-first Congressional District, Martin C. Ansorge, Republican organization candidate, drew first place with Louis A. Lavelle second and Andrew B. Humphrey third. In the Seventeenth Senatorial District, where there is a lively fight for the nomination, Schuyler M. Meyer drew first place and William W. Pellet second.

WILL WELCOME MRS. CATT.

Suffragists Arrange Demonstration for Return from Tennessee.

A call to all suffragists in and near New York City to meet Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, on her return from Nashville, Tenn., Friday afternoon, was issued last night from the headquarters of the association, 171 Madison Avenue. Mrs. Catt will arrive at the Pennnsylvania Station at 1 o'clock on that day, and hundreds of suffragists are expected to gather to meet her and join in a celebration of the final ratification of the woman suffrage amendment by Tennessee.

The suffragists will meet at the northeast corner of Thirty-first Street and Seventh Avenue and will escort Mrs. Catt to suffrage headquarters, where a reception will be held. The committee includes Mrs. John Blair, Chairman; Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Mrs. Ida Husted Harper, Mrs. Gordon Norrie, Miss Ruth Morgan, Mrs. Frank J. Shuler, Mrs. Ogden Mills Reid, Miss Katherine Blake, Mrs. F. Louis Slade, Miss Katherine Ludington, Miss Rose Young, Miss Esther Ogden, Mrs. Frederick Edey and Miss Agnes Schermerhorn.

Miss Mary Garrett Hay issued a statement last night saying that, while American women always would be particularly grateful to the forty-nine members of the Tennessee Legislature who voted for suffrage, they must remember that States in other parts of the country contributed to the result. "They should also realize," Miss Hay continued, "that men in all parts of the country have made their emancipation possible and they should show their appreciation of this fact by working side by side with their brothers in the political parties and by helping them earnestly, intelligently and courageously to solve the momentous problems by which our nation is today confronted."

"48ers" Indorse Ousted Socialists.

The New York State Committee of the Committee of Forty-eight at a meeting yesterday at its headquarters, 17 East Forty-first Street, indorsed the five Socialists who were expelled from the Assembly and who will run for re-election at both the special and general elections. The committee will send speakers into each of the districts to aid the Socialists in their campaign.

Ty Cobb and Jennings Out for Cox.

At least part of the baseball vote seemed assured for Governor Cox, Democratic nominee for President, yesterday, when Hugh Jennings and Tyrus Cobb of the Detroit team called at Democratic National Headquarters. They spent some time in a talk with George White, National Chairman, and Senator Pat Harrison, head of the speakers' bureau, both of whom are enthusiastic "fans." Both Jennings and Cobb are supporting Cox and Roosevelt.

Can't List Farmer-Labor Electors.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 24.—Presidential electors of the National Farmer-Labor Party cannot be listed under their official party designation on the California Presidential ballot in November, Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan announced today. Any Farmer-Labor electors, he said, would have to be listed under the "Independent" designation.

HAYS SPURS LEADERS TO UNCEASING WORK

Republican Chairman, at Conference, Warns Against Overconfidence.

WOMEN OFFICIALS ATTEND

States from Maine to Florida Are Represented at National Headquarters.

Warning against overconfidence in the coming election was issued by Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, in a talk to the Republican leaders of Atlantic States from Maine to Florida, who met at Republican National Headquarters, 19 West Forty-fourth Street, yesterday to arrange for more complete co-operation between the National Committee and the respective State organizations. Mr. Hays said that victory was assured if the Republicans continued to work steadily and harmoniously.

The political situation in each State was thoroughly canvassed. The National Committeeman, the State Chairman and the State Vice-Chairman, the latter in every instance a woman, were present from practically every State, and reports were received from them which indicated little Republican disaffection.

The leaders from each of the States brought requests that Senator Warren G. Harding, nominee for President, abandon his "front porch" campaign to the extent of making at least one speech in each of the Eastern States. This wish to have a visit from Senator Harding was said to have been unanimous.

George A. Glynn, New York State Chairman, reported that the situation in New York hardly could be better from a Republican viewpoint and assured Mr. Hays that the New York Republicans intended to keep at work right up to election day. Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore, New York Vice Chairman, told the conference that the women of New York were lining up with the Republican Party. She said the Republican women were organized in every county and cited the increase of 220,000 women in the Republican enrollment as against an increase of only 25,000 women in the Democratic enrollment, as indicating which party would receive the majority of the women's vote this Fall.

In addition to the State leaders present, the conference also was attended by Fred W. Upham of Chicago, Treasurer of the National Committee; Clarence B. Miller, Secretary of the National Committee, who is in charge of the Washington headquarters; Raymond Robins of Chicago, a member of the Executive Committee, and James B. Reynolds, who is acting in an advisory capacity to Governor Calvin Coolidge, nominee for Vice President.

The women members of the conference were entertained at luncheon at Delmonico's. The men had luncheon served in the headquarters.

Mr. Hays said after the conference, which will be continued today, that the first meeting had been most gratifying. He added: "They confirm entirely our opinion and belief as to political conditions. There are twelve States represented by State Chairmen, National Committeemen and others, and without exception they report virile organizations with splendid enthusiastic personnel. This condition is not only among the party workers, but is also manifested in the entire electorate regardless of past party affiliations."

The conference was the first of a series to be called by Chairman Hays. The conference for the Middle Western States will be held in Chicago on Sept. 1 and 2, and a conference will be called later for the Rocky Mountain States and those of the Pacific Coast.

Cox to Spend Sunday Here.

Governor James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for President, will remain in New York over Saturday night and Sunday, following his speech at the Police Field Day at Gravesend, as the guest of ex-Congressman John J. Fitzgerald of Brooklyn. Announcement to this effect was made yesterday at the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee, where it was also stated that Governor Cox would devote part of Sunday to making speeches for phonographic records.

ROBERTS CERTIFIES ACTION ON SUFFRAGE

to defeat ratification, but the general opinion of anti-ratificationists, as well as many suffragists, was that nothing would develop to warrant indictments. Conclusion of the investigation is expected within a few days.

ATHENS, Ala., Aug. 24.—Within twelve miles of the Tennessee State line the thirty-six members of the Tennessee House, who left to break a quorum, ate watermelon and renewed their declaration of opposition to the ratification of the suffrage amendment.

This afternoon the legislators were the guests of the citizens of Athens at a watermelon feast. They were entertained tonight at a banquet at the Athens College, a female educational institution. Colonel W. T. Saunders, National Democratic Committeeman from Athens, presided as toastmaster.

Expects Colby to Act at Once.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Miss Alice Paul, Chairman of the National Woman's Party, said tonight that formal announcement by the Secretary of State of the ratification of the suffrage amendment to the Constitution will be made within twenty-four hours. The certificate of ratification signed by Governor Roberts of Tennessee is expected to reach the State Department tomorrow evening or early Thursday morning.

"Immediately upon receipt of the certificate by Secretary Colby," said Miss Paul, "the issuance of the formal proclamation announcing the completion of suffrage ratification is expected by representatives of the Woman's Party who have been in close touch with the Secretary of State during the past few days.

"Replies from State attorney generals regarding the provisions necessary for the registration and voting of the women of their States have been received from twenty-four of the thirty-three States. The fifteen full suffrage States, of course, have already provided for their women on the same basis as men.

"Of the twenty-four States, seventeen give the opinion of their Attorney Generals that no additional legislation will be necessary to allow women to register and vote on the same terms as men as soon as Secretary of State Colby issues the proclamation announcing suffrage ratification. These States are Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Dakota, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Wisconsin.

"Attorney General Arbuckle of Arkansas gave it as his opinion that if Tennessee has lawfully ratified the amendment the proclamation of Secretary Colby is unnecessary.

"Four States—Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Mississippi and Virginia—have passed enabling acts, making special provisions for women voters.

"The Attorney General of West Virginia and the Governor of Maryland announced that all necessary arrangements for women voters will be made in their States.

"The only provision necessary in West Virginia is, according to the Attorney General, to provide for suitable means for women's registration. One remaining State, Alabama, postpones an opinion until the return of its Attorney General to the State.

"Tennessee, Maine and Indiana have not been heard from, but since they have had Presidential suffrage for some time no difficulty in registration or voting is expected. Of Texas, with primary suffrage, the same thing is true.

"Doubt remains as to the attitude of only five States from which no word has come—Connecticut, Delaware, Louisiana, New Jersey and Vermont.

"The only two States in which registration of men voters occurred are Maryland and Georgia in both of which Maryland and Georgia, in both of which men."

SAYS HARDING SHINES IN CONTRAST TO COX

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 24.—Elmer H. Dover arrived in Portland today for a conference with Western Republican leaders. Mr. Dover, who is regional campaign director, will be joined tomorrow by Senator Miles Poindexter and Ralph Williams of the National Committee and will deliver a series of speeches throughout the city.

Shortly after his arrival Mr. Dover said to a TIMES correspondent:

"Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Nevada and Arizona, comprising the Western region, will all go Republican.

"Arizona has never gone Republican before, but she does not want the League of Nations, and will cast her votes for Harding next November. The formal campaign has not yet opened in these States, nor will it begin much before the middle of September. This is, in a measure, due to the fact that the primaries have not been held in any State, except Oregon, as yet.

"Senator Hiram Johnson in October will start an intensive campaign through the doubtful Eastern States. Before that he will make a few speeches in the Northwest under the supervision of the Western General Committee. Senator Johnson is very enthusiastic about Harding. He says there is no doubt whatever about California being for the Republican ticket.

"I have been a lifelong friend of Harding. He is personally and nationally, in my estimate, a very fine man. He is wonderfully equipped to make a very able President. There is dignity and power to his conservative speeches. His acceptance was a masterpiece which ought to go down in history. To all real Americans Harding stands out as a shining light against the barroom talk of Governor Cox. Mr. Harding will carry the West in one great lump."

This morning's Oregonian contains an editorial challenge to Franklin D. Roosevelt on his prediction that Oregon will go Democratic next November.

"The Oregonian would like to have the great unknown political prophet who told Mr. Roosevelt about the prospects in Oregon come forward and under his own name make his estimate as to the Democratic majority in this State. The Oregonian will then match it with one of its own, and if it should prove to be mistaken, will agree to retire forever from the field of political prophecy," the paper says, adding:

"The Mr. Roosevelt who made a partisan Democratic speech in Portland is the Democratic nominee because he bears the distinguished name of Roosevelt, and for no other reason. It was a Democratic scheme to confiscate for the Democratic Party purposes the lustre and prestige of the great name of Roosevelt. The quality of the speech of the fourth cousin of Roosevelt discloses in itself the remoteness of his resemblance of any kinship to Theodore Roosevelt."

O'LEARY WILL STAY IN RACE

Queens District Attorney to Run Independently for Re-election.

District Attorney Denis O'Leary of Queens County, an independent Democrat originally elected on the Republican ticket, will run independently for re-election, it was announced last evening in Long Island City. His friends are forming a campaign committee and will open headquarters there within a few days.

Mr. O'Leary was denied renomination by the Republicans, and three candidates for the Republican nomination, Dana Wallace and David G. Wagner of Jamaica, and Assistant District Attorney Robert F. Beyer of Woodhaven, have filed petitions. Joseph H. De Bragga, Queens Republican leader, was called to headquarters in response to a request of Mr. O'Leary's supporters that the three Republican candidates withdraw to permit him to be substituted. After hearing from all factions, Mr. De Bragga announced that all three Republicans would continue in the race and that the friends of Mr. O'Leary, if they desired, could write in his name on the ballot on primary day.

Taylor Elected in Asbury Park.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 24.—Former Judge Walter Taylor of the District Court today was elected City Commissioner to succeed Hugh S. Kimmo, who committed suicide July 21. There were seven candidates. Taylor was the only one of the seven who openly declared against the beach and liberal Sunday policy of the present board.

SAYS FEW WOMEN WILL VOTE

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 24.—Cardinal Gibbons, in an interview today, declined to forecast the probable effect of equal suffrage on the morals of the country, but stated his belief that only a very small percentage of American women would exercise the right of franchise after the novelty had worn off. He said:

"I regret very much that the women have taken the plunge into the deep. I would much prefer that things had remained as they were. I am, however, of the opinion that after the first election or so only a small percentage of the women of the country will avail themselves of the privilege of voting.

"At this time it would be difficult to say what effect the change will have upon the morals of the country."

GOMPERS CHARGES THREAT AT LABOR

CITES WAGE REDUCTION

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Employers of labor must make no further attempts to force the working people to vote as they want them to by frightening them by the shutting down of factories and the reducing of wages, declared Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, at the opening session of the convention of the New York State Federation of Labor this morning.

"Some corporate interests are trying to scare the men of labor," said the labor chief. "We found such conditions recently existing in a number of plants, and particularly in the woolen mills of New England and in the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's affairs, where attempts are being made to shut down factories and reduce wages. There is not now in the storehouses of the country sufficient to meet the needs of the people, and the shutting down is for the obvious purpose of repeating the old policy of the corporations and big business to frighten the people by telling them if they vote one way they will be kept out of work."

Mr. Gompers amplified his position by saying that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company told him the layoff of 12,000 men was necessary because the men were not needed, and ten days later, he said, the company issued orders that it would have to shut down the handling of freight since there was a labor shortage.

"We shall see further such attempts as the weeks go on until Election Day," he declared. If such attempts were made he was satisfied that the working people of the United States would give the answer:

"Either take off your coercion or you'll have to do your own work."

Lieut. Gov. Harry C. Walker welcomed the convention in the name of the State. President Holland of the State Federation, in his address to the convention, declared that labor would fight wage reductions and called attempts to establish compulsory labor laws legislative hysteria.

"We are prepared," he said, "to defend our individual, personal and political liberty from any attack. That is why, although we have no interest in a political party as such, our Executive Council denounced the ouster of the Socialist Assemblymen by an autocratic majority, saying the Socialist Assemblymen were ousted from their seats in defiance of the Constitution of the United States. We deplore and condemn this autocratic action, mindful that if such a precedent were to hold, the rights of political minorities would be constantly in jeopardy and our system of democratic representative government endangered."

He declared that the occupational diseases amendment to the compensation law is a makeshift which will develop a stronger and more widespread demand for health insurance and sickness prevention.

Wage scales, he maintained, were far from sufficient to meet the costs of living and yet evidences were multiplying that a campaign was now on to reduce existing wage scales, engineered by the same interests that capitalized the needs of the country in the war and wrung millions of profit out of their operations.

From five to seven billions of such profits, Holland said, "are estimated to be in the hands of these exploiters now and a percentage of these billions, it is openly charged, has been set aside to crush the wage earners of this nation to a condition of semi-starvation."

JERSEY WOMEN APPOINTED.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 24.—The Democratic State Committee here today, through Chairman Charles F. McDonald, announced the appointment of five women to the Campaign Executive Committee for the Presidential campaign. The names of ten persons on the committee follow:

Mrs. H. Otto Wittpenn, Jersey City; Mrs. Walter Taylor, Asbury Park; Mrs. Joseph L. Bodine, Trenton; Mrs. D. Stewart Craven Salem; Mrs. Philip McKin Garrison, East Orange; Joseph S. Hoff, Princeton; General Dennis F. Collins, Elizabeth; City Commissioner John F. Monahan, Newark; State Purchasing Agent Edward E. Grossecup, Gloucester County, and Senator Thomas Barber of Warren. The Democratic County Committee of Monmouth will give a dinner to the Democratic women of that community, at Biggett's, Sea Girt, Saturday. One thousand women are expected. SAYS DEMOCRATS GOT $87,500 FROM BRITISH

"The investigation is timely and I am glad that the Senatorial Committee has taken the step to clear up the financial charges," he said. "Such loose talk as is engaged in by Governor Cox will not be taken too seriously in Ohio where he is known, but it is too serious to go unchallenged. Governor Cox can make no valid excuse for not appearing before the committee and testifying under oath just as other witnesses will testify. The committee should insist upon this."

Senator Kenyon before he left the city declared that the investigation, while sweeping, would be absolutely nonpartisan.

"If, as Governor Cox charges, there is a camuaign on to raise $15,000,000 among Republicans, we intend to know about it. We'll check up the appointments and the various quotas of which he talks."

The Senator refused to say whether a subpoena would be issued by the committee for Governor Cox in case he refused to appear before it in person. He said that this was a question to be decided by the entire committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Nobody in authority at the British Embassy could be found tonight when efforts were made to obtain embassy comment on the charge of Congressman Britten of Illinois that an entertainment fund of $87,500 allotted to the embassy by the British Parliament had "found its way into the Democratic National Committee." Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, is in St. Louis.

The few persons in Washington who learned this evening of Congressman Britten's charge said that it was silly. It is considered certain that it will not be taken seriously even by partisan Republicans.

FOR STRICTER AUTO LAWS.

Jury May Ask Amendments—Hears West Side Complaints.

Several witnesses testified before the Grand Jury yesterday regarding the violation of laws by chauffeurs and automobile owners, and it is possible that the Grand Jury may recommend that the State highway laws be amended to bring adequate punishment to those who drive recklessly through the city streets. Foreman Joseph Gordon appointed Samuel Brill, J. Chester Hasbrouck, Sidney F. Weston, John B. Cannon and Alfred B. Rode a committee to co-operate with the Grand Jury in the investigation.

One witness represented the property owners of the west side. Before going into the jury room he told Assistant District Attorney Moses R. Ryttenberg that property owners in the vicinity of Riverside Drive, West End Avenue and in West Seventy-second Street were incensed over the way in which chauffeurs have been cutting corners and racing, and at night running with mufflers open and blowing their horns unnecessarily.

Another witness, representing car owners, told Mr. Ryttenberg that a great many accidents were due to the carelessness of pedestrians and the practice of crossing streets at other than the crosswalks. He thought that crossing streets improperly should be made a misdemeanor.

Mr. Ryttenberg said Howard Osterhout, private secretary to Secretary of State Hugo, will be called today as a witness. He will be asked regarding the suspension and revocation of licenses by the Secretary and what recommendations the latter had to offer for amendments to the existing laws.

SAYS THUGS ATTACKED HIM.

E. C. Latham of New York Injured at Summer Home.

WESTFIELD, Mass., Aug. 24.—Deputy Sheriff H. C. Hartley today began an investigation of an attack reported to have been made last night by two armed and masked men upon Edward C. Latham of New York, who has a Summer home in Greenville, some miles west of this town.

Latham reported that the men, pistols in hand, demanded his valuables, and upon his refusal fired at him, wounding him in the hand. Though injured, Latham says, he resisted the men, who finally ran into the woods. Mrs. Latham made her way to a telephone and gave the alarm.

The Latham place is in a region remote from other houses. The Lathams are said to have had considerable money and jewelry in the house.

The Present Telephone Situation in New York City

THE war years were years of arrested development for the telephone business. We were left almost destitute of plant reserve. We were left facing the greatest demand for service in our history. We were left in need of more workers, more materials and more equipment than we have ever required at any one time, and when costs were higher than ever before.

The quality of telephone service is much better than a year ago. Better than six months ago. And six months hence it will be better still.

Supplying this city with telephone service under present conditions is the greatest task of its kind in the world.

We have 5,000,000 miles of telephone wire in New York City, 867,875 telephone stations, 94 central offices, 28,000 employees.

But that does not meet the demand. There are nearly 77,000 unfilled applications for service on our books, although in the past six months we have connected 66,000 new telephones.

Our present plans call for an expenditure of $26,000,000 this year to increase our facilities in this city. This amount will not be sufficient to meet all requirements. We must secure and spend even larger sums for new plant during each of the next few years. We must catch up with the present demand and anticipate the needs of the years ahead.

28,000 well trained men and women are bending every effort to meet this city's unprecedented telephone requirements. Everything that we can do is being done to again give New York City the best telephone service in the world, and meet all new demands for service.

We are coming back, but it will take time, money, effort and the public's wholehearted support.

AGREE ON FUSION AGAINST SOCIALISTS

SENATOR ABELES HOLDS ON

Arrangement for His Withdrawal May Be Reached Today, It Is Said.

Fusion against Samuel Orr and Samuel A. DeWitt, the Socialist candidates in the Third and Fourth Assembly Districts in the Bronx, and in the Twenty-third District in Brooklyn against Charles Solomon was reported to have been assured yesterday by an agreement of Republican leaders to indorse the Democratic candidates for the Assembly in those districts, even though they should not be able to obtain any political consideration for so doing. George A. Glynn, Republican State Chairman, who has been advising fusion, obtained assurance from Richard W. Lawrence, Bronx County Republican Chairman, and Jacob A. Livingston, Brooklyn Republican leader, that this would be done.

The situation in the Bronx was said to have been somewhat complicated by the failure to get State Senator Peter A. Abeles of the Twenty-second District, to withdraw. The Bronx Democrats are willing to indorse any other Republican, in return for indorsement of their Assembly candidates, but have refused to support Senator Abeles because of his vote for ratification of the prohibition amendment. It was said to be possible that some agreement concerning Senator Abeles's withdrawal might be reached today.

In Brooklyn the suggestion was made that in return for the indorsement of a Democratic candidate in the Twenty-third Assembly District the Democrats should indorse the Republican candidate in the Nineteenth Assembly District, where a special election has been called to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Assemblyman John Damico, a Republican. It was understood that this would probably be done and that all fusion arrangements would appeal to both the special and regular elections.

With fusion already accomplished against Louis Waldman and August Claessens, the remaining two ousted Socialist Assemblymen, in the Eighth and Seventeenth Manhattan Assembly Districts the outlook was said to be favorable in all six special assembly district elections.

The State Committee of the American Legion issued a statement declaring that Major Wilbur T. Wright, Vice Chairman of the Legion in Bronx County, had denied that any violence would be attempted toward Socialist speakers by the Legion.

ROOSEVELT TALKS IN RAIN.

FRESNO, Cal., Aug. 24.—Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke bareheaded in the rain for thirty minutes here today. He said that in a good many ways Governor Cox was "the Hiram Johnson of the East" and that the Governor "has put progressive statutes on the books of Ohio and has carried them out."

Mr. Roosevelt arrived in the most violent thunderstorm here in years. The crowd remained in the rain during the speech.

The nominee in speaking of the campaign said:

"The big issue of the campaign is the question of reaction against progressiveness. Personally, I confess that I cannot make head nor tail of the Republican platform. I doubt if any one else can. All we know is that the Republicans have put very little that is definite before the American people. They talk about going back to the good old times and about winning the war. The American people won the war.

"There are emergencies of peace just the same as there are emergencies of war. The Democrats do not believe in going back to the good old times. Is there any one here who would like to go back to conditions that existed thirty years ago or turn the hands of the clock back ten years? There is no such thing as the good old times. We must look forward to better new times."

Mr. Roosevelt left for Bakersville for an address. From there he was to go by automobile to Los Angeles for a meeting tonight.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Aug. 24.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, in an address here today, criticised the record of Senator Harding and insisted that the Republican nominee wanted nothing to do with the League of Nations.

In contrasting Governor Cox and Senator Harding, and stating that the former was in close touch with the problems of the country, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Men in public office should know problems at first hand, should become national minded instead of 'Marion minded,' for the American people don't care to make a shrine at anybody's home and worship at his feet."

The courtroom was crowded, and several hundred men and women were outside, endeavoring to force an entrance. It developed that the interest was centered not so much on the possible outcome of the murder inquiry as on reports that the investigation of illicit liquor traffic had developed sensational evidence involving the relative of the high county official and the police officer.

Confedcrates Are Suspected.

How the report received such widespread circulation could not be learned, but it was understood that agents of James Shevlin, Supervising Prohibition Enforcement Agent in this State and of the Internal Revenue Department, had been in possession of the information for several days. They were working on a theory that Eckert's death might have been due to fear by confederates that he was about to involve certain Staten Island officials and politicians in the bootlegging plot.

Two agents of Mr. Shevlin's office had been conducting an investigation of the wholesale sale of liquors on Staten Island for some time and had arrested several saloonkeepers in the South Beach section. These agents, it was said, also had uncovered the hiding places of thousands of dollars' worth of liquors and were on the trail of the wholesale bootleggers.

Soon after the discovery of the murder a story was circulated that two of Mr. Shevlin's agents were suspected of illicit liquor deals. It was whispered that the murder was the result of a threat Eckert had made to "squeal" on those agents. It was said he believed they were responsible for his arrest at the Battery early last week in connection with thefts of liquor from automobile trucks in Jersey City and Newark. Eckert had been arrested on that charge in Lake Hopatcong, but, with a man known to the police as "Dick" Whalen, was alleged to have escaped from the lockup while awaiting removal to Newark.

Dry Agents Not Questioned.

At the start of his investigation of the murder District Attorney Maloy said he had obtained the names of the suspected prohibition agents, but he admitted yesterday that he had not summoned the men to his office to be questioned. Asked why he had not done this he replied:

"What's the use? I know where they are and I can get them any time I want them. I may question them tomorrow."

After Moloney and Kane had been held without bail on Mrs. Eckert's murder charge, Mr. Maloy said he expected further arrests to be made. It was learned later that four warrants had been issued, but the identity of the persons to be arrested was concealed.

It also was said that Mrs. Moloney had made a statement to District Attorney Maloy in which she declared that two nights before the murder Eckert told her in her husband's hotel that he was looking for a certain prohibition agent and that if he came across the man he "would keep the police busy picking bullets out of his bones." Mr. Fach, her attorney, refused, however, to permit any one to question Mrs. Moloney concerning the report. Mr. Maloy, asked about it, denied that Mrs. Moloney had ever told him that.

The police have been investigating reports that bootleggers had been using Staten Island as a distributing point for liquors obtained by holdup men from chauffeurs of motor trucks on the Lincoln Highway, near Harrison and other points in New Jersey. According to these reports, Eckert and members of his band had posed as prohibition agents in the holdup. Other members of the band transported the stolen liquors to Staten Island, while Eckert and a few others carried the truckmen in automobiles away from the scene of the holdup.

Liquors Sold to "Fences."

The police were informed that the liquors were sold to "fences" in Staten Island, Brooklyn and this city, and that certain Staten Island politicians, acting for the purchasers, sold the stolen liquors to saloon keepers and small hotel proprietors in the metropolitan district. It was said that prohibition agents within the last few weeks had discovered, on the lower east side, a large store of whisky obtained in this manner, and that through this discovery large quantities of liquors were recovered in other parts of the city, including Staten Island.

Before she made the murder charge against Moloney and Kane, Mrs. Eckert appeared before Justice Scudder in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn and received the custody of the body of her husband. The body had been withheld from the widow through the injunction proceedings instituted by Eckert's mother, but when the widow presented evidence of her marriage Justice Scuddder immediately dissolved the decree. Her counsel announced that she had ordered the removal of the body from the morgue at Springville, Staten Island, to their home in Orange, N. J. The funeral will take place in a few days.

Earlier in the day Moloney and Kane were arraigned before Judge Tiernan, but the hearing was adjourned until the appearance of Mrs. Eckert. Judge Tiernan presided in the absence of Magistrate Muller, who sent word to the Clerk of the court that he was too ill to appear.

Demands Release of Clients.

Mr. Fach asked that the two men be released from custody. He said District Attorney Maloy had examined an eyewitness to the murder who had completely exonerated his clients.

"That statement is untrue," declared District Attorney Maloy. "The eyewitness Mr. Fach refers to has not exonerated either Moloney or Kane."

Judge Tiernan then adjourned the hearing until the afternoon. Assistant District Attorney Norton later said the investigation had convinced the District Attorney and the police that there were four men in Kane's automobile when Eckert was killed. He also said the detectives were convinced that Eckert was shot on the South Shore Boulevard, a short distance from the spot on the Old Town Road where his body was found in the abandoned automobile.

"Eckert's murderers intended to hide his body in a clump of bushes there," declared Mr. Norton, "but they became frightened and deserted it. While the deserted automobile with Eckert's body inside was standing on the Old Town Road the police were searching for the car on a general alarm sent out for it at the request of Kane, the owner."

A report was circulated last night that "Dick" Whalen, alleged to have escaped from the lockup at Lake Hopatcong with Eckert, was seen in the vicinity of Moloney's hotel at South Beach last Saturday night. It was said Whalen, who also is known as Dorsey, and who is a resident of Newark, came to Staten Island in a closed automobile and conferred with several men known to have been identified with the slain man in several of his criminal escapades in Newark and Jersey City. It is understood that detectives have been endeavoring to arrest Whalen as a suspect in the case.

Shevlin Questions Agents.

William J. McGuire and James Weldon, prohibition enforcement agents until recently assigned to the Staten Island district, were questioned by Mr. Shevlin regarding conditions on Staten Island. Both agents have been working in Westchester County since their transfer from Staten Island.

After they had been closeted with Mr. Shevlin for some time the head of the prohibition enforcement forces said his confidence in the two men was unshaken.

"Within the last year," said Mr. Shevlin, "McGuire was offered $14,000 for immunity by a man whom he arrested for violating the narcotic law. To my personal knowledge the money was handed to McGuire, who not only refused the bribe, but made a case against the man single-handed while officers from the District Attorney's office and the Police Department were looking for him."

It is probable that most Americans think of Ian Hay only as the author of that opportune and overwhelmingly successful war book, "The First Hundred Thousand," but he had turned out a number of stories and novels before that, and now one of them has come to us in the form of a play—this "Happy-Go-Lucky," which was greeted with roars of quite genuine laughter when it was presented here for the first time last evening at the Booth Theatre. It is his own dramatization of his novel of the same name, which comes to New York after enjoying a long and prosperous run in London under the now discarded title "Tilly of Bloomsbury."

It is an extremely English comedy about a pretty little girl with a distressingly common family that dwells in—just think of it!—in Russell Square, where her mother takes in lodgers. The dramatic conflict in store is clearly visible as soon as you discover that the family of her ardent suitor dwells in a place called "The Towers," and that this mansion is at Shotley Beauchamp.

How Tilly's folks make a brave but unsuccessful effort to seem elegant for Tilly's sake, but how the piercing eye of Lady Marian Mainwaring detects the fact that the guilty wretches all work for their living (except Tilly's father, who is really quite presentable)—all this provides the scheme for Major Beith's comedy. Of course young Mainwaring, knowing the true relative values of kinhearts and coronets, is last seen moving his trunk into Russell Square.

It is rather a snobbish piece, with the snobbishness of our childhood friend, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," but that its interest in matters of "femmily" is exclusively English could be pretended only by Americans who had never been in Philadelphia or, for that matter, in Utica, N. Y.

However, what makes "Happy-Go-Lucky" an amusing entertainment is not its story, which is both stale and silly, but its menagerie of Dickensy characters, a stageful of people done with quite Victorian heartiness and imagination. The chief of these is that distinctly English adjunct of the law, the broker's man, who arrives to destrain Tilly's furniture but remains to pose as the old family butler in the masquerade staged for an impression on Lady Marian of Shotley Beauchamp.

This part was played in London by Arthur Bourchier with devastating effect. Conscious that the rôle was not quite stellar, as Ian Hay had mistakenly conceived it, and knowing what he owed to his faithful public, Mr. Bourchier so elaborated it with a Nat Wills makeup and a series of interpolated hiccoughs that it quite obliterated the rest of the proceedings. Here the part is more shyly and more winningly done by the cherished O. P. Heggie, with the result that "Happy-Go-Lucky" is more enjoyable than was "Tilly of Bloomsbury."

But Samuel Stillbottle, as Mr. Heggie knows, is not all. There is the self-conscious curate, delightfully played by J. H. Brewer; there is Tilly's brother, sporting Perce, reduced to a screaming caricature by Frank Hector of the London company; there is Tilly's mother, amusingly done by Nellie Hodson, also of the London company; there is the affable Mr. Mainwaring, played to perfection by the ever lovable George Giddens, and there is the best part of all, that of Tilly's father, a gentle, faded, scholarly old loafer, rather strangely Micawberized by Oswald Yorke.

In the midst of this menagerie wander Tilly and her happy-go-lucky swain, Tilly played passably by Muriel Martin Harvey and the boy made unexpectedly amusing and engaging by Barry Baxter, whose share in "One Night in Rome" had made us all a bit apprehensive of what he might do next. These two do well by a comedy that now and again develops into sheer horseplay, but which manages, nevertheless, to provide an almost continuously agreeable evening in the theatre.

Spurned by Long Branch and so eager for a New York verdict that it could not wait for a theatre to be vacated, a new play by a new playwright slipped quietly into town yesterday afternoon for the first of two trial matinees at the Forty-eighth Street. The play is an aimless but amusing comedy called "Immodest Violet," and the author one David Carb, who hails from Harvard and has written much of France and things French. With this much information in hand you might expect something rather saucy and Gallic from "Immodest Violet," but really it is about as saucy and Gallic as "Lightnin'," which it resembles closely in flavor and quality.

It is a rough-hewn and intermittently hilarious comedy about a rather advanced young Southern damsel, who succeeds, after considerable effort, in getting herself compromised, but who then gayly refuses to be made an honest woman, though her red-blooded male relatives storm and brandish revolvers and fulfill all the traditional obligations of chivalry. The climax is achieved when the rampageous Violet, havin persuaded an agonizingly shy and modest young bookkeeper to help her run away, must, in turn, help extricate him from the toils of the Mann act.

Though Mr. Carb has obviously given a thought to "Lightnin'," to say nothing of "Hindle Wakes," his comedy is engagingly fresh and free from the stencils of the habitual, theatre-bred playwright, but, as so often happens in such cases the need of an expert hand, however tired and mechanicalized, is felt again and again, while the play flounders. As it is, a little ruthless cutting and a little suavity in production would do worlds for "Immodest Violet."

While the play seems not so much to have been produced, in any sense of painstaking preparation, as to have been casually pitched on to the stage, certain of the players were fortunately chosen and acquit themselves creditably. This is particularly true of Kenneth MacKenna as the unconscious and well-meaning white slaver, the same young actor who, under another name, emerged for the first time when "At 9:45" tried to run during the actors' strike last season. Marie Goff, an alumna of the same melodrama, makes a decorative Violet, but plays with mere gusto and wholesome enthusiasm where a certain piquant boydenishness are needed. Of the rest, Florence Gerald, Allan Kelly and Edward Watton help most.

All in all, "Immodest Violet" is better entertainment than many of the plays which are crowding it out of town, but not quite enough better to justify your getting worked up about its exclusion.

THE SCREEN

"Democracy, the Vision Restored," a motion picture ascribed to Lee Francis Lybarger as author of the "Drama-Theme and Titles," Nina Wilcox Putnam as responsible for the "original scenario" and William Nigh as director, was presented last night at the Casino Theatre, where it is announced for an indefinite run. It is described on the program as "The Photoplay with a Message," and its message is that the remedy for the world's troubles "can not be by force but by love and reason."

The story told to set forth this message is about an autocratic financier, his unscrupulous grandson, who robs him; another grandson, who is a "dreamer," a blind girl who believes in a world of love, and various other subsidiary characters, all of whom are employed to express ideas in the head of the author. They are human beings only in physical appearance, and the happenings of the story itself are utterly incredible. But the photoplay admits that it is "symbolic" and spectators are asked to give heed to its "message."

Those to whom abstract ideas of brotherly love detached from the realities of life are forceful will doubtless see great nobility in "Democracy." To them it will not be trite in places and false in others. The ease with which it disposes of natural law and complex problems by a few phrases will satisfy them.

They will not be offended by the childish simplicity of the work and its loose use of moral and economic terms. Nor, perhaps, will they mind the self-conscious and stilted style of the picture's sub-titles, which, incidentally, are not always in good English. In short, as the authors intend, the spectators will receive "the message," and care for nothing else. What they will do with it when they get it is another question.

All of this is not to quarrel with what "Democracy" tries to say. It struggles sometimes with a really impressive truth, but its effort is so obvious and its story so far removed from practical application to life that for many it will have little force.

BARRETT WOULD END CITY BAGGAGE STRIKE

Hearing This Morning Ordered by Acting Public Service Commissioner.

TAXIS TRANSFER LUGGAGE

Some Delay, but Congestion Is Slight at Stations—"Lockout" Charge Denied.

Travelers with luggage had to depend upon taxicabs yesterday to transfer their baggage from the railroad and steamship terminals in the city. The two big transfer companies—the Westcott Express Company and the New York Transfer Company—were entirely out of business because of a strike of their employes.

There was no serious baggage congestion at either the Grand Central Terminal or the Pennsylvania Station, the two big railroad stations in the city. Many of the passengers were delayed in the baggage rooms of the two railroads, but with the aid of taxicabs and independent transfer companies the incoming baggage was cleared away almost as fast as it arrived.

Acting Public Service Commissioner Alfred M. Barrett has ordered a hearing for 10:30 o'clock this morning on the strike of the employes of the two baggage transfer companies. The hearing will be held at the offices of the commission, 49 Lafayette Street.

S. W. F. Draper, President and general manager of the New York Transfer Company, yesterday denied assertions by Martin J. Lacey of the Executive Committee of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, that the employes of the New York Transfer Company had been "locked out." Mr. Lacey produced a letter bearing Mr. Draper's signature which said that the company would "discontinue operations with the close of business on Monday, 23d instant."

Mr. Draper said that the letter which Mr. Lacey has made public was addressed to employes of the company who were not affected by the wage agreement with the union, which expired Monday night. He said that inasmuch as the compromise submitted by the company had been rejected, there was no alternative but to suspend business, inasmuch as the company could not afford to pay the increased wages demanded by the union.

A letter to the union employes from Mr. Draper was made public at the offices of the company. The letter said: "If the present attitude is to be your answer, the company will cease its operations with the close of business on the 23d of this month. We will not attempt to continue with strike breakers. We will not attempt to employ new men. If our old and experienced employes feel, after giving the matter full consideration, they would be better off working for some one else, then we will all quit together."

A representative of the Westcott Express Company said that he did not see how the baggage transfer companies could continue in business if the men persisted in their demands for further increase. "We have offered them $3 more than their old wage," he said. "We have no desire to make the public pay further increases, and it would ruin us to meet the demands of the men and continue at our old rates of service."

Pickets from the union of which the strikers are members were stationed at both the Pennsylvania Station and the Grand Central Terminal yesterday. At each station one man was assigned to take down the numbers of taxicabs on which trunks and other luggage were loaded. This gave rise to reports that sympathetic action by taxi drivers who are union men would be brought about by the strikers. The strike leaders refused to discuss the probability of a boycott or other sympathetic action by the taxi drivers.

"Taking a Flyer"

THIS is the special sport of people who have not yet learned how to fly, even as it is the man who can't swim that rocks the boat. Strange but true that most of those who take flyers cannot afford to take a fall. The rich don't do it. Flying with a limited capital and no experience is dangerous, not alone because it dissipates your resources, but because it paralyzes your prospects of getting up again.

Play safe with 6% Prudence-Bonds, backed by selected First Mortgages and let your "flying" experience wait.

New York: Take Notice

There were thirty-one big ocean steamers by actual count, on the west side of the river Delaware the other morning at nine o'clock between the Reading wharf at Kaighn's Point and Chestnut Street Ferry, Philadelphia, almost all carrying heavy cargoes.

And it has been like that for three months past with some interruptions from the "longshore-men" strikes.

This means much for a new order of things for Philadelphia.

Let ship owners and managers try to overcome labor difficulties and let the merchants and manufacturers and iron founders do their utmost to encourage and find freights for the ship owners.

IN the Walker Collection Several Unusual Highboys Now Au Quatrieme.

Six very beautiful highboys belong to this collection. Each is a particularly interesting and beautiful piece and the prices are remarkably conservative.

Typical of New Hampshire is one curly maple highboy which came from that State. Its dates are approximately 1710-1720. It has a flat top and cabriole legs. It never had any brasses, but can be easily opened by the moulding on the drawers; $600.

A tiny beech highboy is a very early type; the double moulding about the drawers and the cutting of the skirt and the edge which finishes it is evidence of its early origin. Flat top and original brasses; $400.

A curly maple highboy is dated approximately 1725-1750. It has a flat top and four beautiful ball-and-claw feet; $600.

A walnut highboy with bonnet top is dated 1725. It is in its original condition, with the original brasses. The handles are an early willow pattern which was original. Most interesting is the sunken rounded blocking of the square bottom drawer; $700.

A beautiful bed-room piece is a curly maple highboy which stands high on its cabriole legs. It has a flat top, original brasses and acorn drops; $400.

Extremely beautiful are a walnut highboy and lowboy from the Jewett family of Portland, Maine. The highboy has a scroll top and two fans. Mr. Walker says that "these two pieces were born together." Two pieces are $2,500.

FLOWER Monotypes Now on Exhibit and Sale in the Little Art Gallery.

The monotype is a medium particularly well adapted to the beautiful and delicate rendering of flowers. Too, it is a unique process, for but one print of each creation is possible, which is not true of the colored etching, which it somewhat resembles. The painting is made on a glass or zinc plate and then printed on paper.

The happy and decorative quality of the flower monotype is more than ever that quality which is desired for the decorative treatment of rooms so much in vogue at present.

A RUSSIAN POLICY.

The conference between LLOYD GEORGE and GIOLITTI at Lucerne did not, we may be sure, neglect Italian interests. They were the prime concern of the Italian Premier. The Italian newspapers placed them first. In the special dispatches from Lucerne to Il Progresso of this city, there are ten words about the Adriatic to one about Poland and Russia. Before GIOLITTI left Rome, it was officially announced that he was going to take his stand on the Treaty of London. This, of course, did not recognize Italy's claim in respect to Fiume. And now it appears that GIOLITTI has agreed to the recognition of Fiume by the Allies as a free city, all other Adriatic questions to be worked out by mutual agreement. This is, it must be confessed, rather a pious hope than a settlement.

Important as are these matters, they are quite overshadowed by the approach to a common Russian policy, which is the main thing embodied in the official joint statement issued at Lucerne. In one passage of it, the position is distinctly taken that, if the Bolsheviki press on in their apparent determination to interfere with Polish independence, "no free Government can either acknowledge or deal with the Soviet oligarchy." This is virtually to go over to the policy announced by the American State Department. LLOYD GEORGE told the newspaper men at Lucerne that he thought President WILSON had been "inconsistent" in his attitude toward Russia. At Paris the President was ready to confer with the representatives of LENIN; now he will have nothing to do with him. It is probable that Mr. WILSON will be able to bear up under a charge of inconsistency coming from LLOYD GEORGE. Since the GRACCHI complained of sedition, there has been nothing more amusingly impudent. If it were a question of shifting ground about Russia, Italy would have some explaining to do. Her Foreign Minister stated not long ago that he was prepared to receive a Soviet Ambassador at Rome. Now his chief, GIOLITTI, plainly intimates that, under certain conditions, the Italian Government would refuse to have any diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia. As for the British Prime Minister, he has been on all sides of the question. In fairness it is to be said, however, that his last full speech on the subject in the House of Commons ended in a note of defiance. He wanted peace with Russia, but if LENIN proceeded on his mad course, and showed that he was "out to challenge the institutions upon which the liberties of Europe and civilization depend," then, declared LLOYD GEORGE, "we shall meet in the gate."

Before the British Premier spoke in the House, he had met a delegation from the "Labor Council of Action." These gentlemen were much exercised over the "hidden forces" at work in Europe, especially in Paris, to prevent justice being done to the Russian Republic. For their part, they were there to threaten direct action against the Government if it took steps of any kind, not merely military measures, against their fellow-workers in Russia. LLOYD GEORGE at once put forward the question of the independence of Poland, where there were also brother workingmen. He asked: "If Soviet Russia does what Czarist Russia did, will Labor in this country not permit the Government to send a single pair of boots to people who are fighting for their liberty?" This somewhat staggered the spokesman for the Direct Actionists, but he finally replied that "Labor will consider the position when that occasion arises." The same issue was forced by LLOYD GEORGE in the House of Commons, with the result of extorting from the leader of the Labor Party, Mr. CLYNES, the admission that he and the Labor members "recognized that the independence of the Polish nation was essential to the continued peace of the world," and that if it was menaced by the Soviet Republic the Labor Party would have to take a different position.

By these varying routes, and through the actual demonstration of the sinister purposes and bad faith of the Soviets in the whole Polish negotiation, France and Italy, along with England, are now at one with the United States in the fundamentals of the true policy toward Russia. It is a policy of hands off as regards Russian internal affairs. But it is and must be a policy of hands on whenever the proof is clear that the existence of the Soviet Government is an avowed threat to every other Government and whenever it appears that the Soviet Republic intends to transform itself into an aggressive, militaristic and Imperialist State.

Just now its worldwide ambitions have been stricken down by the crushing defeat which the Poles have inflicted upon it. That gives the world a breathing space, and time to take counsel. But it has not altered the nature or the aims of the Moscow dictatorship. This will l...ve to be dealt with, in all its foreign contacts, in the most decided way; and it is a great gain that the Allies are now of one mind with America in regard to the wise and firm policy to be pursued.

JOHNSONIAN ECHOES.

Last week Senator HIRAM JOHNSON sounded to the pale East his terrible approach. He promised to make an "intensive," and he is sure to make an intense, campaign against the Covenant with death. Eastern Republicans shudder at the prospect of his coming. His candidate for Senator from California to succeed Mr. PHELAN is Mr. SAMUEL M. SHORTRIDGE.

Let us hear Mr. SHORTRIDGE talking. A Sacramento dispatch to The San Francisco Chronicle repeats his golden words: "Because President WILSON "passed a few nights in Buckingham "Palace and had associated with "Princelings, he favored a League of "Nations in which nine men would "rule the world." He celebrated "the great Californian, Senator "HIRAM JOHNSON, who had the heart "to protest against the iniquitous "League of Nations." With a sternness becoming to a Native Son he asked:

> Do I look into the pale face of some cowardly American who, because he is afraid that we might offend the sensibilities of Japan, does not favor absolute exclusion of the Japanese?

Almost we seem to hear the majestic organ voice of HIRAM. Mr. WICKERSHAM and Mr. TAFT and President LOWELL and a multitude of Eastern Republicans are going to hear some "home truths." To them the Johnson campaign will be not intensive but offensive.

"AMERICANISM" IN ILLINOIS.

In May the German-American Citizens' League, successor and continuator of the savory and famous German-American Alliance, whose charter Congress took away, held a convention in Chicago for the purpose of instructing both parties against the League of Nations. The convention would have none of the League, with or without reservations. After the customary remarks about WASHINGTON and the Monroe Doctrine the platform said:

> We further oppose the Peace Treaty of Versailles with its hellish, hateful and revengeful propositions for two reasons: (1) Because those propositions are not in line with our estimates of American humanity; in fact, they most dreadfully conflict therewith; and (2) for the practical reason that said Peace Treaty amounts to the greatest stupidity because we are assisting in ruining our second best customer of our export trade (killing the goose that lays the golden eggs for us).

Last week there was a conference of delegates of the league. As was inevitable, Mr. HARDING was selected as the German-American Citizens' League candidate for President. Naturally, Senator LA FOLLETTE, on account of his philosophy against the war as well as the League, was dearer to the bosoms of these sturdy "Americans," but it was recognized that he was out of the question. Opposition to the League of Nations and to the Treaty of Versailles was declared the cardinal issue, and Mr. HARDING, the representative of that issue, was duly approved.

The resolutions adopted by the May convention and served upon each delegate to the Republican National Convention of June were signed by the President and Secretary of the league, the same patriots who, as officers of the Chicago branch of the National German-American Alliance, in June, 1916, sent to the Republican National Convention a letter protesting "in accordance to the resolution "adopted by the German-American "Alliance of Chicago and of the "State of Illinois," "against the "nomination of THEODORE ROOSEVELT or ELIHU ROOT for President." The Milwaukee Journal, to which we are indebted for this fact, says that the "pro-German" vote—that is, the vote of those Germans by birth or origin who sided with Germany against America—is now Republican. It comprises former Democrats who left their party in 1916 or 1918 on account of their German sympathy. It is against the League of Nations, against WILSON, against COX. It embraces HARDING because he is a foe of the League of Nations. Such are the singular allies whom the Republican masters of the Senate have sought and obtained.

Meanwhile, the Republican Party of Chicago and of Illinois is shaken by perhaps the sharpest conflict it has known. The Republican nominations for Governor and for United States Senator are merely the visible objects of the contest. The loyal Republicans, represented by Governor LOWDEN, are opposed by the combination of those disloyal, radical and dangerous forces which have kept WILLIAM HALE THOMPSON Mayor of Chicago so long. Mr. THOMPSON'S record is only too well known. The brains behind his throne belong to his discoverer, manager and boss, Mr. LUNDIN. The German-American Citizens' League has approved the Thompson candidates as it has approved the candidate of the Senate junta. The radicals and the disloyalists and many voters of many foreign strains are Thompsonians. With the great colored population of Chicago he is extremely popular. He is friendly to the friends of the "Irish Republic."

In Chicago he bids fair to get an enormous majority for his candidates in the Republican primaries. It remains to be seen if the conservative Republicans can overcome that majority in the country districts. Bitterness, division, perhaps defeat, are before the Illinois Republicans. Not in Illinois alone, but in many other States, the spectacle of WILLIAM HALE THOMPSON and the German-American Citizens' League clinging passionately to the "Americanism" of Mr. HARDING is likely to prove too much for a good many Republicans to stomach.

A MOVIE INVASION.

Although "there are no British "films being shown in this country at "the present moment," a correspondent of The London Times eggs his countrymen on to a campaign of invasion and conquest. "There is some"thing going wrong with the Ameri"can industry financially." Popular taste is advancing. "Those who have "made millions are getting out of the "way because the public is beginning "to ask what they deem to be too "much for them." The correspondent frankly admits that in England there are no actors, and especially no actresses, of the first rank; that the directors are repressed as artists; that the studios are ramshackle and poverty-stricken, the resources for lighting inadequate and the creation of the background mostly an obvious fake. Yet, with the pluck which has so often won out in British trade, he exhorts his countrymen to get into the field which Americans "who have made millions" are getting out of. He wants them to supply the demand for novelty which our leading producers "deem too much for them."

One sentence in the indictment of our movie directors has a stimulating sound. They "talk in millions and think in nickels." Even a casual acquaintance with "movie palaces" reveals a lack of all the more strenuous endeavors of creative intellect. One goes with hope from CHARLIE to MARY and DOUG, then back again to CHARLIE, with a hope that lingers still; and yet, with all the admirable low living, there is really no perceptibly Emersonian high thinking. When it comes to supplying this lack, however, our English critic speaks with a dubious accent. He tells his countrymen about Pollyanna, who, when she had broken her leg, thanked GOD that it wasn't her neck; and he seems to think that the novelty which our movie millionaires are stumped to produce is more of this same "optimism and faith." Americans are "childlike in their love "of home life and primitive in their "sentiment." The British producer should "appeal to all that is simplest "and best and clean in the hearts of "both nations." There is to be "no labor trouble story" and, alas for our Emersonian hopes (RALPH WALDO, not ANITA and JOHN), there is to be "no high-brow junk, as they say here." The story that is wanted is the story that "uplifts morally," but by no means cerebrally. The American world "loves to weep—gently"; but it indulges this gentle love only after it is fully assured "that there is a smile waiting behind each gulp." Can it be that our British invaders, while talking of the millions to be made here, have adopted our national habit of thinking in small change?

In the correspondence which these letters have engendered ANTHONY CHARLES KEITH offers one real idea. American life, in spite of our hundred millions, presents only "an everlasting sameness." Whether you go North, South, East or West, you find the selfsame "boots on the men," the selfsame "bows on the children's heads." Even Americans must be getting tired of this. England is perhaps similarly drab, but it commands a wealth of local color in closely neighboring countries—France, Switzerland, Portugal, Spain, Italy, the Balkans, Egypt. Yet when an English producer stages an Arab fight he resorts to broken-down cab horses and badly disguised supers, which he deploys on the Blackpool sands. At the same or less expense he could go to the African desert, hire Arabs and camels, and pull off his scene in an atmosphere that would strike even the California climate booster dumb. Let England abandon all hope of cockneyizing Pollyanna and give us the color and life of Europe at its best. There is sound merchandising in that—and sound art. There may still be an English movie invasion—unless our novelty-seeking directors beat them on their own ground.

STURDY SOCIALISTS.

The Executive Committee of the Socialist Party in America heaps scorn on the Socialists of Poland. They have lent themselves to Chauvinistic ambitions; they are guilty of a "gross betrayal" of the international cause; they have lent themselves to the "imperialistic victors" of the Entente. Polish Socialists showed no great enthusiasm for the march to Kiev, but when Warsaw was threatened they stood with the rest of the Poles for the defense of the Fatherland. This, naturally, is imputed against them as a crime by American Socialists, who took the same view of French Socialists in the late war—though, singularly, they were as a rule much more charitable in their opinion of the German Socialists.

If the American Socialists were Communists this would be natural enough, but to LENIN and his associates they are renegades more despicable even than downright capitalists. So far as may be judged by their public utterances, the leaders of Russian Bolshevism have at least as much respect for Judge GARY as for Mr. HILLQUIT. Yet American Socialists meekly kiss the rod and reiterate their allegiance (in principle) to the Third International, an organization which has done all it can to read them out of the party. To be sure, this allegiance is tempered by reservations; adhering to the principles of the Third International, the American Socialists reject the idea of trying to apply the dictatorship of the proletariat in this country. This is very much like becoming converted to Catholicism while denying the authority of the Church; it will be interesting to see if the American delegates appointed by the Socialist Party to the Third International will be received into fellowship, or compelled to sit a while on the mourners' bench and think things over.

Meanwhile, the Socialists are holding a referendum which may end the practice of admitting aliens and minors to any office in the party and may remove their constitutional prohibition against voting for any military and naval preparation. This is sensible enough, but in other directions the Socialists show a curiously persistent love for their own mistakes. The party could probably gain a good deal by repudiation of the pro-German leadership which led to the huge blunder of the St. Louis platform; confession of errors in the past is sometimes the simplest way out into a more promising future. But instead of frank admission of a mistake we have such curious things as the attempted defense of the war policy and the firm insistence on clasping LENIN'S hand even if that hand is engaged in slapping the American Socialist in the face.

SALVAGING ELECTRIC RAILWAYS.

The electric railways carry ten times as many passengers as the steam railways. They are the people's vehicles. But not even the poor man can be long supplied with anything for less than the cost, and there is an excess of proof that the trolleys have been run at the expense of their owners. Sixty companies have been sold for junk and thirty-eight companies have been abandoned. In 1919, the most disastrous year in the history of the industry, forty-eight companies went into receivership, 10 per cent. of all. Not even the steam railways suffered so much as the electric lines. The War Labor Board made recommendations, equivalent to orders, that the electric lines should increase wages $100,000,000 annually, but did not make any recommendation regarding increase of fares to meet the increasing costs of operation. The result is that the industry, representing six billions of capital, is even in more desperate condition than the steam railways.

This review of the condition of the industry is necessary for the appreciation of the report of the President's commission that the electric railways can be revitalized by "ordinary economic and business common sense." It will be a great relief if the politicians and reformers will display those qualities and mix them with a modicum of morality. The President's commission says that failure is possible "only if "those upon whom the responsibility "rests fail to undertake the work or "pursue it in a spirit that makes settlement impossible." Those upon whom the responsibility rests locally have not hesitated to undertake the work, but in a manner which cannot be better described than by the President's Commissioners: "The electric "railway industry as it now exists is "without financial credit and is not "properly performing its public function * * * This is the result "of the failure of the uniform unit "fare of 5 cents prescribed either by "statute or by local franchise ordi"nances or contracts to provide the "necessary revenues to pay operating "costs and to maintain the property "on a reasonable basis."

The commission has a good word for labor as well as for capital. The electric employés should receive living wages, have humane conditions of employment and the right of collective bargaining. But they should arbitrate their differences with their employers, and abide by awards. Neither strikes nor lockouts should interrupt the public service. The commission thinks that fares should be determined by valuation and that the companies should then reduce capitalization to the basis of valuation. But a valuation which is good for the reduction of fares and dividends should also be good for the increase of fares and dividends, if the facts warrant it. If the subways were valued at present costs the fares would have to be increased. Also, when surface lines are in receivership and there is no question of dividends on capital, the valuation method seems to be as little useful or just as in the case of the steam railways. Valuations fixed now would be different from valuations after the increase of fare which the commission favors. Fares should be just and reasonable and capital should be left to abide the result of the risks which it assumes voluntarily. If the capital is watered the earnings would provide a low dividend rate. If the capital is small the same earnings would provide a high dividend rate.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Replacement Value Is Forgotten.

To explain the failure of many retailers to reduce the price of sugar in anything like equal ratio to the recent drop in wholesale prices, it is stated that they "cannot" sell below, or even at, the prices they paid for their stock on hand. To do so would mean loss, or no profit, which is the same thing as loss. From the dealer's point of view that reasoning has weight, of course, but it is far from being sufficient to excuse using the word "cannot" or any other suggesting impossibility.

It is not so long ago that from all the sources of commercial opinion there came frequent references to "replacement value" as containing full justification for elevating the price of sugar and of all other goods, for that matter, far enough above original cost to give a "reasonable profit," not on what that original cost was, but on what would have to be paid then for the same goods.

All the orthodox economists, we were told, recognize the validity of that principle. So they do, but the same economists differ from the tradesmen in that, while the latter are nearly unanimous in accepting and applying the rule as to replacement value, they forget, as the economists do not, that the rule should be followed in falling as well as in rising markets. To do so means loss, indeed, but if the market falls far enough and stays down long enough, even the most reluctant of dealers are forced to admit that, after all, it really is not impossible for them to sell for less than what they gave.

The wiser dealers come down with some approach to promptness—and they earn and get the commendation of their customers; the others, by holding out to the last minute, acquire a reputation which should and does hurt their business.

Scared by Talk of Scarcity.

Among the theories propounded in an endeavor to evade responsibility for the recent high price of sugar is one to the effect that some weeks ago many housewives, fearing prices still higher, bought large amounts and laid them away. Thus, it is said, was scarcity produced. As a matter of fact, however, what there was of such buying resulted from warnings industriously given by the dealers themselves, for the housewives were told that, if they failed to buy all the sugar they could when it was up around 27 cents, in a few weeks they would have to pay a lot more.

Some of this advice was honestly given, perhaps, for far from all retailers are competent students of markets, but those who did know anything about price probabilities and urged their customers to buy did so with full knowledge that sugar prices were going down, not up.

The result is that not a few of the too credulous housewives now have on hand a good many pounds of sugar for which they paid from 5 to 10 cents a pound more than it would cost them now, and the rule as to replacement value neither helps nor consoles them a bit. That they are not saying more about this sad experience is probably due to twinges of their own consciences, for their own record as hoarders is about as bad as that of the dealers as exploiters.

Mrs. Captain Now Can Go to Sea.

Information at hand does not reveal just why the Federal Shipping Board has mitigated or abrogated the old ban on the sailing of Captains' wives on the vessels their husbands command. But, for that matter, it never was quite clear why the ban was established. The common explanation always has been that with his wife on board the Captain would, or might, in an emergency, divert to her safety some of the attention he was expected to give entirely to the guarding of his owners' interests. This is a plausible theory, but it is hardly convincing, for the presence of the Captain's wife on shipboard would be likely to promote the owners' interests oftener than to cause neglect of them, and Captains who owned their ships or had a considerable share of the ownership so frequently have taken their wives on as many voyages as the wives would go that in the familiar reason there is evident weakness somewhere.

It is now said in behalf of the Shipping Board that it had relaxed the old rule because it has been relaxed in the merchant marine generally, and that the board had to do it, too, or lose some of its best masters. The change of custom, therefore, may be no more mysterious than is the present tendency all through the nautical world to accord better treatment to sailors. A part of this improvement is due, of course, to the fact that the sailors' unions have brought pressure to bear which the owners could not resist, but it is possible to believe, and pleasant as well as possible, that the shipowners as a class, like other employers, have come to take a new view of their responsibilities, and no longer are willing to house and feed sailors in the rather dreadful way once regarded as matter of course.

Ungrateful Soviet Republics.

It is a delicate task for an outsider to venture into the labyrinth of dogmatic socialism and attempt a discrimination between those in the true apostolic succession and mere heretical impostors. So it would be difficult to say whether ABRAHAM CAHAN, editor of the Forward, is orthodox or not.

He wrote in The Call a few days ago that "if Soviet Russia has a strong, valuable friend in the outside world it is the Labor Party of England." Now comes no less a person than NIKOLAI LENIN, only authorized interpreter of the Marxian Koran, prophet and caliph of Bolshevism and sole judge of orthodoxy, and he says that "in England the worst foe of Bolshevism is the opportunist aristocratic working class." British labor's moral and political influence has been very useful to the Russian Bolsheviki, yet all the thanks British labor has got is to be called "lackeys of the bourgeoisie."

Mr. CAHAN himself, one would think, risks excommunication. But apparently he isn't afraid; for he even dares to say that, when the Bolshevist leaders, as officials of the Russian Government, say they want peace, and then, as heads of the Third International, talk world revolution, "it is a strange contradiction in terms which cannot but hamper official Russia in her strivings for peace." In his effort to harmonize antagonistic acts that refuse to be harmonized Mr. CAHAN appears to be in a state of spiritual confusion induced by too much intellectual clearness.

One hopes he can succeed in keeping his good standing without losing that sound sense which marks him now, and which one would suppose might be useful even among doctrinaire Socialists.

JEWS IN THE LEAGUE.

A Statement as to the Attitude of the American Jews.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In this morning's issue you published a dispatch from Paris to the effect that the Committee of Jewish Delegations "would conduct a campaign to obtain a seat in the League of Nations for representatives of the Jewish people." The item further states that the Jews of nearly every country in the world are represented on this committee, and that it is prepared to launch a worldwide campaign for the League. That Americans may not misunderstand this bit of news, startling if true, be good enough to permit me the space to comment on it.

After the armistice the Jews of the various nations of the allied powers sent delegations to the Peace Conference at Paris, as did the other oppressed races, to lay their case before the peacemakers. In America the Jewish Congress was organized as a temporary expedient and selected a delegation to co-operate with the European Jews.

When the American delegation, headed by Judge Julian W. Mack and Louis Marshall, arrived in Paris it was agreed that the Jews should present a single memorandum, seeking protection for the Jews in the newly created or enlarged nations, instead of a dozen, to the Peace Conference. To this end the Committee of Delegations was organized.

Like the American Jewish Congress, it was a temporary peace-emergency organization and ceased to function officially with the signing of the Versailles Treaty. American Jews are not represented on the committee today. Its leaders, whoever they may be, have assumed to speak for the Jews of the world, when in fact they are speaking only for themselves.

The American Jews will fight to the limit any movement to obtain a seat in the Assembly of the League of Nations "for representatives of the Jewish people." If the United States enters the League, American Jews will be represented as are American Protestants, Catholics and agnostics, and in no other way.

As to the launching of a worldwide movement among the Jews for the League, that is bosh. It reminds one of the old-time ward heeler who talked about controlling the Jewish vote in his district. Jewish opinion on the League is as divided as on any other political issue.

As to the election of Jewish national councils of which your dispatch speaks, there may be some such movement among Jews of European countries where suffrage is held on racial lines and parties. American Jews, let me assure your readers, will elect no such council and will oppose bitterly any attempt to foist such an election upon them.

CONDITIONS IN ITALY.

An Official Contradiction of Exaggerated Reports.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On Aug. 12 THE NEW YORK TIMES published correspondence from Milan stating that an anarchist incendiary campaign had been started in several cities of Italy.

I am today in a position officially to inform you that the statements as received by you have been misconstrued, and I appeal to your sense of justice and fairness in requesting you to kindly publish the true facts as to the incendiary acts that occurred.

No anarchist incendiary campaign exists in Italy and the fires that were mentioned in your above-stated report are the usual fires caused by accident that occur anywhere in any country, for instance:

The fires that occurred at Leve Dolma, Ferrara, and Piacenza were due to the exceptionally hot Summer and to an overaccumulation of straw. The explosion at the powder works in San Gervasio, situated at Piano Mugnano in Tuscany, according to assurance of local authorities, came about by neglect of soldiers in omitting to unload bombs. At San Cipriano (near Naples) fire was caused by carelessness of workers in the courtyard of a hemp and straw deposit.

There has not been any mob movement by the people.

At Villa San Giovanni there was a fire on several premises, the origin of which has not yet been ascertained, and damage was done in certain sections owing to the fact that the houses in that locality are constructed of wood, as it is a seismic zone.

At the chemical factory of Bonelli, in Milan, fire was caused by the spontaneous combustion of drums containing chlorate of soda, due to high temperature.

Thanking you in advance for the kind attention you will give this matter, I beg to remain. UBALDO ROCHIRA,
Acting Consul General of Italy.

NOT THE OLD SONGS.

Even the laughter of so long ago
Falls faint and sadly on our wistful ears;
Even the love they loved to echo so
Has perished into dust in the long years.

Not the old songs; for even if today
We still have tears to shed, oh, let them be Warm, living tears, not cold with the delay
Of weary century on century.
We may not even sorrow as did they!

And hung sad memories on every rhyme.

FILIPINOS' SHIP PROTEST.

Coastwise Law, It Is Urged, Threatens Their Autonomy.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Contradicting accusations that the Filipinos in opposing the extension of the coastwise laws of the United States to the Philippines were acting as pawns of Japan and Great Britain, the Philippine Press Bureau here issued today a statement in which it says:

"The law creates a monopoly in favor of American bottoms. It means that only American ships can ply between American and Philippine ports. For the purposes of America's commerce the Philippines are therefore virtually made a part of the Federal territory.

"The discrimination extends to Philippine citizens. If a Filipino desires to engage in the shipping business, the law prevents him from so doing, unless he surrenders his citizenship and takes up American citizenship.

"The objections of the Filipinos are readily stated. They contend:

"First—That the extension of the coastwise laws is unnecessary. For reasons of national gratitude their preference would always be for American bottoms, circumstances being equal.

"Secondly—The extension of the law would be injurious to Philippine trade and commerce. The benefits alleged are conjectural, while the damages will be of stupendous proportions. The law indirectly makes the Filipinos pay for the maintenance of American vessels.

"The immediate effect of the application of the law would be to isolate Manila from other steamship lines. Hongkong and Singapore are free ports. If Manila is to be made a distributing centre, able to compete with them, it must have equal advantages which it certainly would not have if the shipping between the Philippines and the United States were monopolized.

"Thirdly—The third fundamental objection is that the law was passed against the will and over the protest of the Philippine Government.

"The extension of the coastwise law would be a jab against the autonomy of the Philippine Government. From the year 1000 the Philippine Government has regulated both interisland and foreign shipping, in so far as they affected the Philippine Islands. This power would not only be encroached upon by the proposed extension of the coastwise law, but would be completely abrogated.

"Lastly, the extension of the law may react against American trade itself. If canned milk and kerosene, for example, may be brought from Europe at cheaper freight rates and sold in the Philippines at a lower retail price than similar American products, foreign goods will replace those from America."

HOG ISLAND MAKES RECORD.

Turns Over to the Government Three Completed Ships in One Day.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—Hog Island shipyard has made another American record by turning over to the Government in one day three completed ships aggregating 23,650 deadweight tons.

One was the army transport Cantigny, named by the King of the Belgians when he visited the yard. The others were the cargo carriers Carence, assigned to the Export Transportation Company, Baltimore, and the Carlton, which will be operated by the Page & Jones Company, Mobile, Ala.

Hog Island has now turned over ninety-eight ships with a deadweight tonnage of 767,025. It is expected that the remaining twenty-four vessels built at the yard will be delivered by Jan. 1, next.

46 CONGRESSMEN RETURN.

Some of Party Touring Far East Arrive in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—A number of members of the Congressional party which has been touring the Far East returned to the United States on the transport Great Northern, which docked here yesterday. Among them was Representative Charles H. Randall of California, who telegraphed Attorney General Palmer asking that operation of the Volstead act be extended to the Philippine Islands.

There were forty-six in the Congressional party which arrived yesterday. The remainder of the original group of 130 Congressmen and their wives are left at various places in the Far East, principally at Shanghai, to proceed home later. Departure of those left at Shanghai for Korea and Japan was announced in Peking advices a few days ago.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—Captain W. W. Gilmer, recently relieved as Governor of the Island of Guam, announced on his arrival here today that he intends to resign his commission in the navy.

CAROL IS GRATEFUL FOR AID TO RUMANIA

BUYS SIX HUNTING RIFLES

Crown Prince Carol, heir to the Rumanian throne, spent the second day of his unofficial visit to New York resting up in his suite in the Waldorf-Astoria. Late in the afternoon he eluded a group of his fellow countrymen who waited around the entrance of the hotel and went to the store of the Winchester Arms Company, at 469 Fifth Avenue, where he purchased six rifles, which he indicated he would use on his hunting trips this Fall and Winter.

By the time he was ready to journey back to the hotel a crowd of several hundred had gathered in front of the store and "Bill" Nye and his squad of Secret Service agents had to force a way through for the imperial visitor. As the Prince got into his automobile Miss Anna Kern of 1,279 Stebbins Avenue, the Bronx, who was born in Bucharest, greeted him in the Rumanian language.

The Prince gave instructions to the chauffeur to wait a moment while he conversed with Miss Kern, asking her many questions regarding her opinion of America and on other topics. Then waving gayly to the crowd he drove away. He wore a striped blue suit, blue shirt, with tie to match, and a green fedora hat.

Prince Carol adhered to his rule not to receive newspaper men, but decided to issue a statement to the American people. In his message he said that in the war Rumania had no alternative but to enter on the side of the Allies.

The Prince's Statement.

The whole development of Rumanian history showed them the side on which their rights lay, the Prince said. He took occasion to praise the work of the American Red Cross and other relief organizations among his people, and expressed the conviction that cordial relations between this country and the United States would continue. In his statement he said:

"Having finished the official part of my trip, which consisted of a visit to Egypt, India and Japan, I wanted on my way home to get a glimpse of the United States. That is why I passed through here so as to be able to have a faint idea of the conditions in this part of the world. This part of my trip being completed unofficially I have tried to keep away from any official or public receptions and demonstrations.

"In the few days I have been in your country I have been able to see some of your economical institutions and a certain number of your leading business men; also something of your spirit of business, which is so much spoken of in Europe. I have seen, too, with great pleasure, that Rumania has many friends in the United States, and I am convinced that it would have many more if the country and the conditions at home were better known here.

Grateful to America.

"All Rumanians kept in their heart most grateful remembrance of the admirable work done by the American Red Cross and relief missions. We will never forget that in our great misery and need valiant American citizens came to give help to a starving and brave ally. I have been able to see that those who came, who know our country and our peasant, have learned to love and appreciate. That is why I am convinced that more Americans crossing the seas to my country will help in making the economical and personal relations between us much more cordial. I am sure that it can only be to the advantage of both of us."

The statement then reviews the history of the Rumanian people and their part in the World War, and continues:

"In Rumania nearly every peasant is a land owner, and thus we have obtained interior political stability. With this condition how can the pernicious idea of social destruction gain a grip on the people? It was a fine gesture of social and national solidarity when the rich land owner gave up his ground to the peasant who tilled it. Here as always the example was given by the King.

"We have no aggressive intentions against any of our neighbors, with whom we want to live in peace.

TALES OF RICORO

well, I guess I was going pretty fast. Suddenly, the steering-knuckle broke, and after a swerving crash, I opened my eyes and found myself and the car inside a wrecked United Cigar Store.

"A clerk stuck his head up from behind a counter, and tremblingly asked: 'Cigars or cigarettes, sir?' He was scared—but still polite. Then the humor of it struck us, and we roared with laughter.

"'My car is full of cigars already,' I replied, selecting an expensive-looking cigar from a shattered box that had fallen on the seat beside me. I lighted it up—and my word—it was a corker!

"I'VE burned up a lot of road and a lot of cigars, in my time," chuckled the Speed Maniac, as he fingered the scar on his forehead, "but the best thing I ever ran into was the Ricoro Cigar.

"I was driving down Poplar Avenue, and—

The Detroit Tigers made their final appearance of the season at the Polo Grounds yesterday and as a parting salute slapped a 5-to-3 defeat on the Hugmen. The victory gave the Jungle Cats the series, three games to one, this being the first time this year that the Yanks have played a four-game series at the Polo Grounds without taking more than one game.

Bases on balls tell the story of this latest reverse of the Yankees. Bob Shawkey took up the greater part of three innings to get warmed up properly to his task and before he was all set the Tigers had picked up four runs. Three of the four runners who scored had reached first base through Shawkey's wildness. After two batsmen had been retired in the third inning Jones drove a single to centre and Shawkey followed up with some fancy flinging. From the time Jones got his hit in the third frame until Shawkey passed out for a pinch hitter in the eighth not a Detroit runner reached first base. Sixteen went out in order.

While Shawkey was going along at his task of retiring the Tigers in one-two-three order the Yanks were facing numerous opportunities to do some scoring. As may be imagined from the score they failed dismally. Doc Ayers, who was serving up the slants for the Detroiters, had a way of tricking the heavy hitters of the Huggins troupe when runners were all set to go over on a hit. The Hugmen apparently found it easy to get on the paths, but getting around the bases was something else again. Dr. Ayers prescribed rest, and plenty of it, once a Yankee got on the sacks.

Ayers Has Them Swinging.

Ayers had the tantalizing habit of setting somebody down on strikes when runs threatened, and he played no favorites in this respect. He fanned Bodie in the second inning with two on bases, and the strikeout would have been the first chapter of a triple play but for an error at the plate by Eddie Ainsmith. Del Pratt, whose hitting won the Monday game, took the strikeout treatment in the fifth with the tieing run on second base. In the sixth Ayers fanned Ruel with runners on second and third and only a hit needed to put the Yanks in front. In the eighth Meusel was sent up to hit for Shawkey with runners on first and second, and Bob took his swing at a third strike.

The Tigers got only two clean hits during the game, both coming in the third inning. Veach drove a triple between Ruth and Bodie after Shawkey had put two runners on the bases with passes. The three other hits were scratches. Heilman beat out a roller to Ward in the first inning, Shorten bounced a single off Pratt's knee in the third and Ayers scratched a hit off Collins's hand in the ninth. Against this stickwork the Yanks produced ten clean drives, but they were scattered to such an extent that they were of little value.

The Tigers put over a run in the first inning. Young and Bush drew passes and after Cobb batted to Peck, Veach's infield out advanced both runners. While Heilman was beating out a bounder to Ward, Young crossed the plate.

Yankees Tie Count in Second.

In the second inning the Yankees tied the score. Pratt was safe on Bush's fumble, and went to third on Lewis's single to right. As Bodie struck out Lewis started for second and was finally tagged out Young after being run up and down the base line. Pratt made a dash for the plate and only the fact that Ainsworth dropped the ball, prevented a triple play. The error allowed Pratt to score. Ward's strikeout ended the inning.

Three runs crossed the plate in Detroit's third inning. Young walked, Bush sacrificed and Cobb also walked. Veach's triple to right centre sent Young and Cobb home, and Veach scored while Ward was throwing out Heilman. Shorten and Jones followed with singles, but there was no more scoring.

The Yankees were retired runless in their half of the third with the bases filled. Ruel singled to left, Shawkey fanned. Peck singled to right centre. Pipp flied to Veach and Ruth walked on four pitched balls, filling the bases. Pratt hit hard to Heilman for the third out.

In the fifth the Hugmen pushed two markers over the plate. With one out, Shawkey walked, and reached second on Peck's single to right. Pipp's single to centre scored Shawkey and Ruth's single to right sent Peck across. Pipp reached third on Ruth's hit, but was out at the plate trying to score on a throw to first base by Ayers. Pratt fanned for the third out.

Lewis and Bodie started New York's sixth with singles, but there was no scoring. Ward sacrificed the pair to third and second, where they were left when Ruel fanned and Shawkey flied to Shorten.

In the eighth Lewis and Ruel got singles, and Meusel was sent in as a pinch hitter for Shawkey. Ayers struck him out with two on bases. In the ninth the Tigers put over their fifth run. After Shorten had been retired on a great catch by Peck, Collins walked Jones, and he stole second as Ainsmith flied. Ayers bounced a single off Collins's hand, and when the New York pitcher threw past first base Jones counted.

LEAGUE SAYS YANKS SHALL HAVE A PARK

Local Club May Play on Own Field Next Year—Three Sites Being Considered.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—The New York National League Club having refused to extend the lease of the Polo Grounds to the Yankees, the American League in a special meeting here today decided that the New York American League team shall have its own grounds in that city.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees said three sites are under consideration for the new grounds. He declined to say where they are situated. Details for financing the new home of the New York team were not announced.

Meeting so soon after the death of Ray Chapman, shortstop of the Cleveland club, who was killed by a ball pitched by Carl Mays of the New York team, it was expected the club owners would take some action in the case, but the only announcement made regarding Chapman's tragic death was that resolutions of sympathy would be sent to his widow. Colonel Ruppert, William Richardson of Philadelphia, Vice President of the Washington club, and Thomas F. Shibe, Vice President of the Athletics, were appointed a committee to draft resolutions. There was only an informal discussion of the circumstances surrounding Chapman's death, it was announced.

Five of the eight clubs were directly represented at the meeting. Proxies of St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland were held by Connie Mack of Philadelphia.

The new park of the Yankees, according to plans under consideration, will be built to accommodate more than 50,000 persons, or several thousands more than the seating capacity of the Polo Grounds. In several games played by the Yankees this season it has been necessary to turn away thousands of patrons, and this is one fact which has led Colonels Ruppert and Huston to hurry the erection of their own plant. It is possible for them to remain at the Polo Grounds all next year, but it is said that their tenancy at the Brush Stadium may end with the completion of the 1920 season.

All the sites under consideration are within a few minutes ride from Times Square, two of them being closer to Forty-second Street than the present home of the Giants. The owners of the Yankees believed that the league as a body should shoulder some of the great expense entailed in the erection of a park larger than any yet attempted in baseball. It was at their suggestion that yesterday's meeting was called and after the plans had been explained the league voted to enter into the undertaking with Cols. Ruppert and Huston.

WRIGHT WINS AT TRAPS.

Captures National Singles Title in Shoot at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24.—Frank S. Wright of Buffalo, champion of New York State, won the American amateur singles championship of the Grand American Handicap Trapshooting Tournament here today from thirty-nine expert marksmen of the United States and Canada. At the end of the 100-bird event he was tied with Oscar Hansen of Nebraska.

In the 25-target shoot-off both powdered the first seven targets. On the eighth Hansen got under, a clean miss. The birds continued to fly into powder again until the twentieth, when Hansen shot wide again. Wright's shots were clean all the way and for the second time in succession he captured the coveted honor. He is the only man in the twenty-one years' history of the Grand American to win the singles championship twice.

The junior championship for youths under 18 for fifty targets from the 16-yard line also resulted in a tie and necessitated a 25-target shoot-off. Theodore Beem of West Frankfort, Ill., and M. L. Bonta, Jr., of Willington, Ohio, each had 48. In the shoot-off Beem, who is 16, missed two birds, and Bonta three, the former winning.

Cubs Purchase Hack Miller.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 24.—Hack Miller, hard-hitting outfielder of the Oakland team of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, has been sold to the Chicago Nationals, it was announced today by Del Howard, manager of the team. Miller will report in the Spring.

BAD THIRD INNING SETS GIANTS BACK

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24.—The Giants cracked with a resounding blast in the third inning of today's game and St. Louis evened the series, winning by a score of 6 to 4. Slovenly infield play by Larry Doyle and Rube Benton's ineffectiveness combined to undermine New York, and John McGraw lost a tidy opportunity to guide his club upward in the pennant race. But for their juvenile performance in the fatal third the Giants would have won easily, for St. Louis's exhibition was certainly nothing about which to write home.

Doyle's failure was particularly disappointing. He lost two plays that should have been soft as eiderdown. Worst of all, his mistakes unsteadied Benton and he went to pieces after the manner of an ancient bark in a South Sea hurricane.

Manager Branch Rickey started his recruit pitcher, Lou North, who, by the way, hails from the South, and Lou was duck broth for the Giants in the first inning. The Gotham contingent obtained his range without delay and procured two runs by hard hitting and speedy base running by Bancroft, Young and Kelly.

An Accident to Frisch.

North threw him an inshoot, and, as Frisch swung, the ball hit the handle of his bat and caromed with terrific force against the left side of his face. The blow stunned him and he dropped. Visions of the Chapman tragedy rose in the minds of many of the spectators as the little star collapsed, but Frisch was helped to his feet and was able to resume after a few minutes rest. Outside of a soreness that will probably remain in his jaw for a few days, Frisch came through intact and will not be lost to the club in the drive for the title.

Frisch showed remarkable recuperative powers in the Cardinals' half of the opening inning. He made two exceptional stops off Janvrin and Schultz and nabbed both of them, throwing with deadly accuracy while off balance.

Davey Bancroft's defensive play has been one of the vivid features of New York's western campaign. The Cardinals let go a threatening drive in their half of the second inning, a stunning catch by Bancroft at Heathcote's liner over second base checked the rally.

Sloppy fielding by Doyle in the third inning put Benton in a bad predicament. Larry played Clemons's grounder poorly, failing to get in front of the ball although he had adequate time. Instead, he sought to take it on his side and failed miserably, the rap going for a hit. North shot another bounder at Doyle and again Larry came to grief, mussing up a play that should have been easy for him.

Then the tide began to swing heavily against the Giants. Janvrin forced Clemons at third, Benton to Frisch, but Stock blazed a wicked single that rounded off Bancroft's shoulder and North scored. The ever-dangerous Hornsby dumped a single into right and Janvrin counted, Stock moving on to third. McHenry hit to Frisch, who stopped the ball handily, but plunged headlong in trying to tag Hornsby on the base line, Hornsby sliding back to second and Stock scoring.

Benton Falls in Pinch.

This gave the sleepy Cardinal fanatics a thrill, and they came out of their trance for a moment. Lavan kept up the barrage with a safe tap to Benton that rolled tantalizingly toward third and just out of the big pitcher's range. The bases were jammed and two were out. Benton failed utterly in the pinch and walked Heathcote, forcing Hornsby home with the fourth run.

The Giants drew some breaks at this turn. Clemons hit solidly to Frisch and the little third baseman threw to Doyle for an attempted force play on Heathcote. The nimble Cardinal outfielder beat the throw by a lash, however, and McHenry scored the fifth run for St. Louis. North ended the agony by flying to Young.

North was extracted painlessly in the fourth inning after he had passed Kelly and Doyle and retired Spencer on a fly to Heathcote. He was succeeded by Sherdel, a lithe, young Southpaw, who usually has a travel four or five innings like a comet, but fades after the brief flash. Sherdel began by passing Earl Smith and filling the bases. His next effort, however, was somewhat better. Grimes, who batted for Benton, was fanned, Burns then stepped up and put the Giants back in the running with a single to centre on which Kelly and Doyle tallied. The rally ended when Bancroft lifted a long fly to McHenry.

Shufflin' Phil Douglas relieved Benton in the fourth and the fight was resumed with sharper rivalry. Branch Rickey, the Cardinal Manager, is known universally for his tendency to switch his lineup on the slightest provocation. He began here by rushing up reserves in the persons of Jack Smith, who batted for Janvrin and flanned, and Jack Fournier, who batted for Schultz and doubled to deep left centre. Stock flied to Spencer and Fournier raced to third after the catch. After Hornsby had walked, the Cardinals unbelted a double steal that came to grief as a result of perfect cooperation between Smith and Doyle.

The Cardinals absorbed another run in the fifth on singles by McHenry, Heathcote and Clemons. Douglas was wavering like a ramshackle cabin in a gale, but Burns came to his rescue with a magnificent catch of Sherdel's hard foul thirty feet beyond the left field line.

Although the Cardinals have played as well as any of the other Western clubs, except the Reds, there appears to be little interest here in the pennant fight. Despite the determined drive of the Giants and the ideal Summer weather that prevailed today, not more than 3,500 fans turned out to see the contest and they appeared to have come for a nap rather than see a ball game.

The greatest interest displayed was by about 500 boys, members of the St. Louis Knothole League, who were admitted free and occupied the left field bleachers. These lads added the only jazzy note to an otherwise drab occasion.

Napier Pitches Champions to Victory Over Phillies by 3 to 2.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 24.—The Reds disposed of Pitcher Smith in less than two innings today and won easily from Philadelphia, 7 to 2. Napier, a recruit from the Texas League, pitched the full game for the champions and, although he was hit freely, he showed good form with men on bases and was never in serious danger. Sensational one-hand catches by each of the three visiting outfielders were features.

WILD PITCH HURTS BROOKLYN'S CAUSE

Grimes's Slip, Letting In Two Runs, Gives Pirates the Verdict in 4-3 Struggle.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—The Dodgers and Giants are introducing a vaudeville specialty in the National League race, and, while their efforts are marked by the best of intentions, they are not accomplishing what, in the parlance of the theatrical profession, could be designated as a knockout. Their particular stunt is what is commonly called a sister act. The two teams from the big town keep perfect step and time. They dance in and out in a way that would make a couple of buck and wing dancers retire to the farm from envy. When one loses, the other acts accordingly. When one of them bursts out with a victory, the other just naturally whangs the everlasting daylights out of its opponents. It is all a beautiful demonstration of domestic sympathy and co-operation, but it's not calculated to gather any particular increment for either contestant in the race for the pennant.

All of which is by way of saying that the Dodgers got trounced here today by the Pirates, at the same time that the Giants were getting theirs in St. Louis. The result not only was to the disadvantage of both Greater New York teams, but it meant a sizable boost to their especial enemy, those unfeeling denizens of a State that ought to be content with supplying the country with Presidents without insisting upon copping off all the baseball pennants in sight in addition. Let the Reds have their fun while they may. The Dodgers were trimmed today by a score of 4 to 3.

It was all Burleigh Grimes's own fault, or at least it was largely due to one misstep by the Brooklyn pitcher, though it is hard to blame a man when he pitches such fine ball as Burleigh did today. Burleigh held the Buccaneers to eight hits and kept them well separated for the most part. If only he hadn't unloosed a wild heave in the opening frame all might have been well. But Burleigh did just that thing and the result was two runs that were in the last analysis responsible for the Pirate victory. If Grimes could have thought of a worse place to insert a wild pitch, Manager Robbie would be glad to be informed as to how he could dope it. The bases were chuck full of Pirates at the time and Burleigh took the most painful method possible from a Brooklyn point of view for relieving the congestion. Ho, hum! Better luck tomorrow!

Winning Run in Eighth.

Although it was those two runs that Grimes's erratic heave made possible that were the most damaging of all to the Brooklyn cause, the real winning run for the Pirates did not cross the plate until the eighth, wherein Bigbee and Southworth collaborated with a couple of hits, aided by a sacrifice by Carey. Petey Kilduff was injured in this inning. Bigbee's grounder took a crazy bound just as Petey was about to reach for it, and the ball hit the Brooklyn second baseman in the face. It was a painful injury and Kilduff was unable to continue in the game, McCabe going in in his place for the remainder of the afternoon.

Carlson was vouchsafed up for more hits than Grimes, three more, in fact, but he pitched a fair article of ball just the same. It was a tight struggle all the way, and both twirlers did a worthy afternoon's stint. Carlson was particularly lucky in the remarkable support which he received, his teammates backing him up in spectacular fashion. He was hit so freely that he was in danger all the time, but there was always some piracious individual or other to help him out of the hole. Three well executed double plays were especially efficacious in getting Carlson out of trouble.

In the fateful first inning, Bigbee, first up for Pittsburgh, steamed a double along the third base line and went to third when Carey beat out a hit to the box. Carey stole

HARDY IN UPHILL FIGHT

Veteran Has His Troubles Disposing of Parker, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3—Burdick Wins from Botsford.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 24.—With both morning and afternoon play instituted today on the courts of the Meadow Club by the active committeemen, Lyleton Fox, Walter Niles and L. Du Pont Irving, real progress was made in the invitation tennis tournament, five men reaching out into the round before the semi-finals, with only eleven survivors in the entire singles event. Vincent Richards won a spectacular victory over Francis T. Hunter, scores 6—3, 8—6. Samuel Hardy staged a splendid uphill battle against H. S. Parker for a decision at 2—6, 7—5, 6—3. William J. Clothier easily eliminated Fred C. Inman with the loss of only two games. Hugh Kelleher surprised the gallery with a straight-set triumph over Robert Leroy, 9—7, 6—1, and Dwight P. Robinson of Harvard disposed of R. L. James and Dr. William Rosenbaum in quick succession without the loss of a set.

In the second round the meeting of Ralph Burdick and Willard Botsford produced a sensational struggle, which was won by the former, 6—4, 2—6, 6—4, while Watson M. Washburn handed Fred C. Baggs a terrific beating at 6—1, 6—2. G. Colket Caner came through a hard three-set match at the expense of Marshall Allen of Seattle, and Leonard Beekman made his debut in the tournament by taking four sets at 6—3 each from Walter J. Toussaint and Ralph L. Baggs in succession.

The Richard-Hunter match, although decided in straight sets, was one of the best encounters of the day, and the junior champion had to travel at his fastest clip to pull out ahead of the hard-hitting New Rochelle man. The latter, who has made a notable record in this season's tournaments, both on clay and on grass, was hitting the ball on the nose almost from the start, and his speed and precision made good volleying a difficult matter. He lost his opening service on errors, but won his next delivery at love, and although he suffered another break in the fifth game, trailing at 1—4, he immediately got it back and came within one game of a tie score by winning a long deuce affair.

Aggressive Tactics Succeed.

At this point, however, Richards began a brilliant streak of aggressive net play and his tactics were so successful that he took eight points in a row for the set, 6—3, the second love game coming against Hunter's service. He began the second session with still another love game, making twelve straight points, scored by almost irresistible tennis. Hunter then got back into the running with a deuce game on service and, after alternating to 2—all, broke through for the lead. Richards immediately equalized, however, and went ahead in turn, service alternating to 5—all.

Here Hunter got another break and it looked like a three-set match, but the University Heights youngster upset him once more, and after a long deuce effort took his own service for a 7—6 lead. This gave him confidence to start another of his famous volleying streaks and he finished the set like the first, with a love game against service, taking the match at 8—6.

										Tot. Pts.G.
FIRST SET.
Richards	4	5	0	4	4	3	5	4	4—33—6
SECOND SET.
Richards	4	3	4	2	3	4	5	2	4	2	4	7—51—8
Hunter	0	5	1	4	5	2	3	4	2	5	2	5	0—42—6

Hardy's Uphill Struggle.

Hardy's defeat of H. S. Parker came late in the day, the veteran having previously eliminated the young Australian, Arthur Yencken, in straight sets, 7—5, 6—4. Hardy seemed a trifle weary when he took the court against the Cedarhurst representative, but in the long run his endurance proved more than equal to the difficult test. The opening set was short and one-sided, Parker running away with the Davis Cup Captain to the tune of 6—2, and showing excellent command of all his strokes. He went after the second set in similar fashion, and the match seemed over when his lead had mounted to 4—0, and then 5—2. But within one point of defeat Hardy braced and began a courageous uphill fight, going after every ball with stubborn determination and coming into the net for persistent volleys. One of his returns was made after he had slipped and fallen, his great recovery leading to a long rally which eventually ended in his favor.

Parker gradually wilted in the face of Hardy's remarkable steadiness and threw away many a point on errors, the veteran keeping up his winning streak for five straight games and squaring the match at 7—5. The rubber came more easily, with both men tiring toward the close. Hardy got an early break through his rival's service and by playing the safest kind of tennis won out handily at 6—3, completing a real triumph for the lasting qualities of his game.

Kelleher and Leroy had a terrific struggle for one set, with the former finally volleying his way to victory at 9—7. Leroy, who had done some hard running in an earlier victory over Harold Godshall, the hard-hitting youngster from the Coast, slowed up considerably after this long set and Kelleher, increasing the speed of his game with every rally, rushed on to a surprising decision at 6—1.

Clothier Scores Twice.

W. J. Clothier continued his impressive advance with two one-sided victories, putting out Murray Vernon in the morning with the loss of only three games and making just as short work of Fred Inman in the afternoon. The 1906 champion will meet the winner of the Washburn-Caner match next, and he should make things decidedly interesting for either of them.

One of the surprises of the day was the splendid showing of Dwight Robinson, the intercollegiate runner-up, who looks like a Samsonian and rather more energetic edition of "Chuck" Garland. The Harvard man went through two matches in overwhelming style, first defeating Robert L. James, the Hoosac Valley winner, at 6—2, 6—2, and then upsetting Dr. William Rosenbaum, also in straight sets. Robinson will meet Vincent Richards tomorrow and should give the Fordham boy a great battle. Leonard Beekman was another two-time winner, both Toussaint and Ralph Baggs failing to get more than three games per set against his well-rounded game.

Alfred Dabney and Arnold Jones staged a curious three-set match in which the national boy champion took a love set after losing the opener at 6—1, only to drop the rubber with another complete reversal of form, also by the whitewash route.

Burrill Double Winner.

Of the Westerners in the tournament, William Burrill had the best success of the day, eliminating two opponents by decisive scores, and is bracketed with Ralph Burdick for his next match. The latter had a hard time overcoming the brutal drives of Willard Botsford, and only his strenuous volleying and overhead hitting won the day after three dazzling sets. Marshall Allen went through two three-set encounters, winning the first from Major Harran of the English army, but losing the second to G. Colket Caner. Washburn's steadiness completely upset the chopping of Fred Baggs, and he won in a manner which indicated that he would be hard to stop in this tournament.

William M. Johnston, Willis Davis, Roland Roberts and C. J. Griffin all definitely dropped out of the draw today, but new arrivals are expected for the start of the doubles tomorrow, including William T. Tilden, 2d, and Charles S. Garland.

AMERICAN BOXERS WIN AT OLYMPICS

ANTWERP, Aug. 24 (Associated Press).—All of the three Americans who reached the finals in the boxing championships held in connection with the Olympic Games won their bouts tonight.

The Americans are Edward Eagan, light heavyweight, Yale University and champion of the American Expeditionary Forces; Samuel Mosberg of the Pastime A. C., a lightweight, and F. De Genero of the Paulist A. C., a flyweight.

They were the only three survivors of the fifteen Americans entered for the world's amateur championships. Although there was no doubt as to who were the visitors in the bouts tonight, all the Americans had hard fighting. The bouts consisted of three three-minute rounds.

De Genero's fight, which was with the Danish bantamweight champion, Petersen, who had trained down to the flyweight poundage, was the liveliest of the finals, and brought ringing cheers from the Americans who thronged the packed auditorium. Eagen's opponent, the Norwegian Sorsdal, avoided taking the count only by repeatedly clinching in the last round. Mosberg beat Johansen, a Dane.

In the bantamweight class Walker, South Africa, defeated Graham, Canada, while the French featherweight, Fritech, beat Gauchet, the Frenchman, who won from U. Zivic of Pittsburgh, on Monday night.

In the 1,500-meters free stroke, semi-finals, Norman Ross, Illinois A. C., won the first heat in 23 minutes 2 2-5 seconds. F. K. Kahele, United States Navy, was second and E. T. Bolden, Illinois A. C., third. All the Americans qualified for the final heat.

In the semi-final of the 400 meters breast stroke swimming event today, J. Howell of Oakland, Cal., finished third and qualified for the final. M. J. McDermott of the United States Navy failed to qualify.

In the final of the 100 meters free stroke swim Duke Kahanamoku, Honolulu, beat his new records, finishing in 1 minute 2-5 second. On complaint by Harald, Australia, who finished fifth, that he was pocketed by Kahanamoku and Norman Ross, the judges decided that the final should be swum again on Sunday. The Americans present registered their dissatisfaction over the decision. Kahanamoku's record will stand.

P. Kealeha, Honolulu, finished second in the race, with W. W. Harris, Jr., Honolulu, third, and Ross fourth.

In the Olympic clay court tennis championship, final round today, Raymond of South Africa defeated Ichiya Kumagae, Japan, 5—7, 6—4, 7—5, 6—4, in the men's singles. In the men's doubles, Turnbull and Woosman, England, defeated Kumagae and Kashio, Japan, 6—2, 5—7, 7—5, 7—5.

In the women's singles, Mlle. Lenglen, France, won from Miss Holman, England, 6—3, 6—0. In the women's doubles, Mrs. MacNair and Miss McKane, England, defeated Mrs. Beamish and Miss Holman, England, 8—6, 6—4. In the mixed doubles, Mlle. Lenglen and M. Decugis, France, defeated Miss McKane and Mr. Woodman, England, 6—4, 6—2.

BRAZIL TO HOLD GAMES.

Intermediate Olympics Awarded to South America for 1922.

ANTWERP, Aug. 24.—At a meeting today of the International Olympic Committee it was decided that the intermediate Olympic games of 1922 should be held in Brazil. They are to be known as the South American Olympic games.

The next meeting of the committee will be held in Geneva in June, 1921, when applications for the holding of the 1924 Olympic games will be considered. Applications already have been received from Atlantic City, Chicago and Pasadena, Cal., Rome and Christiania. There is, however, no indication as to which place is favored at the present time.

MUST BUILD NEW ELEVEN.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 24.—Robert T. Fisher, head coach of the Harvard football team, intends to get an early start with his new lot of candidates this Fall. Accordingly he will muster his forces on Soldiers' Field on Sept. 7, the day after Labor Day, and the men will be well grounded before their first game. Fisher will have to build a new eleven, and in this task he expects to be assisted by the majority of the coaches who worked with him a year ago when the Crimson beat Yale and tied with Princeton.

The coach's plans now are to have as assistants Wallie Trumbull for the line in general, Derric Parmentier for the centres, Bill Snow for the guards, Charley Coolidge for the ends and Dick Wiggleworth for quarter back and back field coach. In addition, Fisher hopes that Ralph Horween, last year's full back, will be available to coach the back field and the punters, and, if possible, he will have "Babe" Felton, one of last year's quarter backs, also on the staff. Soucy may help coach the ends. Larry Curtis, a former tackle, has been suggested by Fisher as coach for the freshmen and Jimmy Knox again will be in charge of the scrub team.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Aug. 24.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, who will meet Billy Miske of St. Paul here Labor Day, expects to go into the ring weighing 187 pounds, his exact weight when he won the title from Jess Willard, he said at the conclusion of his workout today. Tonight he tipped the beam at 190.

Fourteen months out of the ring apparently have done Dempsey little harm, so far as condition goes, for his work today gave the impression that he is boxing with the same speed and endurance that characterized his training for the Willard match.

WOMEN'S GOLF UNDER WAY.

Favorites in Western Tourney Are Successful in First Round.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Completion of the first round of match play in the women's Western golf championship at Oak Park today found most of the favorites still in the running.

Mrs. Perry Fiske of DeKalb, Ill., titleholder; Mrs. Melvin Jones, Glen Oak, medalist in the qualifying flight yesterday; Mrs. U. S. Pritchard (the former Miss Myra Helmer), Battle Creek, Mich., former champion, and other well-known players won their matches.

AMERICAN ATHLETES ARE STILL SUPREME

From a viewpoint of competitive sport, none of the six previous Olympiads have compared with the current games at Antwerp on track and field. While the athletes of the United States scored a decisive victory—a victory that compares favorably with anything they have accomplished in world competition in the past—and again proved their unquestionable superiority in running, jumping, pole vaulting, weight throwing and the other events that comprise the generally accepted program of athletic events, still it was impressively demonstrated that the European countries, especially the Scandinavian countries, have greatly improved in athletic prowess. Naturally, the nations like England, France, Belgium, Canada and Australia are still feeling the ravages of the World War. However, they have shown wonderful recuperative powers and the athletes they sent to the Olympic games foreshadow great rivalry for the United States in such events in the future.

For seven successive Olympiads the Americans reigned supreme on track and field. They never have excelled in distance running, and this year was no exception. They failed to score a single place in either the 5,000 metre or the 10,000 metre runs and were able to finish no better than fourth in the cross-country team race. The javelin throw was the only other event in which the United States failed to score a point. But, taken by and large, the success of the American Olympic team lived up to the expectations and hopes that the athletes carried over with them aboard the U. S. Army transport Princess Matoika.

Thirty events comprised the track and field program of the Olympic games. In these the United States scored 9 first places, 13 seconds, 11 thirds, 8 fourths, 8 fifths and 7 sixths. While the number of first places scored by the 1920 representatives of the United States is considerably less than the 16 firsts scored by them at Stockholm in 1912, the distribution of other places among the members of the team and the fact that injury to several stars failed to handicap the punch of the team bespeaks volumes for the all-around ability of the well-balanced team.

Americans Set 3 of 5 New Records.

Naturally the world at large measures athletic prowess by record-breaking performances. These are the spectacular things that attract widespread attention. In this respect the representatives of the United States did more than their share. Of the five world's records that were made, American athletes recorded three. Two Olympic records also fell by the wayside, and one of these was bettered by an American. On the whole, then, the supremacy of the United States has not really been threatened, and while it behooves this country to watch its step for European development during the four years that will intervene before the next Olympics, nothing transpired during the games just concluded in the stadium at Antwerp to warrant the belief that the United States is in danger of being dethroned for some time to come.

New world's records were made in the 110-meter hurdles, the 400-meter hurdles, the pole vault, javelin throw and 400-meter relay race. Of these premier achievements Americans scored in the 400-meter hurdle race, the pole vault and the 400-meter relay race. They corraled an Olympic record in the running high jump. The fourth world's record went to Canada when Earl Thomson, the Dartmouth college star who represented the Dominion in the games, flashed his way over the 110-meter high hurdles in 14 4-5 seconds. The former world's record was 15 seconds, made by Forrest Smithson at the Olympic Games in London in 1908. The second Olympic record was made by Finland, when Hannes Kolehmainen, who makes his home in the United States but ran for Finland, jogged over the Marathon course in 2 hours 32 minutes 35 4-5 seconds. The fifth world's record was made by Myrla, Finland, in the javelin, when he hurled the spear 215 feet 9 inches.

Loomis's Brilliant Feat.

Frank Loomis plucked a world's record for the United States in the 400-meter hurdle race. He ran and jumped the distance in 54 seconds. This was a full second faster than the best previous time. The former record was made by C. Bacon of the United States, when he turned in 55 seconds for the event in the Olympic Games at London in 1908. The 400-meter relay team, composed of Charles W. Paddock, J. V. Scholz, Loren Murchison and M. M. Kirksey, sped around the track in 42 1-5 seconds. The former world's record was made by Germany in the Olympic Games of 1912 at Stockholm. The Germans covered the distance in 42 3-5 seconds. The third world's record to be grabbed by an American was taken into custody by that stellar athletic performer, Frank K. Foss of the Chicago A. A. in the pole vault.

After capturing first place in this event he was permitted to go in quest of still greater laurels with the result that he finally thrust himself over the bar at a height of 13 feet 5 3-16 inches. The former record of 13 feet 2¼ inches was made by M. S. Wright of the United States in 1912.

American made its Olympic record performance in the high jump when R. W. Landon of the New York Athletic Club cleared the bar at 6 feet 4 1-5 inches.

The biggest surprise of the meeting was occasioned by the disappointing showing of Joie Ray in the 1,500-meter run. The stocky little distance runner of the Illinois Athletic Club was generally regarded as a certain winner in this event in spite of the fact that it was realized that he was destined to meet some stern opposition. Ray was unable to finish better than eighth. There is some excuse for this showing, however. While training for the event Ray strained a tendon and it was doubtful until the last moment whether he would be able to start. In spite of this handicap Ray broke from the barrier with a surprising burst of speed and for the first half of the distance he led the runners a merry pace. Then he began to wilt and when the final test came he was not equal to it. M. Shields of the Meadow Brook Club of Philadelphia, was the only American to finish among the point-scoring six places. He was third, behind the two Englishmen, A. G. Hill, who also won the 800-meter run, and Baker.

Accidents Rob U. S. of Stars.

Accidents to other of our athletes undoubtedly kept the United States from scoring more points than it did. Sol Butler of Dubuque College, Iowa, was regarded as a sure point winner in the running broad jump, but a strained tendon prevented his competing. The result was that the United States had to depend upon Johnson and Templeton. Johnson finished second to Petersen of Sweden, and Templeton was fourth, behind Abrahamson of Sweden. An injury prevented Willie Plant from probably scoring for the United States in the two mile walking events, and Pat McDonald might have annexed first honors in the 16-pound shot put had it not been for the fact that he injured his thumb while training on the transport on the way to Antwerp. Matt McGrath was handicapped in his specialty, the hammer throw, by a wrenched leg and could not finish better than fifth, although he has often excelled the winner's mark of 173 feet 5 11-12 inches.

All of these things contributed to keep the Americans from scoring a more decisive victory, and yet the official point score for the track and field events shows that they won by a margin of 107 points over their nearest rivals, the Finns.

They scored second places in the 100-meter dash, 200-meter dash, 800-meter run, 110-meter hurdles, 400-meter hurdles, 3,000-meter steeplechase, 10,000-meter walk, running high jump, running broad jump, 56-pound weight, Decathlon, Pentathlon and tug of war.

They were third in the 110-meter hurdles, 1,500-meter run, 400-meter hurdles, 3,000-meter walk, running high jump, pole vault, discus throw, hammer throw, shot put, 3,000-meter team race, and Hamilton and LeGendre of the United States tied with Lortenen of Finland for the position in the Pentathlon.

They scored fifths in the 800-meter run, 110-meter hurdles, 3,000-meter steeplechase, 3,000-meter walk, running high jump, running hop, step and jump, discus throw and hammer throw.

The seven sixth places were scored by the United States in the 100-meter dash, 800-meter run, 400-meter hurdles, 3,000-meter steeplechase, 10,000-meter walk, running hop, step and jump, and 3,000-meter team race.

VARDON AND RAY HUMBLED.

Hutchison and Ayton Beat Them at Chicago by 7 and 5.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, British golfers, today suffered their worst defeat in this country when they lost to Jock Hutchison, the new professional champion, and Laurie Ayton, a recent arrival from Scotland, 7 down and 5 to play in a 36-hole best ball exhibition match at the Glen View course, where Hutchison is the professional. It was the third defeat for the Britons in four days in Chicago.

Hutchison and Ayton shot remarkable golf, the former being two under par in the morning and seven under in the afternoon, while Ayton shot par in the morning and was five under in the afternoon.

Ayton's morning score was a par 74, while Hutchison had a 72. In the afternoon Ayton played the round in 69 and Hutchison completed the eighteen holes in 67. Vardon had 77 in the morning and 75 in the afternoon. Ray's morning score was 72, but he picked up his ball on one hole in the afternoon.

GARFIELD LEADS GOLFERS.

Has Low Gross Score in Trade Men's Tourney at Yountakah.

Such a mad scramble for honors resulted yesterday when the Eastern Trade Golf Association held its midsummer jubilee on the links of the Yountakah Country Club at Nutley, N. J., that the committee found it necessary to award ten prizes in order to placate the low scorers. More than fifty members from the metropolitan district entered the eighteen-hole handicap medal play event in the morning and the best-ball foursome after luncheon.

J. B. Garfield led all comers in the morning round with the low gross score of 80. Low net honors went to J. K. Blackmore, with a total of 71. His gross was 91 and his handicap 20. Other net prizes were won with the following scores: M. M. Root, 98, 25—73; E. Hughes, 94, 20—74; T. J. Faherty, 110, 26—74; L. F. Rothwell, 88, 12—76; W. H. Burnett, 88, 12—76; E. C. JUDGES QUESTION FAVORITE'S DEFEAT

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Showing a marked improvement in form over his previous races and being aided skillfully by Jockey Earl Sande, the Redstone Stable's Georgie fairly romped home the winner of the Mohawk Stakes at a mile here this afternoon and struck another blow against the already distressed form players. Georgie took the measure of the Oneck Stable's Edwina, a well supported favorite, by five lengths, with King Albert third in the small field of four starters.

Before Georgie scored his victory three public choices had been beaten in quick succession, and the defeat of one of them, Dartmoor of the stable of H. P. Whitney, caused an investigation in the judges' stand, which lasted for fifteen minutes before the red board was put up making the order

Italian Silk Eestimate.

The official estimate of the Italian silk production for this year, according to a cable from Trade Commissioner McLean at Rome, puts the crop at 59,500,000 pounds of cocoons against 43,500,000 pounds last year. This is an increase of 37 per cent. over 1919, but below the ten-year average of 77,500,000 pounds. Raw silk is Italy's most important export to the United States, and larger shipments are indicated for the coming year.

Woolen Opening Put Off.

There is a well grounded rumor among buyers of woolens that the opening of Spring lines will not occur until Sep. 15. It was the understanding, not long ago, that the opening would take place immediately after Labor Day. Buyers are not counting on the placement of much business, and interest in the opening is confined more to prices than to merchandise. Indications are that the prices made will be used to readjust the values of goods now held in stock.

Little Doing in Gray Goods.

No response was shown in the local gray goods market yesterday to the rise in cotton quotations. Little business was done, and what there was reported was from second hands. In the printcloths 38½-inch 64-60s for September and October delivery went at 15 cents; 60-48s for August and September at 12 cents and 44-40s for August at 9½ cents. In sheetings sales of 56-60 four-yard goods for August delivery were made at 16 cents. By an error in this column yesterday the price of spot 39-inch 64-104 4.20-yard sateens for August was put at 16 cents. It should have been 19 cents.

Men's gabardine suits have seen an increased sale this Spring and Summer, and it is understood to be the plans of several large makers of this fabric to prepare for an unusually good season for them next year. Note is taken of how gabardines superseded serges in the women's wear trade and it is thought quite possible that the material may show up equally well with men's clothing. Quite a fair business has been taken by one mill organization on an all-worsted 10 to 10½ ounce gabardine selling at $3.87½. Specialty houses making separate coats have been good customers and an even wider distribution is foreseen.

Foresee Short Production.

Any surplus of clothing that is carried over from this to next year will, in the opinion of representative manufacturers, be wiped out by the small production which the shortened Spring season will make necessary. The mills will require, it is pointed out, ninety days in which to make delivery of samples. This will delay the start of Spring clothing manufacturing until late in December. Actual deliveries from the mills will not be completed until late in February. This will mean a very short season for the clothiers and some of them predict that not more than 50 per cent. of the normal quantity of goods made will be produced.

Sales to Continue.

In the opinion of a representative manufacturer interested in a number of retail stores, there will be little cessation of retail sales during the coming Fall. He explained that, since the banks cannot be depended upon to furnish funds to finance a business, it has been the policy of the stores to finance themselves. This is done by buying goods for which an immediate outlet is seen. A complete turn-over is sought in thirty days. The sale offers the best means of quickening the movement of goods over the counter, and for that reason will continue to be used a good deal more than in normal times.

Balbriggan manufacturers are to hold a meeting at Utica today to try and come to some understanding regarding output and prices. The industry is in the best of shape, from all accounts, and an improvement in business is much desired. During the war period and since prices have been at a high level, and this has caused the introduction and wide sale of woven instead of knitted fabrics for light underwear. The makers of nainsook undergarments saw their opportunity and took advantage of it. As a result, many persons have become accustomed to wearing other than knit underwear, and it is a habit that will in the future cut into the sale of balbriggan.

Use of Filet Lace.

There is an impression that Irish lace is to take the place of the now long popular filet and perhaps crowd it out. More of the Irish has been seen recently both in the retail shops and on the women wearers, but manufacturers say that the filet is more than holding its own. A big New York house having a factory in Venice and also one in China, says that there is a 50 per cent. larger sale of the filet than of the Irish. It is a clean, strong, serviceable lace, economical in the long run, and a beautiful lace as well. The best filet has been coming from China the last three years or so. They have there the finest thread and make a superior lace. There is a very general demand for the filet in department and other stores all over the country, and great quantities go into the underwear and blouse manufactories.

Philippine Embroideries.

Hand-embroidered lingerie from the Philippines, for women, is finding a large and increasing demand in this country. Some of this work is done by women in the factories and there are, also, home workers. The demand is not only because of the beauty of the work, but because of the cost. Garments that can be made for $27 a dozen in the Philippines cost $60 a dozen if they come from France, they say at a house which handles the biggest output from Manila. A recent innovation is the introduction of filet lace into the embroidered garments, sometimes small inserts or, in the more elaborate garments, much of it. The elaborate garments run up into high prices, a woman's robe de nuit selling at wholesale as high as $35 for the individual garment. The lace comes from China, while the batiste, from which the body of all the garment is made, if of American manufacture.

Designs in Lamp Shades.

New ideas in lamp shades are those of chemically treated gauze that has the design hand painted upon it. The design may be in bright colors, and very attractive ones have the design in a single color, silhouetted in black or blue. The gauze foundation gives a pretty, soft effect. The parchment shades, always good, hold their own. One of the prettiest and newest just now on the market is big and round, with almost straight sides and an impressionist landscape in the design. Around that shade closed at the top has a silk skirt under a fringe, and there are lantern-shaped shades for both table and standing lamps. A screen at the side for a small candle-like lamp is new in having only the design translucent, the body being dark, and the flowers that make up the design stand out with brilliant effect. All these shades are of home manufacture, being made in this city.

FABRIC FURS SHOWN.

An Exhibition of Novel Designs from Shelton Looms.

Following on the heels of the important fashion shows for imported and domestic creations of the season comes an exhibition of the latest fabrics from the Shelton Looms, which is held this week at the Ritz-Carlton. The materials have been made into striking designs, but the fabrics have first place and the progress made by the American designers of materials is most interesting.

Ever since the finer fabrics from France were cut off by the war the Shelton Looms have been introducing new fabrics, and, not content with producing cloth materials and velvets that rivaled France in her palmiest days, the designers set about to make more elaborate materials and imitation furs.

The novelty of this season's show is an imitation feather design in plush, which is used in hats. The designer studied the plumage of the specimens at the Natural History Museum, and the colors and design were taken from this study. Panoply plush is another new fabric. It is a very soft plush of rather uneven texture and was shown in plain material or in plaids. There is also a Mandarin plush, which has an Oriental figure. This material is used for evening wraps and negligées.

The Kerami material, introduced last year, has been amplified and is shown in a number of shades and textures. Two different variations are Rex Kerami and Haute Kerami. Some other of the new fabrics are Pan Ondula, Seal Plush Lapinex, Persica, Karaket, Peltfur, civet fur, sable and squirrel.

Prizes were awarded for the best costumes designed from the materials of the Shelton Looms. There were twelve classes in the competition, and about fifty models were shown. Edward Kolbert & Sons won the first prize of $100 for a wrap of brown velvet embroidered with gold. The most interesting dinner gown among the prize winners was of panoply plush in a new shade, reseda green—rather between an olive green and grass green. It was a simple design with panels of black lace over the hips, and worn with it was a toque of black velvet with a veil of the black lace.

Germany Regaining Toy Trade.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Germany is recovering some of her pre-war trade, especially in toys, with England much to the chagrin of British trade interests, according to reports received today by the Department of Commerce. Owing to the exchange rate, German toys undersell British and English products and manufacturers have asked the British Government to take steps toward checking such imports.

DRY AGENT, SLAYER, LOSES BAIL FIGHT

Judge Mayer Denies Motion to Release Stewart McMullin, Prohibition Officer.

TO FIX TRIAL DATE SEPT. 7

Judge Julius M. Mayer, in the United States District Court yesterday afternoon, denied the motion by the Government that Stewart N. McMullin, a prohibition agent, locked up in the Tombs on a charge of murder, be admitted to bail. The decision of Judge Mayer followed the filing of a notice of trial in the Federal District Court by State Assistant District Attorney John Caldwell Myers.

On Sept. 7, Judge Mayer said, he will fix the date for trial. He said the trial should take place not later than early in October. It is charged McMullin shot and killed Harry Carlton, a chauffeur, while making a liquor raid in an apartment in East Seventy-sixth Street last March 11.

In a raid on the restaurant of Frank K. Busto, 45 Beaver Street, yesterday morning, prohibition agents seized about a dozen bottles of Chianti wine and liquors, they said. The raid was made by Isadore Einstein, Moe W. Smith and Herman Wittenberg, who said they saw evidence of violations of the prohibition law while in the place Monday. Subpoenas were issued for the proprietor and a waiter for their appearance in the Federal District Attorney's office today.

The agents reported to prohibition enforcement headquarters in the Custom House yesterday that on Monday night they seized a Packard touring car aboard the Albany Night Line steamer Berkshire and found fifty-five one-gallon cans of alcohol The steamer was about to depart from Pier 31 for Albany, the agents said, when they found the car, which had been shipped as freight. They took the car and its contents to the Knickerbocker Warehouse. The car bore a New York State license. The owner of the car is being sought.

Patrolman William Lynch stopped an automobile truck carrying nine barrels of wine at North Eleventh Street and Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday morning. Three men on the truck were taken to the Bedford Avenue Station to be turned over to the Federal authorities. It was said the men admitted getting the wine in Manhattan. They gave their names as John Mansa, 29 years old, 242 Mulberry Street; James Torro, 28 years old, 76 Clifton Street, and Ignacio Cooper, 35 years old, 52 Spring Street, all of Manhattan.

Three men arrested by the Newark police Monday night in a garage at 147 Waverly Avenue, Newark, were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Mathews and held in $1,000 bail for the Federal Grand Jury on a charge of violating the Volstead act. The police said they found four barrels and eighty-four cases of whisky, valued at $8,000, in an automobile in the garage. According to the police, the men arrested were in their shirt sleeves and transferring bottles of whisky from cases to barrels. The police said they found a 45-calibre revolver in the automobile. The men gave their names as Louis Morowitz, 302 Rowina Street, Detroit; Abe Kaplan, 101 Lillie Street, Newark, and Robert Kerber, 603 Huntington Street, Newark. Kaplan, according to the police, said he was a chauffeur hired by a man to drive the machine, and Kerber said he was Kaplan's helper. Morowitz said he knew nothing about the matter, having gone into the garage just as the police arrived.

Magistrate Marsh, in the Harlem Court yesterday, held John Daly, 32 years old, of 127 East 127th Street, and Herbert Cowles, 38 years old, of Glens Falls, N. Y., in $1,000 bail each for a hearing next Friday on a charge of attempting to extort $25 from two bartenders in a restaurant at 1,978 Park Avenue last Monday night while posing as revenue officers. Antonio Reda and Louis Perri, the complainants, said the men received sandwiches and drinks in the restaurant, and, when payment was demanded, Daly threw an internal revenue officer's badge on the table and said: "This will pay the bill."

—New York World, Jan. 25, 1920.

BANKERS INK

It is Acid-Proof

Any experienced crook is familiar with every acid that will affect inks. Even a weak acid will remove most inks.

But chemists of years of experience have been trying in vain for months to find some acid to remove Bankers Ink. They cannot. It is absolutely acid-proof.

It is Alkali-Proof

It is remarkable how many inks that are supposed to be acid-proof are easily removed with plain soap and water. They are not alkali-proof.

It is Fade-Proof

We are asked "Is it sun-proof—fade-proof?" Yes, absolutely! But who would keep check-books and valuable documents in the sun? They should ask "Is it proof against chemical action in paper?" Yes, absolutely as permanent as the paper itself.

It is Water-Proof

After a fire a concern's books were saved—but the records were gone. The ink had been washed off. How permanent are your records?

Another firm whose books were soaked from a flood had the same experience.

We all laugh at the fellow who locked his stable after his horse was stolen, but, not having any horses ourselves—merely laugh.

Many who read in the daily news of those who have been victims of clever check-raising—merely read. Do you realize that a single check skillfully altered might wipe out the savings of a lifetime? You may never fear lightning until it hits you—then the damage is done. A forged check is like lightning—when it happens to strike you, then it's too late. The forger wins and you lose.

Some go so far as to purchase a so-called check-protector. But a protecting-device that doesn't protect is worse than none at all. Banks are more ready to accept checks printed on a check-protector. They seem to give a sense of security. Yet checks so written are constantly being raised.

While a bank holds itself responsible for payment only on the proper signature, it does not accept responsibility for correctness of the amount.

The only real protection is to write everything with an ink that cannot be washed off, faded out, or affected by acids or alkalies. And that means Bankers Ink.

Bankers Ink is absolutely acid-proof, alkali-proof, fade-proof and proof against soap and water. Checks written with Bankers Ink cannot be altered.

Bankers Ink is sold in all the various forms desired—both liquid and dry. Liquid ink is put up in bottles containing from 2 ounces to one quart, in jugs, kegs and barrels. In the dry form it is put up in cartons of various sizes, in tablet form in boxes, in powdered form in envelopes and in powdered form in bottles.

The last named is a new and exclusive method of packing ink developed by the Bankers Ink Corporation, and is styled "Bottled Dry." Just a small amount of powder is placed in the bottom of the bottle. It can then be shipped all year 'round without fear of freezing in Winter, spoiling from heat in Summer, or the frightful mess and damage caused by breakage of bottles of liquid ink. When the customer receives his bottle of Bankers Ink Bottled Dry he simply fills the bottle with water and instantly has clean, fresh ink—the finest ink in the world. It has no sediment, cannot become gummy and will not corrode or rust the pen.

The most Perfect Ink for Household, Fountain Pen and General Use. An unexcelled opportunity for clean, hustling agents.

Agents wanted in every city and town in the U. S.

Bankers Ink is the most economical ink ever made—the most satisfactory household, office and general writing and fountain pen ink—and the most trustworthy guardian of your bank account, your business and your written intentions.

PRICES DROP IN BALTIMORE

Following Palmer Order for Inquiry, Coal Declines to $12.75, Then to $9.75 and $8.75.

OPERATORS LAX IN REPORTS

During War 2,482 Gave Figures on Costs, but Only 635 Made Voluntary Statements for May.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—On the heels of Attorney General Palmer's instructions yesterday to all United States District Attorneys to put an end to all profiteering in bituminous coal, the Federal Trade Commission today made public its findings on bituminous coal costs, based on its latest monthly returns. The information contained in this report is understood to have been in the hands of the Department of Justice when the Attorney General issued his order.

Admiral Benson, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, complained on Friday that he has had to pay from $20 to $22 a ton for bunker coal.

The report made public by the Federal Trade Commission states that if the operators reporting for the West Virginia fields are representative for the State, the average reported sales realization of West Virginia operators f. o. b. the mine, which is $3.40, plus transportation which amounts to about $2, lays down coal f. o. b. cars at railroad terminals serving Hampton Roads at about $5.40 per net ton. This is the coal for which the Shipping Board has had to pay from $20 to $22 a ton.

Simultaneously with the making public today of the Federal Trade Commission's report, the District Attorney's office at Baltimore informed the Attorney General's office that there had been a great break in the bituminous coal market at Baltimore. According to the information telephoned by the Baltimore District Attorney, bituminous coal at Baltimore today first dropped to $12.75 a ton, then, $9.75 a ton and then to $8.75 a ton. Even at the last figure there were refusals to buy by those who seemed to think there would be a further drop.

Does Not Give Cost to Consumer.

The Federal Trade Commission does not pursue the investigation to the cost to the ultimate consumer. The Shipping Board uses about 2,000,000 tons a month. There is a lighterage cost to be added to the mine and transportation costs, but above that there is a large margin for profiteering, and it is contended by officials here that this is the situation against which the industrial world and consumers must contend.

The figures presented by the report are based on information obtained from 680 operators out of a total of 2,482 who were compelled to report to the Fuel Administration when it was in existence. Sixty-one operators reported from the West Virginia field. Their sales realization was $3.40 a ton, their reported f. o. b. cost at the mine was $2.53 a ton and their margin was 87 cents a ton. Six operators reported from the Pocahontas field in West Virginia that their sales realization was $3.01 a ton, that the f. o. b. cost was $2.17 a ton and their margin 84 cents a ton. One hundred and fifty-five operators reported from the Pennsylvania field that their sales realization was $5.80 a ton, that their f. o. b. cost at the mine was $2.87 and their margin 93 cents a ton. For the whole country 680 operators reported that their average sales realization was $3.31, that their f. o. b. cost at the mine was $2.77 and their margin 54 cents a ton.

The announcement made today covers bituminous coal costs for May. In making it the commission announced the possible suspension of this monthly report, which informs the operators, the miners and consumers of coal and the public at large with respect to current average production costs and sales realization prices at the mine for bituminous coal. The likelihood of suspension is due to a reduction in the number of operators reporting voluntarily, pending final court decision as to the commission's powers to require the reports. Unless sufficient reports are received to be representative, the commission will discontinue publication rather than risk giving out figures that may be misleading.

Asserts Margin Is Not Profit.

The commission emphasizes that the "margin" is not the same as profit. "In order to arrive at the amount available for income and excess profits taxes, dividends, or surplus," it says, "there must be deducted certain items, such as selling expense and interest on borrowed capital, and there must be added certain items, such as income from outside investments."

Along with the May figures, comparable information is shown for the first three months of 1920 and for the year 1918. The number of identical operators covered by the comparison between May and the first three months of 1920 is 635, and 491 identical operators are covered in the comparison of May with the year 1918. The average working time of the mines of the 635 operators in May was only seventeen days as against eighteen days per month for the same operators from January to March, 1920, and sixteen days for 757 operators in April. The sales realizations of the 635 operators increased from $2.75 per ton in the first three months of 1920 to $3.30 per ton in May; so that, though their total fixed charges per ton increased from $2.37 per ton to $2.75, the resultant margin of these operators increased from 38 cents per ton in the first quarter to 55 cents in May.

The increase in reported cost of the 491 operators in May, 1920, over 1918 was 29 per cent., while their production in May fell 21 per cent. below their average monthly production in 1918. Their absolute amount of reported margin, in dollars, in May, 1920, was 15 per cent. less than the amount of their average monthly reported margin in 1918, though the commission warns that the amount of investment may have been appreciably different at the two periods and that the 491 operators may not be representative of those that did not report.

The increase in total mining costs of the 491 operators in May as compared with the first quarter of 1920 and with the average for 1918 is explained as chiefly due to two causes. (1) Decreased production in May as compared with the other two periods and (2) The two awards increasing the wages of mining labor, one of 14 per cent. effective in November, 1919, and in force throughout the first quarter of 1920; the other of 27 per cent. (including the previous 14 per cent. advance), effective April 1, 1920.

Woman Hurt In Fifth Avenue Bus.

Thrown against a seat by the sudden stopping of a Fifth Avenue bus in which she was riding, Mrs. Mary Frances Brennan, a sister of Theodore Dreiser, author and editor, suffered a fracture of the ribs. Mrs. Brennan had just entered the bus at Eleventh Street and Fifth Avenue when the accident occurred. She refused aid and walked to a friend's house, from where she went to St. Vincent's Hospital for treatment. She is now recovering at her home at 118 West Eleventh Street.

"Especially from Estevan, Sask., to Minot, N. D., has whisky smuggling into the United States assumed huge proportions," Tracey said. "Minot alone contains enough whisky to float a ship and is being utilized as a general clearing station for an organized gang.

"Motor cars appear in Estevan from across the line and make the return trip carrying cargoes which easily clear $2,400 to $2,500 in Minneapolis."

KANSAS TEACHER UPHELD

Resolution Resents Barring of Young Woman by Wichita Methodist Church.

After further discussion of the ban on dancing prevailing in the recreation rules of the Methodist Church and citing instances of injustice, the delegates to the Convention of the National Association of Masters of Dancing at the Hotel Astor yesterday set about to create new steps for the followers of Terpsichore. All day long they worked away, singly and collectively.

Following these endeavors such dances as the Cat Step, Camel Walk, Chic Walk, Fox Trot Artistique and the Triangle One Step were announced and the delegates were optimistic about the future of their creations. Interest in dancing is much greater since prohibition, they say, and they are eager to furnish variety for patrons.

The Cat Step is a rather unusual dance. You step along rather cautiously for three or four steps or more and then turn to right and left with equal caution. These fundamental rules can be elaborated upon, of course, but one less adept can dance it with greatest ease. In the Camel Walk the position of the dancers is the most important thing. They must stand very straight and the ballet step is incorporated. The Chic Walk is a modified one step, such as the French dance, and was inspired by the way so many of the soldiers danced when they returned home.

At the morning session the executive board heard the grievance of Miss Edna L. Shaw of Wichita, Kan., who charged that she was being denied the right to transfer her membership from one Methodist Church in that city to another, solely because she was a dancing teacher. After hearing Miss Shaw the board unanimously adopted a resolution calling on the amusement profession to fight what the board called narrow-minded policy not laid down by John Wesley. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, Miss Edna Shaw, a newspaper woman, in 1918 was a member in good standing at Grace Methodist Episcopal Church at Wichita, Kan., where she had been superintendent for three years of the primary department of the Sunday School and otherwise active, and

"Whereas, Miss Shaw took her letter from Grace Church and by invitation applied for affiliation with the First Methodist Episcopal Church, also in Wichita, and

"Whereas, Miss Shaw states that she was denied membership in the First Church solely because she was and is a teacher of dancing and conducts a dancing school in Wichita, such action practically expelling her from membership in the church, therefore,

"Be it resolved, that the American National Association Masters of Dancing resent this treatment of a member of the profession."

SAVES HER CHILDREN AS TRAIN KILLS FATHER

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Aug. 24.—Joseph Miehle, 53 years old, who lived somewhere in Hart Street, Brooklyn, his wife and their three children were visiting near Stanton today and missed their train when they started home. They decided to walk to Flemington Junction to board another which did not stop at Stanton.

Just as they reached the middle of the railroad bridge that spans the south branch of the Raritan River near Stanton they saw a train coming toward them at high speed. The mother screamed a warning to her children and they scrambled from the rails, clinging as best they might to the bridge structure. The engineer blew his whistle and applied the brakes, but too late to stop the train.

Miehle, apparently, paralyzed by fright, stood in the middle of the track. The mother, satisfied that her children were safe, leaped into the water. The engine struck Miehle and cut his body in two. The three little ones were unscathed.

Boatmen saw the mother struggling in the water and rescued her, while workmen from either end of the bridge hurried to the children and carried them to safety.

CRASH KILLS BROKER'S WIFE

KEANSBURG, N. J., Aug. 24.—Mrs. David Strouse, wife of a New York broker who has a Summer home at 124 Park Avenue, Beacon Beach, was killed in an automobile accident near here today when a car in which she was riding with John Wilkins of Rutherford, N. J., crashed into a tree. Wilkins, an intimate friend of the woman's husband, was held in $5,000 bail.

Wilkins said that the accident was caused by Mrs. Strouse, who put her hand on the wheel of the car as they weer traveling at high speed. He said she caused the car to swerve and strike a tree. Both were hurled from their seats. Mrs. Strouse's head was crushed against one of the supports of the windshield. Wilkins, who landed in the roadway, tried to revive Mrs. Strouse and, failing, called the police. Physicians said that she had been killed instantly.

EXPECT PONZI TO PAY BUT HALF HIS DEBTS

COUNSEL PASSES THE LIE

F. Bradley Cox of New York Is Said to Have Sent $85,000 to Invest.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—Creditors of Charles Ponzi will be paid less than 50 cents on the dollar, according to official estimates, based on the statement of his assets made at the receiver's hearing today, by the promoter of the Postal Coupon get-rich-quick scheme.

The hearing was a stormy one, in which Ponzi's counsel, Daniel H. Coakley, thrice passed the lie to Edward A. Thurston, one of the receivers.

Coakley surrendered to the receivers two checks for $25,000 each, which had been given to him and to Daniel V. McIsaac, associate counsel, as retaining fees. He declared that he wanted everything to go to the creditors and called upon the receivers and their counsel to join with him in working without fee.

The challenge was not accepted, however, and Thurston remarked:

"If you thought this man had a million dollars left, do you suppose anybody thinks you would have got only $25,000?"

"You are a liar when you suggest anything like that," shouted Mr. Coakley, repeating the epithet again and again, to which the receiver only retorted, "Thank you."

Ponzi, his wife sitting within the bar inclosure and listening with keenest interest to his every word, told of safe deposit vaults in numerous banks. He has vaults, he said in the Hanover Trust Company, Tremont Trust, Fidelity Trust, First National and two in the Lexington Trust Company. He has five or six in the Hanover Trust Company, he said, and some of the vaults contain Liberty bonds. The extent of these, he said, he did not know, and he noted that one of the vaults is not in his own name.

In an interval of the hearing, Dr. S. B. Perlmutter of Revere told newspaper men that he was physician for Miss Lucy Mell, Confidential Secretary of Ponzi, and that this morning she had shown him a certified check for $85,000, received from F. Bradley Cox, President of the Brooks Steamship Corporation, and Owen W. Moore, Treasurer, for investment by Ponzi. He said that a letter accompanying the check, which was drawn on the Chase National Bank of New York, bore this statement:

"To assure you the confidence we feel in you, will you kindly invest the amount of the enclosed check in our behalf?"

Conference Delays Hearing.

The resumption of the hearing was held up for more than an hour while Attorney Daniel H. Coakley and Post Office Inspector Dakin conferred with Ponzi in the office of United States Marshal Duane.

Ponzi sat in the detention cage at the Marshal's office, smoking cigarettes as he talked—and his conversation seemed to be in more serious vein than has been customary with him. A thronged court room awaited the opening of the proceedings, while the corridors held close-massed scores that had been unable to force their way to even standing room in the hearing chamber.

Among those within the court room was Thomas L. Lawson, author of "Frenzied Finance." He came early and waited patiently with the rest.

When the hearing opened Ponzi was the first witness. Attorney Dodge questioned him.

"If your liabilities are not more than $3,000,000, do you consider yourself solvent?" Ponzi was asked.

"I have notes and other things," was the reply.

"If your liabilities should total $4,000,000, do you still claim to be solvent?"

"I have assets in notes and bonds."

"How much more that has not been turned in?"

"I can't say. There are certain checks and loans to individuals."

"Mr. Pride might know."

Gives List of His Loans.

"Mr. Chmielinski, $20,000 on a personal loan. The Hanover Trust Company has the note. Mr. McNary, $20,000; Mr. Desmond, $10,000. The Chief of Police of Sharon, an individual loan of $500 or $600. The Napoli Macaroni Company $8,000 on a loan. I hold their notes. The J. R. Poole Company, $130,000."

"Is there anything besides these notes, in addition to real estate, that you might have?"

"I have some Liberty bonds."

"Have you any property abroad?" he was asked.

"I have a little bank account in Italy of about 160,000 lire."

"Nothing else."

"Have you a large stock of international coupons on hand?" asked Mr. Dodge.

"No."

"Nothing that I know of."

"Admitting yourself, your liabilities are $3,000,000, and $7,000,000 the Government estimate ,have you anything beside what you have shown here to prove your assets any greater?"

"Have you any stamps abroad?" Ponzi did not seem to understand this question and it was left unanswered.

"Any foreign investments?"

"No money for business purposes. I decline to answer any more questions of this kind on the ground that it might incriminate me."

Miss Lucy Mell, the confidential secretary of Ponzi, was called to the stand shortly after 3 P. M. and was questioned by Attorney Dodge. She knew about only the office transactions, she said, not of business done outside. When questioned as to whether a list had been kept of investors, she replied that there had been none. The great volume of business, she testified, was done chiefly during July.

"Was there any other source of income besides the investors?" Mr. Dodge asked the young woman. She replied:

"No, not in our office."

"Were there any international reply coupons in your office?" was the next question.

"Yes—one or two for samples," was the artless response, whereat a general smile ran around the courtroom, and Ponzi, who sat near the rail talking with his wife, looked up and laughed outright.

When she was asked if any money was sent abroad—to purchase international coupons—the young woman said that some was sent abroad, but that she did not know for what purpose it was to be used. Enough was sent, she said, to purchase about 100,000 lire in Italy.

AIRPLANE HUNTS BODIES.

SILVER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 24.—An airplane pilot tried today to find the bodies of Rosalie Clark of 506 West 165th Street and Bert Sandman of 565 West 166th Street, New York City, who were drowned in their canoes in Lake George during a storm on Saturday.

So far as is known the search was unsuccessful.

Saratoga Raiders Cut Phone Wires And Seize Racing Charts in Cigar Stores

SARATOGA SPRINGS, Aug. 24.—The raiding activities of Wyman S. Bascom, who is investigating gambling in this city, unexpectedly shifted today from roulette wheels on the outskirts of the city to cigar stores on Broadway in the heart of the city, which were visited this afternoon by a dozen raiders.

They cut the telephone wires and took possession of charts and sheets which they said were used in receiving bets and information on the races here and in Canada. Names of persons found in the stores were taken. The raids were seen by large crowds.

Earlier in the day Mr. Bascom's force battered in the door of the Indian Head Tavern, a restaurant within the city limits, and, making their way to the upper floor, found, they said, a roulette wheel and other gambling paraphernalia.

John P. Dennin of Albany, the proprietor of the restaurant, was summoned to appear before Justice Van Kirk of the Supreme Court at Ballston Spa, and four employes were arrested. Their cases were adjourned until tomorrow.

The evidence obtained in the restaurant and cigar stores will be presented to the Extraordinary Grand Jury now in session to investigate gambling here. The jurors resumed their sessions today after a recess over the week-end.

BRITISH MINERS TAKE BALLOT ON STRIKE

Two-thirds Majority Expected to Favor Downing Tools for Higher Pay.

GOVERNMENT FIGHTS MOVE

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Reports from mining centres with reference to the ballot on the question of a strike for higher wages and cheaper coal generally agree that the two-thirds majority requisite will be obtained.

"In the eyes of most miners their federation is a sacred thing, whose behests must be obeyed at all costs. And why have such behests been given? Why is the whole country to be held to ransom in support of a claim which no reasonable man can support?

"There can be only one answer. It is part of a policy which has been silently but relentlessly carried on for the last five years, to promote strikes, to create unemployment, to antagonize the classes—anything which will bring about that conflict which we as a nation have hitherto prided ourselves upon avoiding through all the changes which industrial revolution have produced in our national life.

"It is preached year in and year out from every upturned soap box, at street concerns. Old leaders of the labor movement have been swept away in a torrent, or bulldozed into being silent and unwilling accompices."

Meanwhile the Government campaign to inform the general public of the facts at issue is being rapidly extended. A striking array of figures is presented to prove that what the miners' leaders propose to hand over to the domestic consumer with one hand they are taking back with the other.

Government officials, in rebuttal of this allegation, point out that the Government policy, which was designed to protect the general community, has aroused the violent antipathy of the mine owners to their control.

Details of the discussion are uninteresting outside Britain, but it is an interesting fact that the whole country is keenly studying the intricacies of the accountants' reports and other arid statements in an effort to arrive at a decision which will be at once just and effective in solving the problem by the weight of public opinion.

LONDON, Aug. 24 (Associated Press).—It will be some time later before the result of the miners' strike ballot is definitely known. It is forecast by London newspapers, however, that the miners will vote overwhelmingly in favor of striking unless their demands are granted.

The Government has so far refused to consider the projected advance of wages and a reduction of coal prices amounting to approximately $3.50 a ton, but belief is expressed that some way can be found to avert a tieup of the country's mining industry.

GALLATIN DESCRIBES CENTRAL PARK EDIFICE

New $100,000 Building to be Erected at Seventy-seventh Street and West Drive.

The new building, said Mr. Gallatin, will be erected on the west shore of the large lake, at about Seventy-seventh Street and the West Drive. The ground at this point falls away gently to the lake, and Commissioner Gallatin plans to make a cut and have the new boathouse and skating house fit into the hollow. The top of the building will form a terrace, so that pedestrians walking down to the lake will not be aware they are actually walking on the building.

Entrance to the building will be by two stairways, one on each side. The chimneys will be circular in shape and fashioned in the form of lamp posts. They will be made of bronze and their function as chimneys will be disguised. The new building will take the place of the old boathouse, which is falling into decay and which has always been unavailable for skaters in the Winter because the section of the lake on which it is situated does not freeze readily.

The new building will not obstruct the view from the West Drive and will be visible only from the opposite bank. It will obviate the necessity of building a temporary ramshackle skating house every Winter and will make unnecessary the usual expenditure for that purpose, said Commissioner Gallatin. The building will be simple in construction, the exterior facing the lake being designed with three arches.

Commissioner Gallatin also stated that the permission granted by him to Grover Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, to take over for vehicular traffic the roadway in Battery Park running from State Street to the west of South Street was a temporary matter pending the drawing up of further plans to provide a safer and more convenient approach to the Staten Island Municipal Ferry. In a statement last week Commissioner Whalen announced that the permission granted by Mr. Gallatin was temporary pending preparation of plans for the rearrangement of the eastern end of Battery Park and the building of a permanent roadway.

Princess Golitzine Loses a $600 Pup

Princess Golitzine, who, until her marriage a year ago to the son of the last Prime Minister to the Czar, was Miss Frances Simpson Stevens, daughter of Mrs. Arthur O. Probst of 157 West Seventy-ninth Street, asked the newspapers yesterday to help her find one of five Chinese puppies she brought here last Friday from Hongkong. The pet, according to the Princess, is worth $600.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—At the opening session of the British Association for Advancement of Science at Cardiff today the theory was advanced that the Treaty of Versailles was ethnologically unsound and that consequently it could not be permanent. The exponent of this theory was Dr. Karl Pearson, the Professor of Eugenics of the University of London and President of the anthropological section of the British Association.

Dr. Pearson contended that anthropology should be recognized as a leading science by the State and also by manufacturers and commercial men as at least as important to them as chemistry or physics.

"The Governments of Europe," said Dr. Pearson, "had military advisers, financial advisers, transport and food experts in their service, but they have not had ethnological advisers. There has been no highly trained anthropologists at their command. You have only to study the Peace of Versailles to see it is ethnologically unsound and cannot be permanent.

"It is no good asking why our well meaning rulers did not consult our well meaning anthropologists. I for one confess that we have not in past dealt with actuality, or if we did deal with actuality we have not treated it in a manner likely to impress either the executives or the public at large. We lacked far too largely the scientific attitude and the fundamental specialist training.

"I will not go so far as to say that if the science of man had been developed to the extent of physical science in all European countries and had then had its due authority recognized there would have been no war, but I will venture to say that war would have been of different character and we should not have felt that the fate of European society and of European culture hung in the balance as at this moment.

"The whole period of the war produced the most difficult problems in folk psychology. There were occasions innumerable when the sum of lives and most heavy expenditure of money might have been saved by a greater knowledge of what creates and what damps folks movements in various races of the world.

"India, Egypt, Ireland, even our present relations with Japan and America, show only too painfully how difficult we find it to appreciate the psychology of other nations. We shall not surmount these difficulties until anthropologists take a wider view of the material they have to record and of the task they have before them.

"It is not physical measurement of native races which is the fundamental feature of anthropometry today? It is psychometry and what I have termed vigorimetry of white as well as of dark skinned men that must become the main subjects of our study."

Dr. Pearson paid high tribute to American development of the science of anthropology. British anthropologists are leagues behind their American colleagues, he said, and in the United States anthropology, he declared, was no longer a stepchild of the State.

He also pointed to the greater development in science in Germany, which meant, he said, that "Germany, having lost her colonies, will still maintain her trade by the aid of Consuls, missionaries, traders, travelers and others trained academically to understand both savage and civilized peoples. This is a perfectly fair field and if it can be played squarely can lead to increased human sympathy and Great Britain will only have herself to blame if other nations are before her in their anthropological knowledge and its practical applications."

In the geographical section John MacFarlane, of Aberdeen University, also condemned some of the territorial settlements of the Versailles Treaty, among them the inclusion of Alsace within French territory.

Discussing Poland, Prof. MacFarlane contended that if Poland is to insure her position she must forget the limits of her former empire, turn her back on the Russian plain with all the temptations which it offers and resolutely set herself to the development of the basin of the Vistula, where alone she can find conditions which make for her strength and safety.

GARRISON AND MEN CONFER.

B. R. T. Wage Dispute to be Taken to Judge Mayer Today.

Conferences among representatives of three locals of employes of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, Lindley M. Garrison, receiver of the company, and several company officials opened in the company's offices yesterday afternoon.

Transit Construction Commissioner John H. Delaney, named by Mayor Hylan as his representative in an effort to settle differences and avoid a strike, explained the purpose of the conference and withdrew, saying he would be within call if his services were needed.

Mr. Garrison said he had no power to discuss the question of a closed shop and that it appeared impossible for the company to agree to a greater wage advance than 10 per cent. offered. He said no agreement could be made without the consent of Federal Judge Mayer. The union men suggested that Mr. Garrison see Judge Mayer and obtain full power to act along certain lines. Mr. Garrison said he would consult with the Judge and find out the latter's position on the wage question, the closed shop question being eliminated. Mr. Garrison and Commissioner Delaney arranged to call on Judge Mayer last night. The result of the interview will be made known to the union men today.

Addresses will be delivered by Fire Chief Kenlon and ex-Congressman Benjamin Fairchild. Harry Bell of Yonkers is Chairman of the exercises.

TO PAY OIL TAXES, BUT UNDER PROTEST

MEXICAN GOVERNMENT FIRM

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 24.—The oil interests which had been holding out against paying export taxes have arrived at an agreement to pay the taxes under protest, according to Circular 44 issued by President de la Huerta.

The taxes under the circular amount to 1,662 pesos per ton, or about 13 cents gold per barrel of oil.

Following a consultation with President de la Huerta this morning, Manuel Padres, Acting Minister of Hacienda (Finance), issued the following statement regarding the oil situation:

"Mexico has determined, by all necessary legal proceedings, to collect the export taxes owed by the oil companies. While taking this decision, the Government has taken into account the fact that the taxes under the new tariff are much less than those established by the tariff of the old Administration. The basis upon which new taxes are determined is an average fair price for oil.

"The Government of Mexico has complete data and documents which show that the real price of oil is more than the price upon which the taxes are based. We have not, naturally, taken into account the prices of some of the old contracts made by the companies, as these contracts were made with a provision based upon a possible fall in the price of oil. This was a speculation of the companies in which the Government has no interest and is absolutely outside the proceedings that were followed by the Government in accordance with the law in fixing the tariffs.

"For these reasons and with the assurance that the Government's attitude is absolutely just, with no desire to injure any interests, we have decided to take all measures necessary, which are sanctioned by the law, to make the companies pay without further delay.

"The Government will not enter into any agreement with any company until the questions of taxes are settled."

It is stated here that the companies' officials in the United States are holding meetings in order to decide what action to take. Local representatives say they have no new instructions, though they expected advices from New York before the 24th.

Obregon Supports Oil Policy.

General Obregon will continue the national oil policy if he is elected to the Presidency, and the oil companies will be compelled to obey Mexican laws without any privileges not granted to natives, said close friends of General Obregon, who probably will have Cabinet positions, this afternoon.

Obregon has stated to intimate friends that he would welcome foreign capital and foreigners in Mexico, but that they would be compelled to obey Mexican laws and to expect more protection than natives have. He desires American capital and American immigrants, as they are progressive, but all will be treated equally.

One of Obregon's friends said that the Government is willing to help foreigners in every way possible, but that if they continue a policy of threatening intervention in each case where they do not secure the things they wish, the Government will be obliged to consider them obstructionists and treat them accordingly.

Mexico's new Congress will take up oil legislation as its first subject on the opening of formal sessions on Sept. 15. President de la Huerta hopes to have the entire problem settled and all laws enacted by the end of the term.

PRODUCERS CHARGE MEXICAN OIL PLOT

Assert That Two American Firms Seek to Gain Control of Opponents' Fields.

Control of the Mexican oil fields is being sought by one or two American companies or individuals through the upholding of the confiscatory decrees of the Carranza Administration, according to the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico. The members of this association at present produce 95 per cent. of the oil shipped out of Mexico, but charge that endeavors are being made to deprive them of their properties by having the confiscatory decrees upheld by the present de facto Government in Mexico. Propaganda to this end, it is asserted, is the dissemination of false news calculated to bring about difficulties between the present Government and the majority of the oil producers. The companies or individuals are not named by the association, but it is asserted that they have already denounced property of other companies under the Carranza decrees and hope thereby to gain possession of the petroleum fields.

A representative of the Association of Producers pointed out yesterday that recent word from Mexico City charged that the oil companies were in arrears in taxes and that an ultimatum had been delivered by the Mexican Government demanding payment, in which it was stated that the Mexican Government was prepared to take any legal steps necessary to force payment. This was charged to the propaganda of the rival oil interests seeking control of the important producing areas. It was emphatically denied by the association that the oil companies owed anything in back taxes. The assertion was made that the oil companies and the Mexican Government were working in harmony on the question of taxes.

"The reports being circulated charging that certain American companies are in arrears in taxes due the Mexican Government on oil produced there are false and contrary to the facts. They are emanating from one or two American companies or individuals, who are interested in seeing the confiscatory decrees of a previous Government upheld and who are anxious to get control of the property of the oil companies and are resorting to this means to accomplish their end.

"The attention of the association has been called to a report to the effect that the Mexican Government has issued a practical ultimatum to American oil companies regarding export taxes, and containing a purported interview with Acting Secretary Padres in Mexico City today.

"No such ultimatum has been received by any oil company represented in this association, of which practically every American oil company interested in Mexico is a member. Furthermore, no member of this association knows of any occasion for any such ultimatum, nor is any member of this association in any wise in arrears on its export taxes. The fact is that no further payments on export taxes will be due until Aug. 30, and the oil companies made arrangements last week to meet the payments promptly when due.

"The taxes falling due on Aug. 30 are the balances of export taxes for the two bi-monthly periods of March-April and May-June. Far from any of the oil companies being in arrears in any of these taxes, the final liquidation of these taxes has been postponed at the instance of the Mexican Government itself to permit a further consideration of the values upon which export taxes are based. As a result of its consideration of the representations made by the oil companies that the values previously fixed were excessive, the Mexican Government has materially reduced its previous values and has fixed Aug. 30 as the time for payment on the new basis. It is, however, the opinion of the oil companies that the values are still too high and should be further reduced."

Roads Ask for Lower Rates On Grain Traffic by Water

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The railroads of the country have voluntarily joined with the grain shippers in asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to allow the inauguration of lower freight rates on grain moving across the lakes to Buffalo and thence by rail to the Atlantic seaboard.

This is the first time that American railroads have asked permission for lower rates in order to develop water transportation.

The purpose of the request is to stimulate the movement of grain by way of the lakes to the seaboard and thus furnish the fullest available transportation for the movement of this year's enormous wheat crop, which otherwise could not be handled by the railroads by all rail traffic.

A suit filed in the Supreme Court yesterday against Nelson Gammans, a lawyer, by his wife, Mrs. May Gammans, airs a romance that began after her marriage to Rufus Gaynor, son of the late Mayor Gaynor, had been annulled, and culminated when Gammans, who was then a sophomore at Harvard, married her on Feb. 8, 1911, against the opposition of his mother, Mrs. George Gordon Gammans, widow of a prominent lawyer of Portland, Ore.

Mrs. Gammans's suit against her husband follows one he brought against her in Porto Rico for a divorce, on the ground of cruelty and abandonment, and asked for the custody of his wife's daughter, Constance, now 17 years old, whose father was the first husband of Mrs. Gammans, Salvatore Giuffrie, to whom she was married at Somerville, Mass., in 1902. At that time she gave her age as 13 years. Giuffrie got a divorce in Texas in 1909 on the ground of abandonment, but his decree did not become effective until May, 1910.

Mrs. Gammans met and married Rufus Gaynor before her former husband's decree became operative, and she met young Gammans at about the same time. Gaynor had his marriage annulled on the ground that his wife was still married to Giuffrie at the time Gaynor became her husband. When she was married to Gammans, then only 19, he gave his age as 22.

Mrs. Gammans's suit against her husband came before Justice Hendrick yesterday on her application for an order to serve papers on her husband by publication on the ground that he is in Porto Rico and will not return for some time. She said she met him June 25 last at the law office of Rounds, Hatch, Dillingham & Debevoise, with which he is connected, and he told her he was sailing the next day for Porto Rico, where he intended to divorce her and then go to another State and marry again and settle down. Mrs. Gammans told the court the papers in her husband's suit in Porto Rico have been sent to her, but she does not intend to appear and will ignore them on the ground that her husband is a resident of New York and any decree he gets in Porto Rico will not be binding. Mrs. Gammans bases her separation suit on abandonment and non-support. She said he left her two years ago when he was living with his mother, and that his mother said she would not permit her son to return to his wife. He offered to support her daughter but not her, she said. She is a native of Palermo, Italy.

REPORT BANDIT ZAMORA READY TO SURRENDER

Remaining Foreigners Held by Him Are Considered to be Safe —Hoyle En Route to Capital.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 24.—The bandit Zamora, who recently captured several American and British subjects, some of whom he is still holding for ransom, is reported as willing to surrender, according to a statement issued this afternoon by Miguel Alessio Robles, Secretary to the President, following a lengthy conference of the President with various Government officials.

Charles Hoyle, an American who was said to have been released by the bandit, is reported to be on the way to Mexico City with a message from Zamora to the President, to arrange terms of surrender.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—A dispatch to the State Department today from the American Consul at Guadalajara, garbled in transmission, indicated that the bandit Zamora still was holding W. A. Gardiner, an American, for ransom.

W. B. Johnson, an Englishman who was taken along with twelve Americans, also was said to be held for $25,000 ransom.

The Secretary of the Mexican Petroleum Company yesterday denied statements made in Mexico City to the effect that the company had huge contracts for delivery of oil to Great Britain. The denial read:

The statements attributed in a cablegram from Mexico City on Aug. 22 to "Government officials" to the effect that the Doheny companies have contracted for delivery to Great Britain of 15,000,000 barrels of petroleum, all this year, are not substantiated. The contract obligations amount, and real deliveries to Great Britain will amount, to less than one-tenth of this amount, or 1,500,00 barrels.

An attempt has been made to show that the principal American and British companies are shipping or will ship a large portion of their Mexican product to England. The only American company so shipping is the Doheny Company. The only British oil shipping company exports 12 per cent. of the total oil exported from Mexico and over one-half of its exports are to American markets. The bulk of Mexican oil goes and will go to American markets. The allegations to the contrary of petroleum interests which desire to acquire properties of the present exporting companies are for the purpose of discrediting these companies before the American people.

SWANN IS TRACING LYING LANDLORDS

MAGISTRATE AIDS TENANTS

"Some One Will Go to the Workhouse," His Response to Their Complaints.

While District Attorney Swann was setting in motion yesterday an investigation designed to punish landlords and agents who have evaded the new rent laws and dispossessed their tenants by perjury, Magistrate Levine in West Side Court announced his determination that tenants should be treated decently. He declared that "some one would go to the workhouse" after hearing testimony against Henry and Emanuel Claman of the Forty-eighth Street Corporation, which owns an apartment house at 250 West Eighty-fifth Street.

Mr. Swann's action followed numerous complaints, and was timed to get results before Oct. 1, when many leases expire. Assistant District Attorney Albert Blogg Unger was detailed to the investigation. He conferred with Municipal Court Justice Eder, and afterward announced that drastic action would be taken in every case where perjury was found.

Mr. Unger explained that in the class of cases under investigation the tenant should complain directly to the District Attorney's office as soon as the landlord swore falsely. The complaints thus far received, he said, showed a common practice. An agent desiring to oust a tenant who refused to pay an increase called up a city marshal and gave the alleged facts. Thereupon a dispossess petition was filled out and sent to the agent or landlord to be sworn to and signed. This petition, under the new rent laws, embodies the assertion that the rent due from the tenant to be dispossessed is not more than it was the previous month. It appears that many landlords and agents have signed such petitions regardless of the fact that the dispossess proceedings grew out of their attempts to raise the rents.

Short covering played a prominent part yesterday in bringing about strong rallies in three of the major markets, stock, cotton and grain. Whether there was contained in the flow of buying orders a fair amount of purchases for the rise remains to be disclosed by the price record of the next few weeks, but the technical situation of stocks and cotton for some time had forecast recoveries whenever the shorts elected to take part of their profits. Industrial shares had been fluctuating for a fortnight in a fashion which indicated a "sold-out" condition, and the sharp reactions of cotton in the last ten days, together with preceding recessions, had carried futures quotations about 12 cents per pound below the year's maximum prices. Wheat futures advanced yesterday between 5 and 6 cents a bushel, turning squarely about from the preceding session's course.

Trading in stocks was centred mainly in the industrial list, although the railroad group was firm throughout the day. The greater part of the 2 to 4 points advance in the petroleum, steel, rubber and miscellaneous stocks occurred in the last hour when large buying orders came in from a half dozen commission houses. The market being as highly professional as ever in the last two months, traders who had accumulated shares recently for a turn seemed to feed out offerings sparingly when the initial stage of the recovery appeared and buyers had to bid high for some issues. A more significant development than in the stock market was the upturn in railroad bonds which imparted a really buoyant tone to a number, including Baltimore & Ohio refunding 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 5s, St. Louis & San Francisco adjustment 6s and income 6s, and Seaboard Air Line adjustment 5s. The rise of bonds was reflective of a generally improved position of this market and railroad issues continued the movement which had its earliest presentation in the week following the award on freight rates. Call money was steady at 7 per cent. The foreign trade figures for July were received and bore an appearance different from what financial circles had been led to expect from the June report. The record indicated that the decline of goods prices of late had stimulated purchases by foreign buyers here. But the import statement showed that business reaction here, whatever its extent, had not worked to a marked degree to head off the inflow of goods from abroad. The United States shipped out $23,000,000 more materials and finished products than in June and received $16,000,000 less from outside. Imports were heavy enough, however, to establish a new high record month with the exception of June and were $193,000,000 larger in value than in July last year. The export balance for the month amounted to $117,000,000, compared with $78,000,000 in June.

The trade record lent nothing to explanations for the current declining tendency of the foreign exchanges. Europe took a large amount of our exports in July and probably is continuing to do so this month, as witness the extensive shipments of grain, but the balancing factor of imports is also substantial. Sterling receded nearly 3 cents yesterday, the final quotation for demand bills being 3.54½, and the Continental rates moved in sympathy, except for a slightly steadier tone of German marks as compared with Monday's quotation.

RISE IN RAILROAD REVENUE.

Increase in Passenger and Freight Rates for March.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Freight and passenger revenues of the railroads increased last March as compared with the same month of 1919.

Figures made public today by the Interstate Commerce Commission showed freight revenues of $323,611,189 last March, as against $254,807,102 the same month the year before, and passenger revenues of $92,195,155, compared with $88,227,130 in March, 1919.

A Correction.

THE NEW YORK TIMES in its Fire Record of Aug. 19 reported a fire in the premises of David Wabinsky, at 48 Canal Streeet. This report was incorrect, the Fire Marshal's record showing that the fire occurred in the basement of 132 Division Street.

FILES BRITISH CLAIM ON GERMAN LINERS

QUESTION OF OWNERSHIP UP

Decision Is Also Sought as to Our Liability for Detaining the Seven Ships.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Great Britain has initiated diplomatic conversations with the American Government as to the liability of the United States for expenditures necessitated in the detention in American ports of the seven former German liners allocated to this country for the homeward movement of American troops. The ships were held up by the Shipping Board after their surrender by the War Department, but finally were delivered to England.

While the ships were detained here British crews sent to America to take them over were idle in New York. A question of demurrage charges is also understood to be involved, as sailing dates for the ships on British schedule had been announced.

No specific claim for reimbursement has been presented, it is understood, but the negotiations have been started for the purpose of reaching an amicable agreement as to where the responsibility for the delay rests. The ultimate ownership of the vessels, which include the Imperator, now operated by the Cunard line, is also understood to have been made a part of the discussion.

Great Britain claims title to the ships under the decision of the Allied Shipping Commission, on which the United States was not represented, and the rulings of which have never been accepted by the Washington Government. The Shipping Board has held that the allocation of the ships to the United States was permanent, and it was on this ground that it refused for some time to deliver the vessels to Great Britain.

The whole question was finally referred to President Wilson, and the ships were ordered delivered to the British pending a final decision which the negotiations now in progress were initiated to bring about.

As a preliminary to presenting the American point of view in the controversy, it is understood that the State Department has asked the Shipping Board for a detailed explanation of the basis of its claim of American ownership which led to the detention of the craft in American waters.

Britain Retains German Tankers.

Officials of the Standard Oil Company here said yesterday that England had not yet turned over eight former German tank ships held in that country pending the return of the Imperator and six other ships loaned to the United States to bring troops home from Europe.

This statement was made soon after it became known that England had filed a claim in Washington for damages growing out of alleged delay in turning over the Imperator and other former German vessels.

The tankers, it was added, were to be delivered to the United States and allocated to the Standard Oil Company for operation, as the result of an agreement with Great Britain reached last June. Delivery at that time was delayed, they said, because of failure to adjust the point as to which country should assume the cost of reconditioning the ships and their care while under detention.

PERU ORDERS GOLD HERE.

The largest individual shipment of gold to South America since the big movement to the Argentine came to an end two months ago is scheduled to go out today on the steamer Santa Elisa of the Grace Line. It consists of $3,155,000 of gold bars consigned to Callao, Peru. It is understood that the metal is going for Peruvian Government account, and will be used in the reserve being accumulated in process of readjusting the country's currency situation.

The shippers are the National City Bank, the Bank of New York, the Equitable Trust Company, the Banca Commerciale Italia and the Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation. The copper company's mines are in Peru. The fact that gold bars were withdrawn from the Assay Office instead of coin from the Sub-Treasury aroused some interest in the financial district, as South American shipments are mostly in coin. An explanation was that for the purpose in mind of the purchaser, bars would answer as well as coin and could be bought at a slightly lower cost.

A. T. & T. Buys Radio Interest.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company announced yesterday that in order to better carry out the purposes of the recent agreement with the General Electric Company, to co-operate in advancing the art of radio transmission and communication, it has purchased a minority interest in the Radio Corporation of America. W. S. Gifford, Vice President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, has been made a Director of the Radio Corporation of America.

BANKERS TO DISCUSS FRENCH LOAN TODAY

TERMS STILL INDEFINITE

Reports of $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 Long-Term Bond Issue Reiterated.

Developments surrounding the new French loan which has been under discussion in banking circles were confined yesterday to statements by investment bankers that several "conversations" had taken place with representatives of the French Government, but that negotiations covering actual terms have not yet been started. Today the French representatives have arranged for a luncheon at the Midday Club, to which they have invited the heads of the important banks to meet formally Jean Parmentier, special emissary of the French Ministry of Finance, who came here to arrange a loan.

In some banking quarters it was reiterated yesterday that the French are desirous of placing a loan of from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 in this market. The proceeds from the sale of bonds issued, it was asserted, would be used to pay off the French share of the Anglo-French loan, which matures Oct. 15. What the rate and maturity of the loan will be is still guesswork, according to others, although it was said in some quarters that a fifteen-year 8 per cent. bond seemed now to be a proper basis.

At the offices of the French Commission yesterday it was stated that no news regarding the negotiations for a loan would be forthcoming. In some banking quarters it was even stated that no loan might be agreed upon.

Cuba Admits All America Cables.

The All America Cables announces that the Cuban Government has granted to it the right to land four cables on the coast of that country, which it believes will lead to better communication between Cuba and this country and Cuba and Central and South America. Hitherto Cubans to reach Central and South America have had to cable by way of New York.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Short Covering Lifts Prices.

The bears became a bit timid yesterday and many of them quickly abandoned their position on the short side. The covering operations served to bring about a sharp upturn in the stock market of the late afternoon, many of the specialties scoring advances such as they have not known in many a day. Just what it was that caused the running in of the shorts was rather difficult to discover. There was no bad news to strengthen their bearish position, to be sure, but it was equally true that there was no especially good news that could in itself be considered to account for the condition. But whatever the reason the covering came to pass and lifted prices rapidly in the final hour. It is highly doubtful if there was any public participation except, of course, that there has been some small amount of buying all along by those who felt that the decline had run far enough for the time being. This buying may have been augmented a bit by the sight of rising prices, but on the whole the market was professional in character.

The Two-Cent Rate Injunction.

Granting of an injunction in the Chicago courts restraining the State of Illinois from enforcing its 2-cent-a-mile railroad rate was not much of a surprise to those in the financial district who have been following the Federal and State rate arguments during the last two weeks. It has been the feeling in local railroad and banking circles since the enactment of the transportation law that it was written to prevent the old battle of State and Federal authorities over rates. And in addition it has been the general sentiment that in the last analysis power is vested in the Interstate Commerce Commission to nullify State rates which have been proved prejudicial, confiscatory or discriminatory. At the same time the fact that the Chicago court granted the restraining injunction against the enforcement of the Illinois State railroad rate was interpreted as a splendid precedent. In the words of one railroad man: "This is the time for the courts to uphold the Transportation act so that the transportation system of the country will not have to carry the additional burden of conflicting rates."

Fair Return on Value Necessary.

One of the recommendations contained in the report of the Electric Railway Commission appointed by President Wilson to study the traction situation throughout the country which attracted attention in local public utility circles yesterday was that suggesting that a fair or "reasonable" return should be provided on the value of traction property when efficiently and honestly managed. So far there has been a disposition on the part of State regulating bodies throughout the larger part of the country to meet the traction companies half way, at least, and public utility specialists and managers now say that, as a whole, the situation has been much improved since Jan. 1.

Rail Bonds a Feature.

Activity of railroad bonds was a feature of trading in the bond market yesterday on the New York Stock Exchange. St. Louis-San Francisco income 6s were the most active and gained the most ground, advancing on a better turnover than for some days from 50¾ to 52¼, which was the high and the last price. Baltimore & Ohio refunding 5s also gained substantially, from 63½ to 65¼. This was also the last quotation and the high for the day. Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 6s advanced fractionally on better business, closing at 77¾, which was also the high.

An Important Railroad Meeting.

It had been expected in the financial district that the meeting of the Executive and Standing Committees of the Association of Railway Executives yesterday would be followed by an important announcement regarding the results of the labor and association meeting at the Pennsylvania Hotel on Monday. Both meetings adjourned at a late hour, however, without any statement being made.

Railroad Group Advances.

It seemed for a time yesterday right after the opening that the general stock list was being neglected for the railroad shares, many of which advanced sharply on a greater volume of business than they have experienced for some time. The gains were well maintained throughout the day, and ranged from fractions to more than 2 points. Two new favorites appeared during yesterday's session. They were St. Louis-San Francisco and St. Louis Southwestern. The common shares of the first named gained more than half a point on the day, and the preferred closed 5½ points up, while St. Louis Southwestern common advanced substantially. Other railroad shares displayed a firm undertone, and, while there was heavy trading in Reading, the reaction which had been expected after the three-point gain of the preceding day was only one-fourth of a point.

Union Pacific Earnings.

Earnings of the Union Pacific Railroad Company for July show that while there was an increase of $1,733,376 in railway operating revenue this was more than offset by an increase in operating expenses of $5,101,482, which resulted in a decrease in net income for the month of $3,842,584, as compared with net in July of last year. For the period from Jan. 1 net income amounting to $20,165,182 declined $149,606 from the figure reported in the corresponding 1919 period.

Standard of Indiana.

For several days there have been rumors that that Standard Oil of Indiana was contemplating the declaration of a stock dividend. There is no one who denies that the company is in a position to make a big declaration, and this holds true of nearly every company in the Standard Oil group. This condition is, however, not new, but the declaration by the Standard Oil Company of New York of a stock dividend has opened up once more the question of such distribution with relation to the other companies. Indiana has been mentioned more frequently than any other as a possible follower of New York. Yesterday one report, which had wide circulation in the financial district, told of several of the Indiana officers being in the city and immediately their presence was associated with the stock dividend question. Actually it could not be learned that the officers were in New York. However, the Street was once more in a high state of anticipation.

New Oil Production.

Each day brings forth additional news of new oil wells of large proportions being brought in throughout the Southwest and especially in the Mexican fields. Yesterday word from Mexico told of another big gusher in the light oil field, a well brought in by Sinclair Consolidated. If new production continues to increase at the present rate the oil shortage, much talked about a few months ago, will soon be a thing of the past. Should this be the case the opinion expressed by a prominent oil man when the talk of a shortage was at its height will have been justified. He called attention to the fact that every now and then there was a fear that the oil supply was failing and that supplies would be insufficient to the carrying on of the activities dependent on a free supply of petroleum. But he added: "I have always seen the fear of a shortage succeeded by plentiful supplies, and I expect that such will be the case once more."

The Steel Outlook.

At the present time the steel companies are not feeling the degree of depression which is manifesting itself in many other lines of business. This is no doubt due in large part to the orders which are banked high on the books of the companies. It is naturally a debatable point as to whether the steel business will have its period of lessened activity brought about through a slackening of demand. At all events, there is little to indicate such a condition impending. Prices are holding firm and foreign business is increasing, two facts which argue well for the future.

New Bonds for Old

Almost every institution and investor has securities which are sound but have depreciated in market value. This situation creates a problem which can be solved best by arranging exchanges for issues of bonds or secured notes recently placed on the market.

COAST SHIP LINES GET HIGHER RATES

LAKES SERVICE INCLUDED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The United States Shipping Board today granted substantial freight and passenger rate increases to be effective not later than Jan. 1, 1921, to all American steamship lines plying between ports on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and between Atlantic and Gulf ports to Porto Rico, the Canal Zone and the Virgin Islands, with the exception that freight increases do not apply to the Virgin Islands.

The increases vary from 10 to 40 per cent., while passenger increases are 20 per cent. for the American mainland, coastal and Porto Rican trades, and 33 1-3 per cent. between New York and the Canal Zone and New York and the Virgin Islands.

The lines operating on the Great Lakes are also granted increases of 40 per cent. over present freight and 20 per cent. over present passenger rates.

For rate-making purposes the country has been divided into sections, to be known as the Norfolk-North Atlantic, the Norfolk-New Orleans and the New Orleans-Mexican border sections. The increases in freight rates also are made applicable to lighterage, storage, floating, reconsignment, switching, storage, weighing and tranamission services, while the passenger increases may also be added to present excess baggage rates.

Benson Announces Decision.

"After careful consideration of the applications and supporting statements and all the facts and evidence of record in the instant case, the board concludes and decides that, to the extent hereinafter indicated, the advances proposed to be made have been shown to be just, reasonable and necessary. The rates, fares and charges of the water carriers operating in the sections involved may be increased as follows:

	Freight. P.C.	Pas'g'r. P.C.
Bet. Norfolk, Va., and ports on the Atlantic Coast north.....	40	20
Bet. Norfolk and New Orleans.	25	20
Bet. New Orleans and the Mexican border	25	20
Bet. ports on the Great Lakes..	40	20
Bet. N. Y. and the Canal Zone..	10	33 1-3
Bet. N. Y. and the Virgin Isl'ds	25	33 1-3
Bet. N. Y. and Porto Rico.....	20	20

"The increases authorized on freight traffic may be made applicable to weighing, lighterage, storage, floating, transfer, diversion, reconsignment, switching and transmit services; and the passenger fares increases authorized may be applied also to excess baggage.

"On the Atlantic and Gulf coasts the through rates between ports located in different coastal sections, which are made on a combination basis, should be increased by applying to each factor of the through rates its respective percentage.

"Local or joint through rates between ports in one coastal section and ports in any other coastal sections should be increased 33 1-3 per cent.

"For rate-making purposes, Norfolk, Va., will be considered in the Norfolk-New Orleans section to and from ports within the latter section; New Orleans, La., will be considered in the Norfolk-New Orleans section to and from ports within said section and within the New Orleans-Mexican border section to and from ports within the latter section.

"With regard to increases in terminal charges, Norfolk will be considered in the Norfolk-North Atlantic section, and New Orleans will be considered in the New Orleans-Mexico border section.

"The increases in rates, fares and charges herein authorized may be made effective not later than Jan. 1, 1921, on one day's notice to the public and the board.

"An order will be entered accordingly."

Will Begin Work on Schedules.

While the board allows the steamship companies until Jan. 1, next, to put the new schedules into effect, it is generally understood that the lines immediately will begin work to get those schedules ready and that the new rates probably will be in effect many weeks in advance of the time limit set by the Shipping Board. It was reported that the rates may be in effect before the end of September.

At the Shipping Board it was explained that in the case of New York-New Orleans traffic, which is perhaps the most important of all the coastwise services, freight rates will be worked out on a basis of 40 per cent. increase from New York to a point off Norfolk and 25 per cent. increase for the rest of the voyage to the Gulf city. The same rule will apply to the increases between New York and Charleston, Savannah, Florida ports, Mobile, Galveston, Port Arthur and other Atlantic and Gulf ports.

It was suggested that the price of oil products and of gasoline may take a jump in price as a result of the increased freight rate between Port Arthur, other Gulf oil ports and New Orleans, Norfolk, New York, Boston and other Gulf and Atlantic ports. The coastwise shipping trade also handles a large proportion of the cotton, trucking and lumber shipments from Southern to Northern markets, and it may also mean increased prices for those commodities.

The increased rates were applied for by the shipping interests immediately following the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in granting substantial freight and passenger increases to the railroads. The coast, gulf and Great Lakes steamship interests complained that the price of new ship construction had increased more than three-fold since the outbreak of the war, that coal had greatly increased in price, and that the wages of officers and members of crews had increased in proportion and that therefore the new rates were needed to meet the greatly increased cost of operation, maintenance, &c.

Various shippers and commercial organizations protested against the granting of the increases, and a public hearing on the application of the steamship companies was held in this city on Aug. 18 last, at which both sides presented their cases at great length. The complete report of the board will be ready for distribution within a few days.

$1,500,000 More Stolen Securities Promised by Christmas.

Saul S. Myers, counsel for the National Surety Company, said yesterday that approximately $1,000,000 of the $2,500,000 of securities stolen from concerns insured by his client had been recovered or had been located and would be recovered within a short time. He said $600,000 worth of securities had been located in banks and trust companies and $400,000 worth had been surrendered as the result of confessions by men under arrest. He also said that another million dollars worth would be recovered by Election Day and that by Christmas all of the securities would be in the possession of the rightful owners.

Mr. Myers made this statement after he had consented to an adjournment to Sept. 10 of the examination of Jules W. (Nicky) Arnstein before Special Commissioner William Tallman in the bankruptcy proceedings pending against him. The request for an adjournment was made by William J. Fallon, Arnstein's counsel.

The American Ship and Commerce Corporation has offered to exchange its own stock for outstanding shares of the Shawmut Steamship Company on a share-for-share basis, according to information obtained in the financial district yesterday. The offer holds good until Sept. 7.

At the same time the corporation offers as an alternative to take in the outstanding Shawmut stock, which it will pay for in ten-year notes, which will bear 10 per cent. interest and will be convertible into American Ship and Commerce stock at the rate of three shares for each $100 in notes. The basis for exchange of notes for Shawmut stock is four shares for each $100 in notes, and the exchange will be made for stock of record Aug. 15.

URGE COST SERVICE ON ELECTRIC LINES

ADVISES FLUCTUATING FARES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Sweeping reforms in the electric railway industry, designed to restore public confidence and vitally needed credit, are recommended today in a unanimous report made by the Federal Electric Railways Commission to President Wilson. The commission has been investigating the condition of the industry for more than a year, during which time it has covered the field by hearing ninety-five witnesses and examining hundreds of reports and answers to questionnaires.

Outstanding among the recommendations is that for the installation of the service-at-cost plan of operation. This plan, now operative in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dallas, Montreal (Canada) and other cities will, it is believed, remove the industry from the field of speculative gain, furnish rides at the lowest possible cost and restore credit and public confidence.

Primarily the plan provides for furnishing rides at actual cost, which shall govern the rate of fares, and for protecting the investor by guaranteeing a fixed return on an agreed valuation of his holdings.

Chaos faces the industry unless credit is restored and co-operation between public, managements and employes established, the report insists, and no words are minced in telling the three parties to the situation where their respective duties lie.

Managements are advised that their primary duty is to serve the public with the highest efficiency at the lowest cost, with their cards face upward on the table, and not to use the industry as a means of obtaining profits beyond what may be necessary for upkeep, to pay a fair return upon the agreed value of the property and to secure the investment of funds further required.

The public duty is declared to be the supervision and control of railway properties, with the view of safeguarding the public interest and the allowance of such return upon the fair valuation of the property as may be agreed upon in the contract between the city and the company. By reason of such supervision the future attitude of the public should be one of friendliness and co-operation.

Employes it is said should have a living wage and humane hours of labor and working conditions, and a right to deal collectively with their employers, through committees or representatives of their own selection, but it is added that "all labor disputes should be settled voluntarily or by arbitration and the award of such board should be final and binding on both parties."

"It is intolerable," the report says, "that the transportation service of a city should be subject to occasional paralysis, whether by strikes or lockouts."

Other important declarations of the report are:

That public ownership and operation, generally speaking, are undesirable unless the results under private operation prove unsatisfactory, but the right of the public to own and operate all public utilities should be recognized and legal obstacles in the way of its exercise should be removed.

That extensions into outlying territory benefiting private property should be paid for by assessments on such property in proportion to the benefits received, and that the cost of such extensions should not be added to the valuation of the railroad property upon which a fair return is to be allowed.

That franchises should fix no limit as to the time they shall run nor the fares that may be charged.

As to the present condition of the street railway industry, the commission finds that its financial credit has been lost and that in many localities it is not properly performing its public function. This is considered to be due to increased costs of labor and material, overcapitalization and financial mismanagement, public distrust and antagonism, failure of the fixed five-cent fare to meet existing conditions, extensions into unprofitable territory in furtherance of real estate speculation, and failure of employers and employes to properly cooperate; hence the physical impossibility of giving the necessary assurance of security to investors.

The report estimates that from $175,000,000 to $200,000,000 annually will be required to properly carry out the future needs of the industry, and it emphatically declares that restoration of public confidence is one of the vital necessities of restored credit.

"For rehabilitation, improvements and extensions which are vitally needed to meet the requirements of every growing community," the report says, "new capital at once and in large amounts is imperatively required, and until the force of circumstances convinces those with capital at their disposal that investment in electric railway securites affords safety and fair return it cannot be obtained."

Would End Special Assessments.

The commission declares that the jitney should be regarded as a common carrier and subjected to Public Service regulation.

It recommends the elimination, so far as practicable, of "special assessments for sprinkling, paving and for construction and maintenance of bridges which are used by the public for highway purposes." These are burdens, it is held, which should be borne by the entire community, and should not be shifted from the automobile rider to the street car rider, who is usually less able to bear them.

If, at a given rate of fare, more than a fair return of profits results, it should go neither to the private corporation nor to the city, but should be reflected back by the automatic reduction of the fare paid by the car rider, the report says.

The commission was unanimously of the opinion that, as stated by Secretary Baker at the hearing, the education of the people of a given community and their conviction that the operations of a company are an open book and are under control of a trustworthy representative of the public, are essential to the successful working of the service-at-cost plan.

The commission emphasizes the importance of determining by arbitration or otherwise the fair value of the railway property "as the basis for the financial return of the company," and also as the basis upon which it may, if desired, be taken over by the municipality.

One of the most striking features of this report is that it is unanimous, indicating an agreement among men of strong personality whose interests are so divergent as to cause the belief that they would not be able to agree upon the issues involved.

The Chairman, Charles E. Elmquist, was at the time of his appointment President of the National Association of State Utilities Boards; the Vice Chairman, Edwin F. Sweet, is the Assistant Secretary of Commerce and has served as Mayor of Grand Rapids, Mich.; George L. Baker is the present Mayor of Portland, Ore.; Philip H. Gadsden is President of the Charleston, S. C., Consolidated Railway and Lighting Company, and he represented the American Electric Railways Association; William D. Mahon is the President of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America, and Charles W. Beall, a New York banker, represented capital investors. Dr. Royal Meeker, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, was appointed as the representative of the Department of Labor, and Louis B. Wehle represented the Treasury Department.

President Congratulates Members.

The White House, Washington.

My Dear Mr. Elmquist: Will you not accept for yourself and be good enough to extend to the other members of the commission my sincere thanks for the very able and valuable report upon the electric railway situation which you have placed in my hands? I am appreciative of the self-sacrificing efforts of the commission members in so freely devoting their time to the task undertaken at my request, but I cannot but believe that the results achieved will prove to be full compensation for their efforts.

I very much hope that this report will receive the wide publicity which it deserves and that it will be closely studied by all local regulative authorities having to do with the affairs and interests of public service corporations. Sincerely yours,

(Signed) WOODROW WILSON.

Mr. Charles E. Elmquist, Chairman, Federal Electric Railways Commission.

Commutation Valid at Old Rate.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—The Pennsylvania Railroad announced today that commutation tickets purchased before tomorrow would be good during the period for which they were sold and not subject to the advance in passenger rates. It is expected that the Reading Railway will make a similar announcement.

This Company was organized, is officered and managed by experienced and well-known successful Western New York business men.

Due to Tremendous Shortage

Caused by insufficient mills and machinery (which takes years to build) the pulp and paper industry is scheduled for an era of exceptional and continued prosperity.

For expansion of the business, we offer a limited amount of 8% preferred stock at par—carrying a common stock bonus of 50%.

Due to a small capitalization, a low operating expense, spendid management, tremendous demand and prevailing prices, the common stock bonus makes this an attractive and safe investment opportunity.

GOODWILL

The most highly prized asset that any surety company can have is the Goodwill of the Public. It is one of the hardest to gain and the easiest to lose. No surety company may hope to succeed without it. For thirty years (with its predecessors) this Company has earnestly and sincerely endeavored to popularize itself by making full and prompt settlement of losses, by extending the coverage of its fidelity and burglary forms, by giving prompt and satisfactory service to lawyers, contactors, etc. In other words, by giving the kind of service we would want if we were purchasers instead of sellers of bonds and burglary insurance policies.

We have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in establishing agencies, in advertising, in developing our business and in building Goodwill. We are more widely and more favorably known today than any other surety company in the world! We write more premiums—we have the finest agency force—we number among our patrons the largest, strongest and most progressive business houses and corporations in the United States, and we are strongest financially!

We have not capitalized "Goodwill"! Have not included it in our assets, as many corporations have, but it is a real asset—it is literally worth many, many millions. We want you to know that we value it highly.

The giving of a bit more of ourselves than may have been expected—prompt and intelligent handling of applicants, satisfactory and gracious adjustments of claims, willingness to adjust ourselves to changed conditions—have inspired confidence, have given us a prestige that has enabled us to win the highest place in the surety world.

We are not content! We must continue to meet the fullest expectations of our patrons. We must guard against supineness. We must anticipate and meet the needs of the great American Public so that our Goodwill may increase with the years. We regard it more valuable than our entire resources—now in excess of Twenty-one Million Dollars. We would rather lose all of our resources than lose the Goodwill of the people which we have gained.

We want every man and woman employee to get this spirit and to inculcate it in all (old and new) employees who do not possess it.

Sincerely,
WM. B. JOYCE, President.

COTTON TURNS ABOUT IN 132-POINT RALLY

Advance Results Entirely from Technical Conditions Within Market.

LOCAL SPOTS RISE TO 33.50

Liverpool Prices Are Weak and Spots There Drop 200 English Points.

Trading conditions in the cotton market yesterday morning were noticeably different from the day before, insistent selling being absent, and before long a strong recovery got under way. It seemed almost as though a sharp break of the Liverpool spot price, amounting to more than 200 English points, cleared the atmosphere at New York, as the quotation over there had been considered too high for several days, in the light of the futures movement on this side. At the close of business futures quotations on the local market showed recoveries extending from 105 to 132 points, or between $5.25 and $6.50 per bale. Once the price tendency began to develop in the first hour, the short interest hastened to cover up part of its contracts.

The sharp turn-about movement appeared to result entirely from technical conditions within the market itself, and had no reference to new development in the cotton consuming trade. For more than two weeks the bears had had things their own way. Prices had been carried down from above 30 cents to a level under 25 cents, and, as frequently happens, the selling movement had been pushed further than economic conditions warranted, for the time being, at least. The rise of futures was paralleled by a gain of 100 points in the local spot quotation to 33.50 cents per pound.

At the opening the price list was somewhat unsettled, but the process of absorbing sales for Liverpool account was completed with resultant declines of not more than 20 to 40 points. Prices at the British centre were weak during the trading period.

L. I. R. R. DROPS FARE APPEAL

To Ignore Local Board and Increase Rates in City 20 Per Cent.

The Long Island Railroad Company obtained permission from the Public Service Commission yesterday to withdraw its application for a 10 per cent. increase in the fare on its lines operating within the city limits. This application was filed on June 1, and public hearings began soon afterward. Much testimony has been taken in attempts to verify the company's statement that its propeerty was worth $98,000,000 and that the return was inadequate.

No explanation for the withdrawal of the application was made by the company, but Ralph Peters, President of the company, said last night:

"The purpose of the withdrawal was to enable the company to take advantage of the 20 per cent. increase allowed by the Interstate Commerce Commission. We felt that all of the railroad companies should act together."

WHEAT MARKET WEAK.

But Prices Gain Considerable Strength at Close.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Forecast for generally fair and warmer weather and announcement that a large export business was done yesterday with Italy had some effect on the sentiment in wheat today, the market starting lower with persistent buying by a commission house with important seaboard connections. After opening 1c. lower to ⅝c. higher, with December $2.28@$2.28¾ and March $2.27, the market became weak, the March delivery going under yesterday's lowest figure.

Wheat later showed considerable strength, December going to a good premium over March, partly due to closing of spreads. The close was very strong, with prices at the high point, showing a net gain of 3@4¼c., December being $2.32¾@$2.33 and March $2.31.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER—Receipts yesterday 13,751 pkgs. The proportion of fancy butter continues small, and, while demand is no heavier, there is enough call for extras and higher scoring lots to cause some further advance in values. Medium and lower grades of butter show no improvement. Danish is selling slowly. Creamery, higher than extras, pound, 57¼@57¾c; extras, 92 score, 56½@56¾c; firsts, 90 to 91 score, 54@56c; firsts, 88 to 89 score, 51½@53c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 48½@50c; lower grades, 47@48c; Danish, casks, 52¾@54¼c; unsalted, higher than extras, 59¾@60¾c; extras, 58¼@59¼c; firsts, 54@57¼c; seconds, 51@53c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 55¾@56½c; good to prime, 51@53c; common to fair, 46@50c; ladles, current make, firsts, 46@46½c; seconds, 43@43½c; lower grades, 42@42½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 43@44c; No. 2, 42@42½c; lower grades, 38@41¼c.

EGGS—Receipts yesterday, 16,656 cases. On the higher qualities of fresh gathered eggs the market maintains a firm to strong tone. Offerings of stock suitable for the best class of trade are comparatively light and being taken promptly at firm prices, with some further advance quotable on some grades. Medium and lower qualities are still rather quiet and irregular, but the proportion of these in the receipts appears to be somewhat less, and there is no serious accumulation. Storage eggs are held firmly, and there is considerable demand for all grades at the range of recent quotations. White eggs of fancy quality are in light supply and firm. Medium and lower grades are still irregular, but are cleaning up rather better, and prices are averaging a little better than recently quoted. Fresh gathered, extras, dozen, 59@60c; extra firsts, 56@58c; firsts 52@58c; seconds, 46@50c; dirties, No. 1, 41@43c; checks, fair to choice, dry, 38@40c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, 53c; firsts, 48@52c; seconds, 45@48c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western, henery whites, extras, 71@72c; extra firsts, 68@70c; firsts, 63@68c; gathered whites, firsts to extra firsts, 63@70c; undergrades, 56@62c; Pacific Coast, white, extras, 71@72c; extra firsts, 67@70c; firsts, 62@65c; undergrades, 54@60c; Petaluma, small, 54@56c; other Western and Southern, gathered whites, 55@66c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western, hennery browns, extras, 62@66c; gathered brown and mixed colors, graded extras, 59@60c; firsts to extra firsts, 52@58c.

INTERVENES IN ILLINOIS ON INTRASTATE RATES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Exercising the authority over intrastate rates granted it by the Transportation act, the Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered hearings at Chicago Sept. 8 on the application of Illinois railroads to increase their intrastate freight and passenger rates in conformity with the increases in interstate rates recently allowed by the commission.

The Illinois State Commission refused to grant the 20 per cent. increase in passenger rates asked by the roads, and allowed an advance of only 33 1-3 per cent. in freight rates, as against the 40 per cent. requested. The commission is expected to intervene in other States where the applications of the roads have been refused.

The railroads represented to the Federal commission that the action of the Illinois rate making body would result in discriminations in rates in Illinois.

In applying to the Federal commission for the original increases in freight, passenger, Pullman, excess baggage and milk rates the roads predicated their case upon corresponding advances in intrastate rates, and it had been announced that if the State commissions refused to grant corresponding advances the Federal body would be asked to exercise its authority under the Transportation act.

An injunction restraining the Illinois Public Utilities Commission from enforcing the State law which fixes an intrastate fare of 2 cents a mile after Sept. 1 was issued today by Federal Judges Baker, Geiger and English.

ALLOWS 7-CENT FARE.

Up-State Service Commission Grants Increase in Rochester.

ALBANY, Aug. 24.—The Public Service Commission for the Second District today authorized the New York State Railways to charge a 7-cent fare in Rochester on one day's notice to the public.

The commission also fixed the maximum fare to be charged in Johnstown, Gloversville and Amsterdam by the Donda, Johnstown & Gloversville Railroad Company at 8 cents.

INDIANA MINERS GET RISE.

Supplemental Contract Is Signed Giving Increase to Day and Monthly Men.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 24.—A supplemental contract by which the day and monthly men employed at the coal mines in Indiana receive a substantial increase was signed late today by the Joint Wage Scale Committee of the Indiana coal operators and miners, the new schedule to be in effect from Aug. 16, 1920.

Telegrams advising of the finding and ordering the men to return to work were sent to all officials and members of all local unions of District 11, United Mine Workers of America.

Virtually all of the mines in Indiana remained closed today, the day workers having refused to heed orders of their officials that they return to work, pending settlement of the dispute.

Meanwhile industrial plants throughout the State were being forced to close in considerable numbers because of lack of fuel.

"We Have Nothing to Advertise"

FREQUENTLY we meet men who will agree to the influence of advertising in building up the sale of products in every other line of business but their own. They say—"it can't be done"—"our case is different."

Yet day after day advertising is being successfully applied to businesses that once "could not be advertised." Look at your magazines or newspapers, at the billboards or car cards. You will find there the messages of companies that sell bonds—pins—sugar machinery—cables—professional service—etc.—etc.

No matter what you make or what you have to sell, it can be advertised. For, after all, advertising is simply telling your public the story of your product or your service, by the cheapest and most effective means.

It is the function of an advertising agency to help you find the electrifying point in your business, and then to place it before the people you are most interested in swaying.

COTTON MEN PLAN FIGHT ON BEARS

PRESENT CROP IS COSTLY

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 24.—The American Cotton Association has issued a call to arms against the "bear forces that are unjustly pressing the price of cotton down" and a meeting will be held in this city tomorrow which promises to be the most representative of the cotton producing interests which ever convened.

Declaring that the present cotton crop is the most costly ever produced, and holding that the South faces financial bankruptcy unless prices rise, officials of the organization are formulating a program which they believe is the only solution of the cotton-growing States.

"We are struggling against bankruptcy," said J. S. Wanamaker, President of the association. "Unless conditions change, our Southland will be in worse condition than in 1914. If we do not sell this crop at a reasonable profit above the cost of production, we are through with cotton and will begin the growing of food crops."

The program to be submitted tomorrow contains a 50 per cent. reduction in acreage, accomplished by a legal, binding contract; the formation of a foreign corporation, with a capital stock of 1,000,000 bales of cotton, and the launching of a determined holding campaign.

This meeting will be the first of a series to be held in every Southern State. Next week at Montgomery a meeting will be held at which a minimum price is to be fixed. The Texas division has already announced that it will adopt the program agreed upon here, and other States are expected to do the same.

FOUNDRY TRADE OPTIMISTIC

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 24.—Manufacturers representing thirty of the largest companies engaged in the production of foundry equipment declared in a conference of the American Foundry Equipment Manufacturers' Association at the Traymore today that business conditions "rapidly are trending toward the normal."

The situation in the foundry equipment industry was declared to be essentially as follows:

"Transportation conditions are much better than they were.

"Labor is much more plentiful than at any time for months and quantity of output is rising steadily.

"Orders are not so heavy as at the beginning of the year, but the situation is rapidly getting back to normal.

"With the election over and in the light of existing prospects we shall have no fears as to the future, especially if the election goes right."

President Irigoyen Recommends Exemption from Export Tax.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 24.—Enactment of a law exempting wools from export tax and authorizing the Government to negotiate with foreign Governments for the sale of this commodity on credits extending not more than two years was recommended by President Irigoyen in his message to Congress today.

The measure is intended to aid holders of wool in disposing of large surplus stocks accumulated on account of a black market. It was announced the Argentine National Bank would discount the documents of sale.

GAIN IN JULY EXPORTS.

Jump $23,000,000 Over June Record—Imports $16,000,000 Less.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Exports during July were $23,000,000 greater than in June, while imports decreased $16,000,000. Trade figures made public today by the Department of Commerce place the value of July exports at $654,000,000 and imports at $537,000,000.

Exports for the first seven months of this calendar year totaled $4,902,000,000, an increase of 6 per cent. over the corresponding period last year, while imports were valued at $3,482,000,000, an increase of 78 per cent. over the same period last year.

The excess of exports over imports amounted to $117,000,000 in July and $1,420,000,000 for the seven months, compared with $225,000,000 for July and $2,672,000,000 for the corresponding seven months of 1919.

Gold imports for the month amounted to $19,817,758 and exports $21,872,783, while for the seven months ended with July imports totaled $144,268,949 and exports $217,288,653. Silver imports for July totaled $6,496,229, and exports $5,494,336, and for the seven months period imports amounted to $62,575,255 and exports $87,615,984.

DENIES RUSH FOR CANDY.

Confectioner Says Dry Law's Aid Has Been Exaggerated.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Candy has not taken the place of alcohol for those who formerly indulged in beverages now under prohibition ban, according to Walter C. Hughes, Secretary of the National Confectioners' Association.

In a letter to the State Department relative to the coming session of the International Congress Against Alcoholism, Mr. Hughes today placed the confectionary industry as fifth among those benefited by prohibition. Savings banks, the soft-drink industry, ice-cream makers, and moving-picture theatres, in the order given, had drawn greater proportionate profits out of the dry edict than the candy trade, he said.

"The theory that men addicted to the use of alcohol have become candy eaters since the advent of prohibition is based entirely upon wrong premises and is not logical" he wrote. "More candy is being consumed because the people have more money to spend, not alone for candy, but for everything else which adds to their comfort or pleasure."

Montreal Gazette to be 5 Cents.

MONTREAL, Aug. 24.—The Montreal Gazette will announce tomorrow that on and after Sept. 1, 1920, the price of the paper will be 5 cents. The announcement will state that the new price represents an advance to subscribers of about one-third the increased cost of publication, and that the average percentage increase in costs has been 170 per cent. in the last six years.

Daughter Contests Kessler Will.

The will of David Kessler, producer of plays in Yiddish, who died May 14 last and who left his entire estate to his wife, Mrs. Ray Kessler, with the request that she educate their daughters, Sylvia, 10, and Natalie, 7, was contested yesterday by another daughter, Mrs. Ida Heine, who was not mentioned in the document. She alleges that the will was executed as the result of undue influence, fraud and deceit practised by the widow.

CUSTOMS MEN IN PROTEST.

The possibility of wholesale resignations loomed large yesterday, when it was learned that the 471 Customs Inspectors were planning to present a long list of grievances to Byron R. Newton, Collector of the Port. Failing in their efforts to reach a satisfactory understanding with Collector Newton, the men will appeal to Washington, it was said, and if no success follows their efforts they will resign.

Most of the grievances centre around the distribution of the $500,000 allotment voted by Congress to customs employes. If the money were distributed fairly, the men say, each would receive enough to meet the increased cost of living. But it is claimed that members of the Port Personnel Committee, in charge of the readjustment of the wage schedule, have voted large increases to themselves and little to other employes.

Under the new schedule, it was said, some members of the Port Personnel Committee receive increases of $400 and $500, while Inspectors get increases of 50 cents a day, and messengers, some with families dependent on them, receive increases of but 10 cents a day. The Inspectors have been receiving $4 and $4.50 a day, and under the new wage scale would receive $4.50 and $5. They ask for $6.

The men will appoint a committee to call on Collector Newton for a readjustment of the increases. They will also ask for a more rigid adherence to the application of civil service regulations in handling promotions.

The old-fashioned brown sugar has not slumped in price lige the granulated sugar, due, according to dealers, to the big demand combined with the scarcity of this product, generally considered the most suited for making drinks with a "kick." One grocer said he had reduced the price of his brown sugar to 19 cents along with granulated sugar, but other dealers said that the price of brown sugar was still around 26 cents. It was reported that one dealer was selling brown sugar at 29 cents.

Only two of the large refineries in this city handle the old-fashioned brown sugar—the American and Warner. Neither is offering any sugar to the trade at this time. The American's last quotation on Dominion old-fashioned brown sugar was 23 cents a pound, a half a cent more than the quotation on granulated sugar. Warner's last quotation was 23¼ cents, being three-fourths of a cent lower than the price for granulated. Managers of two large chain stores said yesterday they had no brown sugar and were unable to obtain it.

The American Sugar Refining Company, which announced Monday its temporary withdrawal from the market, gave out a statement in which it was said that they were "continuing to complete delivery of undelivered contracts."

One of the first and largest building operations on the former James Gordon Bennett property, Fort Tryon Arms, a six-story apartment house now in course of construction at 183d Street and Fort Washington Avenue, has been sold from the plans to a syndicate of prospective tenants.

The structure, which is being erected by the Fort Tryon Holding Corporation, calls for an investment of approximately $500,000. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy next March.

The future tenants who are buying the structure have formed the Fort Tryon Arms Corporation, with a capital of $250,000, and it is represented by Witkind & Brodsky as attorneys.

6. That said receiver, within ten days after the date of this decree, shall execute a bond with surety to be approved by this court and to be filed with the clerk thereof in the sum of Fifty Thousand ($50,000) Dollars, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties in the premises, and to account for all funds coming into his hands according to the order of this court.

Printing Facts

There is a tendency to leave out the vertical rules in tabular work. When this is done it is often possible to set tables on the linotype. Even when tabular work is done on the monotype there is considerable economy in leaving out the vertical rules. Sometimes they make for easier reading; but where clearness is possible without them a considerable saving can be effected by omitting them.

SING SING'S PAPER WILL BE RESUMED

ALBANY CENSORSHIP LIFTED

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 24.—The print shop at Sing Sing is working overtime tonight in hope of running the August number of The Sing Sing Bulletin off the press before the month ends. Decision to resume the interrupted publication of the prison paper after its career of twenty-one years was checked a week ago by a controversy between Warden Lewis Lawes and State prison officials was reached today, when the parties to the conference composed their differences.

Not only will publication of the paper be continued, but Charles E. Chapin, former New York newspaper editor, now in prison for the murder of his wife, will remain as its head. Warden Lawes in announcing that the dispute was ended announced that the paper would be "censored" at Sing Sing and not at Albany, an announcement in which Deputy Superintendent of Prisons James Long concurred.

There were signs of constraint on both sides when State Supt. Charles F. Rattigan and Mr. Long reached the Warden's office to discuss the whole question, but when they emerged there was evidence of restored good feeling. Mr. Rattigan said he had nothing to say, but that Warden Lawes, who was running the prison, could talk.

As Mr. Rattigan stepped into an adjoining room Warden Lawes said:

"The Sing Sing Bulletin will be continued. The suspension has been lifted. The differences over it have been ironed out."

"It will be run as it has been," added Mr. Long. "It will be carefully edited and censored."

"Here," replied Long.

"There is no conflict of authority between the Warden's and the Superintendent's office," said Warden Lawes. "There is no hard feeling over the matter."

Both Warden Lawes and Mr. Long agreed that the proof sheets would not be sent to Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Governor Smith is to confer in New York on Thursday with Warden Lawes of Sing Sing and will then get some first-hand information as to the reasons why suspension of The Sing Sing Bulletin was ordered. The Governor expects to go to New York from Binghamton, where he will be tomorrow, and he said tonight he expected Lawes to call upon him.

The Governor said he had the positive assurance of Charles E. Rattigan, State Superintendent of Prisons, that he did not order the paper stopped. The only thing Rattigan insisted upon, he said, was that proofs of articles should first be submitted to him at his office in Albany in order that he might pass upon them before publication. Rattigan explained to the Governor that this was not to be censorship, but only to check up various statements concerning the Prison Department with facts.

One instance was cited where the prison paper assailed the Parole Board because one of the men paroled was out of the jurisdiction of the board. The Governor said the facts in the case were that at the time the man was paroled he was serving time in a California prison.

"I am positive that I never ordered the paper stopped," declared the Governor, "and Superintendent Rattigan says he did not. But I shall have a talk with Warden Lawes on Thursday and that will end the matter, I believe."

Save Retailer's and Wholesaler's profits

Now suppose that store sells 10,000 suits a year—a pretty fair volume. In that case, the merchant must ask $10 a suit to cover his retail overhead.

Then he must have a profit for himself and a profit for his wholesaler.

All in all, you're paying a tribute of about $15 to $25 for retail and wholesale salesmanship, for the clothes you buy in the usual retail way.
